Question. Who have died this year?

1. Enoch George, late bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was born in the state of Virginia, Lancaster county, in the year 1767 or '68. His mother died when he was young, and he was left to the care of an elder sister. During his minority his father removed to the state of North Carolina. At about the age of eighteen or nineteen he became, through the instrumentality of the Methodist ministry, deeply convinced of sin, and sought and obtained the pardoning mercy of God, through our Lord Jesus Christ. He was soon called to the exercise of public prayer and exhortation; and after fruitless struggles to suppress the impression of duty which increasingly rested upon his mind, with great diffidence he entered the field of labour as a preacher. He travelled a short time with Philip Cox, and was then sent, by Bishop Asbury, to assist Daniel Asbury in forming a circuit on the head waters of the Catawba and Broad Rivers.

In 1790 he was received into the itinerant connection on trial, and appointed to Pamlico circuit; and in 1791 to Caswell. In 1792 he was admitted into full connection, ordained deacon, and appointed to Guilford circuit; and in 1793 to Broad River. In 1794 he was ordained elder, and appointed to Great Pee Dee. The next year he was appointed to Edisto, with instructions to labour three months in Charleston, South Carolina; and the two years following he filled the office of presiding elder.

In 1798, on account of ill health, he travelled to the north as far as New-York. Having measurably recovered his health, in 1800 he resumed his labours, and was appointed presiding elder of Potomac district, in the Baltimore Conference. His health failed a second time, and he located in 1801. In 1803 he again entered the itinerant field, and was appointed to Frederick circuit; in 1804 to Baltimore district; 1805, Alexandria district; 1807, Georgetown, D. C.; 1808, Frederick; 1809, Montgomery; 1810, Baltimore circuit; 1811, Potomac district; and in 1815 to Georgetown district.

At the General Conference held in Baltimore, May, 1816, he was elected and ordained bishop. In the active discharge of the arduous duties of this highly responsible office he continued until his death. He died at Staunton, Va., August 23, 1828, in the peace and triumph of gospel faith, and with his latest breath giving "glory to God."

Bishop George was a man of deep piety, of great simplicity of manners, a very pathetic, powerful, and successful preacher, greatly beloved in life, and very extensively lamented in death.

This brief memoir has been prepared at the instance of committees appointed for the purpose by the Baltimore and New-York Annual Conferences, and is inserted at their request. A fuller biographical notice of this late excellent servant of God will appear in the Methodist Magazine and Quarterly Review.

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

2. Richard Neeley was born at Rowan county, North Carolina, January 13, 1802. While young his parents removed to Rutherford county, Tennessee. On the 20th of August, 1819, he obtained religion, and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. In April, 1821, he was licensed to exhort; in September following, to preach; and in the same year was admitted into the travelling connection. During this conference year he was the honoured instrument of commencing our very successful mission among the Cherokee Indians, and formed a society of thirty-three natives. In 1823 he was appointed missionary and teacher of the school at Creek Path; and in 1824 to form Wills Valley circuit, where he laboured two years with much success. On this circuit, through unremitting exertions and great exposure, his health began to decline. In 1826 he was supernumerary; in 1827, superannuated; and on the 22d of February, 1828, peacefully expired. He was a man of good mind and pleasing manners; a pious Christian and a useful minister. His "dear Cherokee friends" were much on his heart in his last moments, and many converted Indians will delight to cherish a recollection of the name and labours of Richard Neeley.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

3. Asbury Morgan, who was born in Mecklenburg county, Virginia, August 25, 1797. When he was about eighteen months old, his parents removed to Georgia. In 1811, at a camp meeting, he was deeply awakened to a sense of his sinfulness, but did not experience renewing grace till some time in the ensuing year. He soon after joined the church, and was early impressed with the obligation to call sinners to repentance. In 1818 he was admitted on trial into the itinerant connection, and continued to travel and labour till 1825, when he had a violent attack of fever, which brought him near to the grave. His constitution from this time was greatly impaired, and at the ensuing Conference he received a superannuated relation. His health improved, and the next year he again took an appointment, and laboured with great zeal and success. In 1828 he was appointed to Charleston, South Carolina, and entered upon, and performed the arduous duties of that station with all his heart. In September he was attacked with the fatal "strangers' fever," and, after suffering beyond description, breathed his last on the 25th of that month. In an early stage of the disease he was deprived of the power of speech. What little he had been able to say previously was highly satisfactory; and if he could have said nothing, his holy life would have been to his friends an abundant pledge of his happy end. Brother Morgan was not a man of splendid talents, but was acceptable and useful. He was of very amiable temper, and his unaffected meekness and humility, with the endearing affability of his manners, seldom failed to gain the hearts of those who knew him. His work is accomplished before the noon of life, and he is gone to praise more perfectly the Redeemer whom he loved.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

4. Samuel Garrard was a native of Orange county, North Carolina. Neither the date of his birth nor of his conversion has been furnished. His youthful character was marked by industry, frugality, and perseverance. After satisfactory evidence of his piety and gifts, in the year 1800 the Virginia Conference received him as a probationer. From this time he travelled and laboured on various circuits till 1809, when he was called upon to discharge the important duties of a presiding elder, and appointed to Yadkin district. In 1821 he was compelled, from severe affliction, to take a superannuated relation, in which he remained until his decease. Brother Garrard was well received and useful. He was a man of warm feeling, strong in his attachments, fervent in spirit, animated in his sermons, exhortations, and prayers, and great in revivals; in these his excellences appeared to the best advantage. He departed this life on the 5th of May, 1828, near the place of his birth. A little before the final pang, in reply to a question respecting his prospects beyond the grave, he said, "I have had my failings and imperfections in common with other men; but my trust is reposed in Christ alone, who died for me—by whose stripes we are healed."

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

5. Robert Minshall was born in Pennsylvania, in the year 1788, and departed this life July 15, 1828, at Mercersburg, Franklin county, Pennsylvania, in the fortieth year of his age, and the fifteenth of his ministry.

Brother Minshall's aim was to glorify God, and find his way to heaven, and that aim he steadily pursued. His talents, piety, and zeal, made him, through grace, extensively useful. In the formation and support of sabbath schools and tract societies he was very successful; and an instrumentality in establishing one of these excellent institutions on the Clear Spring circuit, on which he ended his labours, was one of the last public acts of his life.

While the memory of Robert Raikes, as the great author of sabbath school instruction, shall survive, the name of Robert Minshall, in another land, and at another period, should be associated with it, as a constant friend and an efficient supporter. Those societies formed under his direction, and cherished and supported by his zeal, shall form at least a portion of his monument; and the "houseless orphan," as he passes the grave of Minshall, shall point to the spot and say, "There lies my friend."

His life was closed in circumstances of great mercy. Of his acceptance with God he continued to enjoy the strongest assurance. Being asked by his deeply afflicted companion in reference to her future situation, should he be taken from her, he replied, "I have been a travelling man; my lot is in heaven." He died with the shout of triumph, and went to his heavenly home, exclaiming, "Glory, glory, for ever and ever."

6. William H. Chapman was a native of Maryland, and became, while young, a subject of the pardoning mercy of God.

In 1821, having been convinced of his call to the work of the ministry, he was received on trial in the Baltimore Conference. In the appointments which he filled, his labours were considerably blessed. He was plain in his manners, searching and powerful in his appeals to the heart, diligent in the duties of his office, and possessed, in a high degree, "that mind which was also in our Lord Jesus Christ." His last appointment was to Loudoun circuit, on which he closed his labours and his life, April 24, 1828. In his afflictions he was prepared to surrender into the hands of his God himself, his family, and his all; and some of the last words he was heard to utter were, "Glory, glory."

7. Samuel M'Pherson was born in the county of Donnegal, Ireland, in the year 1797 or 1798, and through the counsel and prayers of his pious mother, with the influences of the divine Spirit, he became, when not more than ten years of age, the subject of religious awakenings.

In the year 1814 he came to this country, and settled in Fredericksburg, Virginia.

In the year 1818 he united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1825 he was received on trial in the Baltimore Conferance and appointed to Severn circuit, and continued to labour acceptably and successfully on various circuits till 1828, when he was entered on the Minutes as without an appointment, in consequence of affliction. His health continued to decline till the ensuing August, when he finished his course in great peace, near Staunton, Virginia.

Brother M'Pherson was a young man of great prudence, industrious in his habits, and friendly and sociable in his disposition. He lived much in his closet, and enjoyed an intimate communion with "the Father of his spirit." He promised extensive usefulness, but his race was short. He fell a martyr to his work. It was enough.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

8. Samuel Doughty was born in Philadelphia, in January, 1794. In 1816, in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, he became a subject of the renewing grace of God, and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. He soon returned to Philadelphia, and in 1823 was admitted on trial as an itinerant preacher. During that year and the following he travelled Asbury circuit. The next two years he was stationed at New-Brunswick, and in 1827 and 1828 in Philadelphia.

Brother Doughty, as a preacher, was popular and useful. His discourses were frequently truly eloquent; and had his voice been equal to his other qualifications as a speaker, he would have attained much greater eminence. His literary and theological acquirements were highly respectable, of which his sermons in the Methodist Magazine, particularly that entitled "Instability in Religion," afford satisfactory evidence.

His zeal for the glory of God and the welfare of men appeared in the interest which he took in the success of benevolent institutions. He was their eloquent advocate, and was particularly active in the promotion of Sunday schools, both before and after he became a minister of the gospel. Just previously to his death he was engaged, with others, in organizing and bringing into operation a Conference Sunday School Union, auxiliary to the Sunday School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which auxiliary he was corresponding secretary. In September, 1828, he was invited to assist in certain religious exercises at the enlargement of the church edifice in Wilmington, Delaware, and was there seized with the illness which terminated his life and labours on the 17th of that month, at the house of the Rev. Solomon Higgins. He died in great peace, rejoicing that death, to him, "had no terrors." He was highly respected and beloved, and the tribute of affection paid to his memory by the numerous and weeping members of his charge, who followed him to his grave, was gratifying to his brethren and to his surviving relatives.

9. Watters B. Jones was born in the year 1800, in New-Providence, New-Jersey. When about eighteen years of age he was happily converted to God, from which time he "adorned the doctrine of God our Saviour" by the most lively devotion and exemplary deportment. About the year 1822 he began to devote himself to studies having a special reference to the ministry, exhorting occasionally till 1824, when he was placed by the presiding elder of the West Jersey district on Freehold circuit, which appointment he filled acceptably. In 1825 he was received on trial by the Philadelphia Conference, and was successively appointed to Smyrna, Dover, and Queen Ann's circuits. In 1828 he was appointed the second time to Queen Ann's, and there finished his course, on Kent Island, September 6. His illness lasted about a fortnight, and he bore it with great patience and resignation.

Our dear brother, from his youth, possessed a kind and pleasing disposition, and great excellence of character; and when grace had renewed his heart, his virtues were displayed in such a form as rendered him exceedingly amiable. As a Christian, he was an ornament to the church; and as a minister, well read in the word of God. From that treasury he drew largely, as a faithful and wise steward, sound in faith, and "in doctrine uncorrupt." His discourses were generally well arranged, simply and clearly illustrated, and faithfully and affectionately applied. His worth as a man, a Christian, and a minister, cannot be estimated by this memoir.

10. Laurence Lawrenson departed this life in the fiftieth year of his age, on the 4th day of April, 1829, at the residence of the Rev. John Goforth, Cecil county, Maryland. On the previous sabbath he preached at Port Deposit, and thence accompanied his friend to his dwelling. On arriving he complained of his throat, which became swollen and increasingly painful until the pain was extreme; yet neither he nor his friends apprehended that it would terminate so seriously. On the day of his death he walked across the chamber, and, being weak, his attendant aided him to his bed, on which he lay down. His attendant then turned from him; but, observing him to be perfectly still, returned to the bed to ascertain the cause. His spirit had fled. Brother Lawrenson embraced religion in the year 1800, and in 1810 was admitted on trial into the Philadelphia Conference. In the various stations assigned him he laboured with distinguished acceptability and success. As presiding elder he endeared himself to the preachers and people. He possessed a noble and generous mind; and although greatly subject to lowness of spirit, which sometimes disqualified him for entering upon his work with that zeal and enterprise for which he was otherwise distinguished, yet, under the influence of a divine unction, he often preached with an energy, eloquence, and effect equalled by few, and perhaps exceeded by none. Then truly his preaching was "not in word only," but in "demonstration of the Spirit and with power." He triumphantly soared above his constitutional infirmity, and poured forth the truths of the everlasting gospel with an ardour that evinced his sincerity, and with an affection that gained the attention and melted the hearts of his hearers. And now he lives to die no more.

11. Thomas Everard was a native of England. He came to America previously to the revolution, some time after which he embraced religion, and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In the year 1790 his name first appears in the Minutes as an itinerant preacher. In this relation he continued, mostly in the Philadelphia Conference, until his decease, excepting three years, from 1794 to 1797, in which he was located, and made two or three voyages to his native country, which he also visited again in 1820. For several years preceding his death he sustained a superannuated relation, and spent his time chiefly in and about Philadelphia, where he died in the month of May, 1828, at an advanced period of life. Brother Everard was a man of genuine piety, and of great simplicity and zeal. His talents as a preacher were respectable. The testimonials which he brought with him, in 1823, from his last visit to England, where he had spent more than two years, were highly creditable. In the inscrutable providence of God he was deprived, in the latter part of his life, of the use of his reason, and reduced to a state of utter derangement. But He who is rich in goodness did not suffer his sun to set in clouds. A few hours before his death the light of intellect beamed from his mind, and the light of heaven upon his heart. Some of his last words were appropriate and pleasing quotations from Scripture, and he finished with the triumphant exclamation, "All is well!"

12. Jacob Moore was born in Sussex county, Delaware, in the year 1791. He became a subject of the converting grace of God and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church at a very early period of life. In April, 1815, he entered the travelling connection in the Philadelphia Conference. His ministerial labours were chiefly in New-Jersey, and in the peninsula composed of the state of Delaware and the Eastern Shores of Maryland and Virginia; within which, besides travelling various circuits, he was two years presiding elder of the West Jersey and two years of the Chesapeake district.

Our departed brother was an exemplary Christian and an able minister of the gospel. His application to study was intense, and his proficiency great. But he had an extremely feeble body, and was several times, during the course of his ministry, brought to the verge of the grave, and almost miraculously raised up again to pursue his sacred vocation.

He was on his way from Queen Ann's circuit to the Conference in Philadelphia, in 1828, when he was arrested by the disease which terminated his earthly existence. To several of the preachers who called to see him he gave the most satisfactory assurances that he was dying in the Lord, and in the latter part of April, 1828, at the house of his kind friend, Dr. Bates, in Dover, Delaware, he quietly fell asleep in Jesus, in the thirty-seventh year of his age.

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

ISAAC CANDEE. He was received on trial into the itinerant connection in the year 1801, being then in the thirty-seventh year of his age. In 1811, in consequence of many and great infirmities, he took a supernumerary relation, in which he continued till 1821. The next year he located, and in 1824 was readmitted and received a superannuated relation, in which he continued until his death. He died at Somers, in West Chester county, N. Y., December 22d, 1828, in the sixty-fourth year of his age, in peace with God and man, and in full hope of a blissful immortality. Brother Candee was a sincere Christian, an affectionate relative, a warm-hearted friend, and a serious, solemn, and successful minister of Jesus Christ; and such was the respect which was entertained for him in his immediate neighbourhood, that the citizens kindly contributed, with other friends, to furnish his widow and daughter with a comfortable house, which they now hold as their own property: so truly "a Father of the fatherless and a Judge of the widows is God in his holy habitation."

MAINE CONFERENCE.

14. NATHANIEL P. DEVERAUX was born January 1, 1803, in Castine, Maine. He became a subject of converting grace in 1818. In 1820 he received license as a local preacher, and was admitted on trial into the itinerant connection in 1826. In 1828 he was admitted into full connection, received deacon's orders, and was appointed to Calais circuit, where his last ministerial labours were performed. On his way from Conference he visited his father's family, in Palmyra, and preached three times in the vicinity on the following sabbath. After evening service, in a state of perspiration, he sat conversing in the open air, until the damp chill of night laid the foundation of that fatal disease which terminated his life. A most severe cough ensued, and soon produced the ravage of a rapid consumption. He was able to do but little service in the circuit, although he continued in it until the last of December. He then returned to his father's house, and continued to linger until April 28th, when his sufferings were exchanged for the rest which remains to the people of God. His preaching talents were acceptable, and his faithful labours were crowned with the salvation of souls. His death was peaceful and happy. His last words were—

"I will not let thee go
Till all I have is lost in thee,
And all renew'd I am."

Decrease of whites	1814	Increase 202

From the above it would appear that there has been a decrease in this Conference this year of 1814 whites. It should be recollected, however, that a part of Kentucky Conference was, by the late General Conference, added to the Tennessee Conference. According to the best estimate, (from the Minutes,) the number thus stricken from us is 2738 whites and 382 col., leaving us a nett increase this year of 925 whites and 584 coloured.

Question. Who have died this year?

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

1. John Fisk was born October 11, 1804, in Monroe county, Va. He removed with his parents at an early age to Montgomery county, Ky. At the age of sixteen he was awakened, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church: soon after he found "the pearl of great price," and was enabled to rejoice in the God of his salvation.

In 1824 he received a license as an exhorter. In the close of the same year he rode and preached, for a few weeks, upon the Lexington circuit. In 1825 he was employed by the presiding elder on Danville circuit. In 1826 he joined the Kentucky Annual Conference, and was appointed to Jefferson circuit; and in 1827, to Elizabeth circuit, where an attack of fever disqualified him for some time for discharging the duties of a travelling preacher.

At the Conference of 1828 he was ordained a deacon, and appointed to the Lebanon circuit. He was returned to this circuit again for 1829; but before he had completed his first round he was attacked with the disease which terminated his valuable life.

His sun set without a cloud. When language failed, he made signs to his friends that all was well. His life was useful, and his death triumphant.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

2. Henry Holmes was born October 5th, 1785, in the county of Princess Ann, Virginia; and was born again of the Spirit the 15th day of February, 1806. He was soon appointed leader of a class, and some time in that year received license to preach.

In 1811 he was admitted on trial in the Virginia Annual Conference, and appointed to the Camden circuit; in 1812 to the same circuit; and in 1813 to Edenton, where he married, and at the ensuing Conference asked for and obtained a location.

As a local minister, he was much beloved and highly respected. His exemplary and dignified walk as a Christian, and his piety and zeal as a preacher, gave to him an influence in society which rarely falls to the lot of any minister. His acquaintances, and the members of the church in particular, had the most unbounded confidence in his piety, and paid great deference to his judgment. The station of Edenton was often from necessity committed to the care of young men; but in our departed brother they never failed to find a willing helper and an able counsellor.

In 1822 he was readmitted into the Virginia Conference, and appointed to the Gates circuit. In 1823 he was appointed presiding elder of the Roanoke district, where he continued to preside until 1826. He was then removed to the Norfolk district, where he ended his labours and his life. For several years before his death he suffered severely from annual attacks of bilious fever, which, combined with the labours and fatigues of the very large and sickly district over which he presided, wore down his constitution, which was naturally strong and vigorous. In July, 1829, while attending his quarterly meetings in Portsmouth and Norfolk, he was taken sick; but after receiving some medical aid, was enabled to return home. Though much debilitated, he was not entirely confined to his bed until but a few days before his death. He was not thought by his friends or physician to be dangerously ill until the disease assumed the typhus form, which very speedily prostrated him. The usual remedies were resorted to in vain. On Sunday night, the 26th, he fell into a stupor from which he never recovered; and on Monday evening, the 27th of July, 1829, his happy soul took its departure from all sublunary cares, in the forty-fourth year of his age. Owing to the nature of the disease, he talked but little; but what he said about his future prospects was very satisfactory. On Sunday he observed to one of the brethren who was sitting by his bed, "Yesterday I examined myself closely, and I saw my way before me as clear as the rising sun."

That religion which he had for so many years recommended to others, both by precept and example, now abundantly sustained him in his last conflict. That blessed revelation from God, which has brought life and immortality to light, which he so often and so ably defended against the insidious attacks of infidels, now darted its divine rays across the valley and shadow of death, and pointed out to his exulting soul the New Jerusalem, the city of the living God.

Brother Holmes was well qualified to fill the station assigned him in the church of God. Heaven had blessed him with a talent for presiding. His administration was always marked with mildness and decision. Possessed of a retentive memory, and a sound, discriminating judgment, joined with a close application to the study of the Holy Scriptures, like the scribe that is well instructed unto the kingdom of God, he brought out of his treasure things new and old. Few men possessed greater variety in preaching than he did; and none more ably defended the doctrines and institutions of the church of which he was a member.

But he is gone. He no longer stands on the walls of Zion as a faithful sentinel to sound an alarm. No; that tongue, which was once so eloquent in its appeal to sinners, is now, by the chilling blast of death, for ever hushed into silence. But, like a faithful soldier, he fell at his post, covered with glory, and surrounded with the shouts of victory.

3. Christopher Thomas was born on the 31st of October, 1797, in Matthews county, Va., and departed this life on the 14th of November, 1829, at Joseph Bell's, in the town of Newbern, North Carolina. Though a moral youth, he saw the necessity of religion, sought and obtained it in 1816, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church.

In 1823 he was admitted on trial in the Virginia Conference, and was appointed to the Sussex circuit. In 1824, to the same circuit; 1825, Yadkin; 1826, Salisbury; 1827, Iredell; 1828, Williamsburg; and in 1829, to the town of Newbern, N. C.; all of which appointments he filled with ability and success, but especially the last. He was a plain man, of strict integrity, consistent Christianity, and highly respectable abilities. He was much devoted to the cause of God and the church of which he was a minister, and revivals of religion everywhere attended his ministrations.

While on Williamsburg circuit he was accosted by a mob, who said to him, "We intend to whip you, sir." To which he replied, with the utmost composure, "If you do, I hope God will give me grace to bear it." They executed their design, but he bore it with patience, and while on his death-bed he prayed for them particularly.

He delivered his last discourse on Rev. xii, 1, to a large congregation, about five weeks before his dissolution, in the conclusion of which he observed, "that he should never preach to them again," and accordingly gave them his dying advice. Being asked toward the close of his life if he was happy, he paused a moment, his face lighted up with joy and peace, he lifted up his hand, and said, "Perfectly happy; death is my friend; I live in Christ, and Christ is all to me." Just before his death he laid his hands upon his breast, looked around upon his friends, and said, "Farewell, farewell; I have all I desire," and died shouting, "Glory, hallelujah!" "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his!"

4. JOHN PANABAKER was born in Berkley county, Virginia, on the 21st of March, 1798, and experienced religion some time in 1821. Soon after his conversion he commenced exhorting and holding prayer meetings among his relations and acquaintances, many of whom were much benefited by his labours. He was received on trial in the Baltimore Conference in 1824, and was transferred to the Virginia Conference, and travelled his first year in the Culpepper circuit, where he was well received and useful. In 1825 he was sent to the Granville circuit, and was greatly owned and honoured of God in the conversion of many souls; upward of three hundred professing that year to find peace in believing. In 1826 he was sent to Beaufort and Straits, at which place also his labours were much blessed. In 1827 to Princess Ann. In this circuit he laboured with great success; between seven and eight hundred souls being added to the church. In 1828, through the earnest solicitations of many persons, and more especially from the prospect of his being still more useful, he was sent back to the same circuit, where he continued to labour until the last of July, when disease fastening upon his frame, naturally feeble, but rendered much more so by his arduous and persevering labours, he was compelled to retire from his post. After fruitless endeavours to recover his health, and being apprized by his physicians that his recovery was hopeless, he returned to the place of his nativity, and at the Conference held in Lynchburg, February, 1829, he obtained a superannuated relation. He continued to decline until Thursday, the 30th of April, when in sweet peace and confidence he sunk gently into the arms of death.

The talents of brother Panabaker were of the useful kind, as the great success which attended his labours demonstrates. He was a young man of great Christian simplicity; strong in his attachment to his brethren, and teachable and submissive to his superiors in office. But his labours are at an end; his conflicts are past, and he has gone, we have no doubt, where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest.

5. WILLIAM N. ABINGTON was born September 30, 1798, in the county of Patrick, Virginia; and on the 14th day of September, 1823, the Lord graciously pardoned his sins, and brought peace to his troubled soul. It was not very long before he felt that a dispensation of the gospel was committed unto him: and after resisting the call until he found his own happiness depended upon his obedience, he was received on trial in the Virginia Conference, in February, 1827, and received his appointment to the Salisbury circuit, and in 1828 to Guilford. In 1829 he was received into full connection, ordained deacon, and sent to the Raleigh circuit. In consequence of affliction he went to his father's, where he continued until he had so far recovered as to feel able to return to his work. But shortly after he suffered a relapse, went to the house of Mr. David Mock, in the Salisbury circuit, lingered a few days, and then departed this life, on the 14th day of September, 1829.

Brother Abington was zealous, laborious, and useful, and was much beloved by the people among whom he laboured. In his last illness he manifested great devotion to God; was patient in affliction, and fully resigned to death.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

6. JOHN CHILDS was born in Calvert county, state of Maryland. We are not able to ascertain precisely the date of his birth, or the time he embraced religion, to which his attention had been directed at an early age. He very soon gave evidence of his call to the ministry, and was licensed to preach as a local preacher. In this relation he sustained a fair and honourable standing, and his success in the execution of his office was acknowledged in the conversion of many. Being unwilling to confine his labours to so small a space, he was admitted into the Baltimore Annual Conference on trial, and received his first appointment on Montgomery circuit in 1789. Prevented by a dispensation of Providence, over which he had no control, he was compelled to relinquish his missionary pursuits, and return again to his agricultural employment. In this situation he continued until 1816, when he applied for readmission into the Conference, and was appointed to Lancaster circuit; in 1817 to Baltimore circuit; 1818, Montgomery; 1819-20, Great Falls; 1821, Carlisle; 1822, Chambersburg; and in 1823 he received a location. But although enfeebled by age and labour, in 1827 he returned to the Conference, with a desire to spend the remainder of his days with his travelling brethren. He received an appointment on Huntingdon circuit, at which time his health began to fail. In 1828, at his own request, he was appointed to Severn circuit, hoping that his health would be there restored; but in this he was disappointed. In 1829 he received a superannuated relation, and retired among his friends in the District of Columbia, for the purpose of obtaining medical aid. But alas! every effort was in vain. His disease increased in violence, and terminated his earthly existence at an advanced age, at the house of Mr. Thomas Jacobs, of Alexandria. He was highly esteemed as a man and as a Christian minister, and died expressing his entire confidence in God his Saviour.

7. Simon L. Booker was born in Stevensburg, Frederick county, Virginia, and embraced religion in 1817. Soon after his conversion he went to the west, and in 1821 was received on trial by the Kentucky Conference, and appointed to Monroe circuit; in 1822 to Red River: in 1823 he was ordained deacon, and appointed to Green River circuit; 1824, Hopkinsville: in 1825 ordained elder, and transferred to the Baltimore Conference; in 1826 he was reappointed to Monroe; in 1827 to Prince George's; 1828, Fairfax; but the preacher in charge of Loudoun circuit dying, brother Booker was appointed to fill the vacancy. Here it pleased God, by a gracious outpouring of his Spirit, to revive his work, and many souls were converted and added to the church. In this revival so great was his zeal for the Redeemer's interest and the salvation of his fellow-men that he laboured beyond his strength, and though frequently admonished of the probable effect, he could not be induced to abate his exertions. While thus ardently and successfully engaged in the cause of his divine Master he was attacked by an influenza, and unguardedly sleeping in damp sheets, this disease fastened upon his lungs and resulted in a pulmonary consumption. He was confined during the winter of 1828-29 at the residence of his presiding elder, in Middlebury, Virginia. In the spring of 1829, being led to hope that he would soon be able to resume his itinerant labours, he desired the Conference to give him an effective relation. His wish was granted, and he was appointed to Baltimore city, but never recovered sufficiently to go to the station. His late presiding elder (at whose house he had been confined) being appointed to the Foundry station in the city of Washington, it became necessary for him to move, and our brother accompanied him. After remaining a considerable time in this station, he was advised by his physician to try the effect of travelling. He complied, and proceeded as far as Stevensburg, in Virginia. Here he was compelled to desist, and at the house of his friend, Mr. Ritenour, finished his course, in August, 1829. A short time before he expired, he remarked, "I want a conductor to heaven," and a moment after triumphantly exclaimed, "I have one—a sublime one!" and without a struggle, leaned his head on Jesus' bosom, and breathed his life out sweetly there.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

8. Robert M'Coy, a native of Ireland, came to the United States in 1790, and was admitted into the travelling connection, on trial, in 1791, and appointed to Flanders circuit in 1792; Dutchess, 1793; Trenton, 1794; Saratoga, 1795; Salem, 1796; Caroline, 1797-8; Albany, 1799; Flanders, 1800; Strasburg and Chester, 1801; and Bristol, 1802. From this time to his decease he was either in a located or a superannuated relation. We are not in possession of the particulars of the last years of his life, as he had removed several years before his death within the bounds of another Conference. The only information to be relied on that we have is contained in a letter received from his widow, which states that "he died on the 11th of February, 1829, of dropsy, and very much resigned."

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

9. Moses Amedon was born October 10, 1794, in Reedsborough, Vt. He was the son of pious parents, who early instructed him in the principles of religion. He became the subject of religious experience about the age of seventeen or eighteen; was admitted on trial in the New-York Annual Conference in the year 1814, and was appointed to Montgomery circuit. He continued to labour in the several circuits to which he was appointed until arrested by disease in September, 1829. He was subsequently confined to his residence in Watervliet circuit, and ended his course on the 21st of March, 1830.

The most of the time during his affliction he was deprived of the use of his reason, and consequently, in this situation, but little concerning his spiritual exercises could be ascertained. The night preceding his dissolution his reason appeared to return, and on being asked the state of his mind, and whether he were willing to exchange worlds, he replied, "Willing, willing, willing!" and fell asleep in Jesus.

Question. Who have died this year?

The following memoirs have been necessarily abridged, for insertion here. They will be published at length (except such as may have been already published) in the Christian Advocate and Journal.—Eds.

PITTSBURG CONFERENCE.

1. James Babcock was born in Washington county, New-York, in March, 1800. He embraced religion in his sixteenth year; but lost it again by yielding to the fascinations of the world. In 1823 he was restored to the peace and favour of God; and in 1825 was licensed to preach, admitted on trial in the Pittsburg Conference, and appointed to Newcastle circuit. In 1826 and 1827 he travelled Shippensville circuit; and in 1828 his health had so declined as to require a superannuated relation. He died on the 8th of February, 1829.

Brother Babcock's talents, though respectable, were not of the brilliant kind. His piety, diligence, and zeal, rendered him useful; and in death he realized the advantages of that religion which he laboured to publish in his life. His end was not only peaceful, but triumphant.†

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

2. Josiah Patterson was born in South Carolina, May 12th, 1793. In 1812 he removed to the state of Tennessee, where, in the same year, he embraced religion, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. He soon began to manifest a deep concern for the salvation of his fellow men, and commenced exhorting them to turn to God. He was soon after licensed to preach, and in 1813 received into the travelling connection, and appointed to the Cash River circuit, in the then Territory of Illinois. From that time till 1827 he continued to travel on various circuits with great acceptability and usefulness; but in that year he sunk under the weight of his indefatigable labours, and was accordingly superannuated at the Conference held at Mt. Carmel, which relation he sustained till the day of his death. He died on the 15th of October, 1829, in the triumph of faith. He was eminently a man of faith and prayer, punctual in attending his appointments, faithful in preaching and visiting from house to house; and wherever he went, God owned and blessed his labours. Few men among us have been instrumental in bringing more souls to the Lord Jesus Christ than brother Patterson.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

3. Greenup Kelly was born in Lincoln county, Kentucky, September 25th, 1806. His parents being pious members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, he was early taught the fear of God, and was distinguished by friendship for his acquaintance, and dutifulness to his parents.

In the 20th year of his age he obtained the knowledge of sins forgiven, and was admitted on trial into the travelling connection, Kentucky Conference, in 1827, and appointed to Madison circuit; in 1828, to Port William; in 1829 he was admitted into full connection, ordained a deacon, and appointed to Hopkinsville. Here his health failed. During the early part of his affliction he was subject to great mental depression, and was sorely assaulted by the grand adversary; he was, however, sustained by an invisible arm, and led through fiery trials without being overcome. He returned to his father's, in the state of Indiana; where, after suffering much, he terminated his useful life by a peaceful and happy death, on the morning of the 4th of July, 1830.

He was a young man of extraordinary piety and qualifications for usefulness. But he has been cut down in the morning of life, and the church is, by an inscrutable providence, deprived of one of her most lovely ornaments. It becomes us to bow with submission to the divine dispensation, and pray that the same meek and lowly spirit that was so conspicuous in our departed brother may dwell abundantly in all his surviving brethren.

4. Leroy Cole was born June 5th, 1749, in Essex county, Virginia. He embraced religion and united with the Methodists in 1777. The same year he was authorized to preach, admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to Tar River, North Carolina. He continued to travel during the revolutionary war, and many years after. He served the church some years as a local preacher. In the latter years of his life he sustained a superannuated relation to the Kentucky Conference, and closed the scene of his sufferings by a triumphant death, February 6, 1830, in the 81st year of his age. For the stations he filled, see Minutes.

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

5. Coleman Harwell, a native of North Carolina, was born May 10th, 1800. He embraced religion in 1817, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church; in 1820 he was licensed to preach, and in 1822 was received into the travelling connection, and appointed to Shoal circuit; in 1823, to Lebanon; in 1824, to Beach River; in 1825, to Forked Deer; and in 1826, to Wayne. At the Conference of 1827 he obtained a supernumerary relation. In 1829 he became superannuated. The labours of brother Harwell were considerably blest; he was faithful and zealous in the cause of God, and no doubt fell a martyr to his work. His disease was pulmonary consumption, and his sufferings long and great. As his disease increased, he became more and more given up to God, declaring that his way was clear—adding, "Now, Lord, lettest thou thy servant depart in peace;" and on Sunday, July 5th, the scene of his sufferings closed for ever, in the 31st year of his age.

6. William M. Smith departed this life on the 27th day of July last, in Graves county, Kentucky, in the 27th year of his age. He embraced religion at the age of sixteen, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was shortly after appointed leader of the class to which he belonged, and continued about four years an active and spiritual guide to his brethren. He then entered the local ministry, and laboured acceptably two years, and was received on trial in the travelling connection in 1827. He travelled and preached in the Henderson, Obion, and Clark's River circuits, with zeal and success, leaving behind him the upright example of an humble and persevering minister of Christ. His name is cherished in the affectionate recollections of many; but his race was swift and short—he fell a victim to the bilious fever, while faithfully discharging the duties of his charge. He was arrested by affliction in June, and after patiently suffering for five weeks, he sunk under disease, and was summoned from on high to receive the reward of his labours. Just before his departure, after reviewing his life, and telling those around him that his work was accomplished, he exclaimed, "Now, Lord, lettest thou thy servant depart in peace;" and after a pause, in Christian triumph, cried out, "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"—and thus fell asleep in the arms of Christ. His life was a true comment on the doctrines he preached, and his death left behind him comfortable assurances that he is gone to rest.

7. Wesley Deskin was born of pious parents, in Bledsoe county, Tennessee, July 7th, 1806. In the 18th year of his age he was awakened and converted to God, and was received on trial in the travelling connection in the fall of 1826, and appointed to Winchester circuit. In 1827 he travelled Lincoln circuit; in 1828, Franklin; and in 1829, Cany Fork.

About the first of July last he was attacked with a disease which settled on his lungs. In the midst of his afflictions he was calm and happy, and expressed strong confidence in God. He was patient and resigned in his most trying hours; and declared to all around, that the doctrines he preached to others comforted his soul on the verge of the grave. He frequently proclaimed, "Victory—victory,"—and shouted "salvation" aloud. He finished his course in Warren, Tennessee, October 3d, 1830.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

8. Thomas L. Wynn was the son of Lemuel and Elizabeth Wynn, and born in Abbeville district, South Carolina, June 27, 1798. He was converted when only thirteen years old; but, by the influence of thoughtless company, lost his first love, and was for several years in a lukewarm state. In 1815 he regained what he had lost, and in 1817 was licensed to preach, and admitted on trial into the itinerant connection, in the South Carolina Conference. His appointments successively were to Keewee, Union, Black Mountain, Deep River, and Ohoopee circuits; and for 1823 to the city of Charleston. Up to this period, brother Wynn had enjoyed good health; but during his labours in Charleston, he began to be troubled with symptoms of the disease of which he died. For the year 1824 he was appointed to the city of Savannah; and for 1825 to Wilmington. During both these years he could with difficulty fulfil the duties of his calling, and at the following Conference received the relation of a superannuated or worn-out preacher. This relation, however, he sustained but one year; and in 1827 was stationed in Georgetown. Here he was attacked with bilious fever, which had almost taken his life, when again there appeared symptoms of consumption. For 1828 he was stationed in Camden; 1829, in Washington and Lexington, in Georgia; and in 1830 he was appointed a second time to the city of Charleston. Early in that year he was attacked with hemorrhage of the lungs, attended with other alarming symptoms; and after suffering much, without a prospect of speedy recovery, and the air of Charleston being thought unfavourable to him, he removed to Camden, intending as soon as he might be able to go farther into the interior. A violent bilious fever, however, brought him too low to admit of his travelling: and this was succeeded by a rapid consumption, of which he died on the 9th of October, 1830.

The exercises of his mind, and other manifestations of the grace of God which he experienced during his last illness, were peculiarly edifying. He possessed extraordinary abilities as a preacher. From childhood he was studious and thoughtful; and, although his opportunities of acquiring knowledge in early life were perhaps rather limited, his after habits were such as to render him respectable both for his literary and theological attainments. In this respect he was a fine example of what a Methodist preacher can do to improve his mind, if he will be studious. As a preacher, altogether, he richly merited the high estimation in which he was held; and what he was by the grace of God as a man and a Christian, let his death-bed speak. By his death, the church has lost a son and a servant, much lamented and long to be remembered.

The following should have appeared in the Minutes of last year, but was not furnished in time for insertion.

9. George Hill, son of Paul Hill, Esq., was born in Charleston, South Carolina, February 20, 1797. When a child, he gave decisive indications of superior mental capacity. We are not able to state precisely at what time he was converted to God; but presume it was in the year 1817. He was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference in Charleston, May 21, 1819; and toward the close of the same year was recommended to the South Carolina Conference as a proper person to be admitted on trial in the itinerancy. He was admitted, and appointed to travel the Warren circuit, Ga., for the year 1820; 1821, Louisville, (now Waynesborough, Ga.;) 1822, Wilmington, North Carolina; and during 1823 he was employed as a missionary in the west of Georgia, on what was then called Monroe mission, now one of the most populous, wealthy, and prosperous circuits in that state. Here his labours were pre-eminently useful, in planting and establishing the church in a most interesting part of the country. At the close of this year he was ordained an elder, and appointed to the city of Augusta for 1824; 1825, in the city of Savannah. In 1826 he was appointed to the Savannah district, and during the years 1826, '27, '28, presided with great respectability and usefulness over that portion of the work. At the Conference held in Charleston, January, 1829, he solicited relief from the severe labours of this appointment; and was stationed in the town of Milledgeville, Georgia. This concluded his mortal course. Early in the month of August he was attacked with bilious fever, of which he died on the 22d of the same month. His faith was steadfast and triumphant; and during nineteen days of great bodily suffering his patience was most exemplary. His soul rejoiced in God his Saviour, full of hope, and longing after immortality. His death was truly a "falling asleep in Jesus."

Brother Hill possessed, to a rare degree, the excellence of great firmness of purpose, joined to meekness and humility of spirit. In the administration of the discipline of the church he was particularly circumspect and inflexibly uniform. He possessed a vigorous and well balanced mind, was eminently fervent in spirit, and solemn and collected in his ministerial duties. He gave himself much to prayer and study, and "his profiting appeared unto all." He was universally acknowledged a bold, powerful, and eminently successful preacher. By his brethren in the ministry he was peculiarly beloved. His intercourse with them was always marked with frankness and affection. He honoured them from his heart, and held in return their confidence and esteem to a high degree. He was indeed "a man of God," and the church records his death with gratitude for his valuable labours, and sincere mourning for the loss of them.

10. John Honour, son of Dr. Thomas Honour, was born in St. Andrew's parish, South Carolina, July 22, 1770. In 1793 he first became acquainted with the Methodists, among whom he was converted to God, and became a member of the church. In June, 1811, he was licensed as an exhorter, and in December of the same year to preach, and officiated as a local preacher in Charleston, with acceptability and usefulness, until the Conference of February, 1827, when he was admitted into the itinerancy. His probation during the years 1827 and 1828 was passed in the Cooper River circuit, where his labours were very acceptable; and at the Conference of January, 1829, he was received into full connection, and appointed to the mission to the slaves south of Ashley river. On the 11th of September of this year he took a bilious fever, contracted by exposure in the swamps where his mission lay; and on the 19th of the same month, after "witnessing a good confession before many witnesses," he triumphantly concluded his mortal life, and entered into that which is everlasting. His life was undoubtedly a sacrifice to his work; but he considered it well bestowed, and joyfully resigned it in the service of his Saviour. May there never be wanting among us ministers who are like minded!

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE

11. Thomas Mann was born April 1, 1769, in Amherst county, Virginia. In the nineteenth year of his age he sought and obtained the pardon of his sins, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. Feeling that a dispensation of the gospel was committed to him, he offered himself to this Conference, was admitted on trial, and continued as a travelling preacher until his death. In the latter part of his life he took a superannuated relation, but on the partial restoration of his health he was, at his own request, placed again on the effective list, and so continued until the Conference of 1830, when it was again found necessary to place him in a superannuated relation. On the evening of the 22d of June he retired to his chamber in as good health, apparently, as he had been for some time. Early in the night a nephew lying in the same room was awakened by an unusual noise, as though his uncle was strangling. He hastened to his relief and raised him up in his arms, but his spirit was departing, and in a moment was gone. Thus died Thomas Mann, in the sixty-second year of his age, thirty-five of which were spent in the work of the ministry. As a Christian, he was deeply pious: for many years he had professed sanctification, and was truly an example to believers in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, and in purity. As a minister, he was sound in doctrine; plain, experimental, and practical in preaching, and generally useful and well received where he laboured. As a companion, he was easy in his manners, communicative and edifying in conversation, sober without sadness, and cheerful without levity. But his work is done; his race is ended; and he is gone, we have no doubt, "where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest."

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

12. Yelverton T. Peyton was born in Stafford county, Virginia, in the year 1797. His parents were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He embraced religion in 1815, and was received on trial by the Baltimore Conference in 1818, and appointed to Frederick circuit. He continued to fill some of the most important stations and circuits in the Conference from that time until the Conference of 1829, at which time he was appointed to Severn circuit. During the summer of that year he ruptured a blood-vessel, which was the probable foundation of his subsequent suffering and hasty dissolution. At the ensuing Conference he asked and obtained a superannuated relation, and on the 15th of January, 1831, in the city of Baltimore, died happy in the Lord, in the thirty-fourth year of his age and the thirteenth of his ministry.

Brother Peyton was a man whose soul seemed at all times to be much devoted to God. Who that knew him did not mark his ardent affection and untiring solicitude for the spiritual welfare of all, but more especially the immediate objects of his pastoral charge? It may be truly said that in him the missionary, the Sunday school, and all other institutions having for their object the promotion of the Redeemer's kingdom, found a warm and constant friend. As a minister, he held fast the form of sound words, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus, studying "to show himself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." As he lived devoted, so he died triumphant.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

13. James Bateman was born in Queen Ann's county, Maryland, January 4, 1775; "born again" in the year 1800. He entered the itinerancy in the Philadelphia Annual Conference in 1806, and from that time continued to travel and preach acceptably and successfully till the year 1814, when he located. He remained located till 1817, and was then readmitted into the travelling connection, in which he continued till his death. His last appointment was to Caroline circuit, in 1830; where, in about three weeks after entering on his pastoral labours, with increasing prospects of glorious success, he was divinely called to "rest from his labours."

Our deceased brother was distinguished as a man by his amiable disposition, the urbanity of his manners, and the generosity of his heart: as a Christian, by his meekness and gentleness, his simplicity and candour, his respect for the feelings of those that were present and the characters of such as were absent. He was candid, but not rude; independent, but not rash. His heart burned with love to God and man. As a preacher, he was sound in faith; in doctrine uncorrupt, plain, pointed, ingenuous, and warm. In one word we may safely say, that in the various relations he sustained, as a deacon, elder, and presiding elder, he was acceptable and successful, "the man of God," and "the able minister of the New Testament." His end was remarkably triumphant, and now he sleeps in Jesus.

14. Joseph Iliff was born in Bucks county, Pennsylvania, December 16, 1789. In the year 1815 he had his name enrolled among the followers of the Lamb, and having obtained the pardon of his sins, rejoiced in God his Saviour. In 1822 he was licensed to preach, and in 1826 was received on trial in the itinerant connection, and appointed to Queen Ann's circuit; to Smyrna in 1827; Gloucester, 1828; Queen Ann's again in 1829, and also in 1830, where he finished his brief career on the 8th day of August.

As a preacher, brother Iliff was distinguished by talents certainly above mediocrity. His early opportunities of learning were small, but he supplied this lack in a good degree by reading and thinking, so that few men of the same standing in the ministry, and of no greater advantages, have attained equal eminence. He was uniformly well received in his several appointments, and his preaching being accompanied by an unction from the Holy One, rendered it effectual in winning souls. "He" now "rests from his labours, and his works do follow him."

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

15. Samuel Fowler was born in the town of Newburg, in the state of New-York. He was received on trial in 1791. After travelling about ten years he received a location. In 1808 he was readmitted into the travelling connection, in which he continued until his death, in the seventy-fourth year of his age, on the 2d of February last. Brother Fowler sustained an unblemished character. He was plain and simple in his manners, and affectionate in his disposition. His house was long the welcome home of his brethren. He was a good experimental and practical preacher, and in many instances was successful in winning souls. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them."

16. Wesley P. Lake was born in Pawlet, Rutland county, Vermont, March 18, 1793, and finished his earthly course in the town of Chester, Warren county, New-York, March 3, 1831, aged thirty-eight years. He experienced a change of heart in 1817, was received on trial as a travelling preacher in the New-York Annual Conference in 1823, and was appointed to the Montgomery circuit. His last affliction, which was a consumption of the lungs, although not of long continuance, afforded an opportunity for the trial of his faith and the exercise of every Christian grace. During a part of this latter period of his life he was in heaviness through manifold temptations, but toward the close of it heavenly light radiated his mind, and eternal glory beamed upon his path. He was a good man, filled his various stations in the church and ministry with honour and usefulness, and his end was peace.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE AND VERMONT CONFERENCE.

17. Joseph Kellum was born in the province of Lower Canada, May 25, 1795. He was brought to the knowledge of God in the seventeenth year of his age. In 1820 he was admitted on trial in the New-England Conference, and subsequently laboured in Canaan, Sandwich, and Tuftonborough, Lebanon, Plymouth, Barnard, and Salisbury, with usefulness, and to the general satisfaction of the societies. He was honoured with revivals of religion, and gathered in many to the fold of Christ. In 1828 he had a supernumerary relation. From this time his health continued to decline, till in October, 1830, he was obliged to give up his labours altogether, to the great regret of the people of his charge. Brother Kellum was a pleasing and agreeable companion, and his preaching talents were good. In his last sickness he suffered much, very much, in body. But when informed that he was dying he appeared to rejoice much that he had got so near home, and met death, December 31, without fear or alarm, and we trust rests from his labours in the paradise of God.

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

18. Ephraim Hall was born in New-Hampshire, September, 1799. He was favoured with early religious instructions, and was from his childhood a subject of serious impressions. He made a public profession of religion and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the seventeenth year of his age, from which time he was remarkably grave and attentive to Christian duties. In 1822 he was admitted on trial into the travelling connection in the Genesee (then including what is now Oneida) Conference, and was successively appointed to Western, Herkimer, Otsego, Utica, and Paris circuits. In 1826 he was stationed at Paris. In all these places his labours were abundant, acceptable, and useful; but in the last his health failed. In 1827, 1828, and 1829 he sustained a superannuated relation, but continued to labour as his strength would permit, and in several places with very signal success, especially in Winfield, Herkimer county. In 1830 he was considered effective, and was appointed to Westford; but he had not laboured long on this circuit before he was seized with a pulmonary affection, which terminated his useful life February 4, 1831. He died in peace, and with the full assurance of immortality.

GENESEE CONFERENCE.

19. Peter F. Baker experienced a change of heart and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church at an early period of his life, and was received on trial into the travelling connection in 1814. He early gave evidence of superior talents, and his morning prospects were unusually fair. They were soon, however, clouded, and the sprightly youth was seen struggling with adversity, meekly imploring the Father of spirits to support and comfort him. During his labour on Northumberland circuit, in 1817, his horse having escaped from an enclosure, he pursued him on foot, carrying saddle and bridle with him a distance of ten or fifteen miles. This long and burdensome walk, performed in the heat of summer, was attended with great fatigue. He took a violent cold, which was followed by an inflammation of the lungs and a lingering consumption. He bore his sufferings with Christian patience, and as often as his health permitted continued to preach, till a short time before his decease.

When on the bed of death he was visited by the Rev. G. H. Norton, a pious clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who writes as follows: "Mr. Baker remained calm; yes, he was much more than calm; he was elevated in holy triumph above the sufferings of disease and the fear of death. He could say with an apostle, that he knew in whom he trusted; and he felt strongly assured that his divine Master would be an all-sufficient refuge in that hour of need. He continued to enjoy the presence of his Saviour even to the last."

As a preacher, his original turn of thought and powers of eloquence had many admirers. He made himself well acquainted with the subjects of his discussion, and was generally elegant and methodical in the pulpit. His death occurred in the thirty-ninth year of his age.

April 23, 1829.*

Question. Who have died this year?

PITTSBURG CONFERENCE.

1. Salathiel Tudor was born in Bedford county, Penn., in 1789. He was converted when a youth; but refusing to obey God's call to the ministry, became a backslider. In the twenty-second year of his age he was reclaimed and continued zealous. After labouring faithfully as a local preacher for eleven years, he was received on trial in the Pittsburg Conference in 1827. In 1829 his health declined, and the following year he sustained a superannuated relation to the Conference, in which he died, Nov. 26, 1830. As a preacher he was acceptable and useful. He preached, professed, and enjoyed the blessing of perfect love. His end was peaceful and glorious; and, leaving a wife and nine children, he has entered that rest which remains for the people of God.

OHIO CONFERENCE.

2. Michael Ellis was born May the 18th, 1758; was converted to God at fifteen years of age, and, from his own account, never lost the evidence of his acceptance with God.

* As we have received no account of the numbers of this Conference for this year, we have given the numbers as they stand in the Minutes of last year.

The Minutes will show him to have been one of the first preachers who entered the travelling connection, as natives of North America.

Having travelled a few years, it became necessary for him to locate on account of his family concerns. But as soon as he saw his way clear, he again entered the itinerant field, in which he laboured with success and usefulness till called to his eternal reward.

He was ordained deacon the same day that Mr. Asbury was ordained bishop.

Brother Ellis departed this life October 30, 1830. For more than forty years he preached holiness of heart and life, and lived according to these doctrines, an eminent example of piety and holiness through life, and died in peace. He now rests from his labours, and his works do follow him.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

3. Edwin Ray, son of Rev. John Ray, was born in Montgomery county, Kentucky, July 26, 1803. He was "born again" July 26, 1819, at a camp meeting in Clark county. This pious youth, deeply impressed with a sense of duty, entered the ministry at an early period, and was received on trial in the Kentucky Conference, in 1822, where he laboured with diligence and success for two years. In 1824 he volunteered for, and was transferred to Illinois Conference. Here he laboured with his accustomed zeal in Vincennes, Bloomington, Indianapolis circuits, and Madison station successively. In the conference year of 1829 and 1830, his health having failed, he received a superannuated relation; but such was his zeal for God, that he laboured about half of the year in Terra Haute. He was stationed there also the following year in a supernumerary relation. Having finished the labours of this year, he started for Conference; but had proceeded only a few miles before he was taken ill at the house of Mr. J. Barnes, where, after eleven days of extreme suffering, he closed his earthly pilgrimage in peace. During his illness he said to his wife, "The religion which I have professed and preached has comforted me in life, supported me in affliction, and now enables me to triumph in death." Brother Ray possessed a good understanding, was well versed in the doctrines of our holy religion, and preached with energy and success, particularly before he lost his health. Though young in his profession, there are three members of the Illinois Conference who claim him for their father in the gospel, besides many lay members. He has left a wife and two children, and many relatives and Christian friends, to mourn his early departure. But "precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints."*

4. James Bankson. (His memoirs not received.)

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

5. John P. Haney was born in Tennessee, and obtained religion in 1821. He obtained license to preach in 1824, and joined the Mississippi Annual Conference the same year, and was appointed to Pearl River circuit, where his labours were abundantly blessed.

Brother Haney was a bright example of the power of religion to triumph over all the obstructions offered to usefulness by the want of early advantages. He soon gave convincing evidence that he was commissioned from above, and resolved upon the noble purpose of walking worthy of his high vocation. The consequence was, he was soon beloved as a brother, and respected and esteemed as a spiritual guide, and at the close of the year his departure was felt as the departure of light and life.

In the fall of 1827 he married the amiable and pious daughter of Judge Warner, of Washington parish, Louisiana; and on the third day of October, 1831, strong in the faith of the gospel, and full of the hope of immortality, he peacefully fell asleep in the arms of Jesus, leaving his many brethren and numerous friends, but especially his beloved companion and babe, to mourn their irreparable loss.

* A letter from his pious and venerable father, dated Nov. 11, 1831, contains the following paragraph:—"When I was told that Edwin was praying in another tent, I was much affected, and solemnly promised God, if he would convert him, I would give him up to him all his days. The good Lord heard my request, and answered my prayer. The news of his death was not so afflicting to me as a location. I would willingly supply his place with another son, (if I had one,) only to live as long and useful as did Edwin. But the Lord has taken him home. Bless the Lord!"

6. James A. Hughes was born in the state of Tennessee, but while quite young his parents moved to Alabama, where he was brought to the knowledge of the truth. In 1826 he was received on trial in the Mississippi Conference, and continuing faithful, he graduated to the office of deacon and elder. He was modest and unassuming in his deportment, diligent in his calling, and was fast improving in gifts and usefulness. Though his last sufferings were severe, he bore them with patience, and finally died in peace in the twenty-fourth year of his age, and fifth of his ministry.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

7. William S. Peyton was born March 17, 1802, in Stratford, Va., and in the sixteenth year of his age was made a partaker of the grace of life. In 1826 he entered the travelling ministry in the Virginia Conference, and during the four years of his labours he was much blessed. In 1830, while on the Williamsburg circuit, he was suddenly prostrated by a bleeding at the lungs; being unable any longer to preach, he took charge of a school, in which employment he continued until disabled by debility. He finally died of the bilious fever, in peace and triumph, leaving behind him the sweet recollection of the fervency of his zeal and the success of his labours in the sacred cause he had espoused.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

8. Lemuel Green was born in the state of Maryland, about fourteen miles from Baltimore, in the year 1751. About the twenty-fifth year of his age he became a subject of converting grace, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. He began in his thirtieth year to preach to others that Gospel which had proved the power of God to his own salvation. We find his name first enrolled on the Minutes of Conference for the year 1783, when he was admitted on trial together with Jesse Lee, Francis Spry, William Phœbus, and others of precious memory. He was appointed this year to Yadkin circuit, and continued to serve the Church in various relations until the year 1800, when he obtained a location, and settled in the city of Philadelphia, in which he continued until the year 1823, when he was readmitted to a seat among his brethren in the Philadelphia Conference, and received a superannuated relation.

Brother Green, as one of our earliest ministers, is associated with many tender and interesting recollections. He joined the Church when it was yet in a state of feeble infancy, numbering scarcely seven thousand members, and lived to see it spread over the breadth and length of the land, enclosing nearly half a million in its pale, besides the thousands that have gone triumphantly to the Redeemer's bosom. In common with all the pioneers in the work, he endured a large share of suffering and privation, and witnessed all varieties in society, manners, and living. He was a clear, sound, and useful preacher; not destitute of the graces of sermonizing, but more abundantly characterized by the unction and power of the Holy Spirit. In his last sickness his mind enjoyed a heavenly composure; and having before honoured his Saviour in the "labour of love," he now glorified him by the "patience of hope" and the "triumph of faith."

9. Nathaniel Porter was born in the town of Worcester, Mass., in the year 1800. He was made a partaker of justifying grace when about nineteen years of age, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. Soon after this event he entered as a student the Wesleyan Seminary in the city of New-York, where he made considerable advancement in the Latin and Greek languages, and in the science of mathematics. During this period he received his first license as a local preacher, and in the spring of 1823 was admitted on probation in the New-York Annual Conference. After travelling about six months he took charge of the Cazenovia Academy. In this new and responsible situation he remained two years, during which he gave entire satisfaction, and rose very high in the estimation of all who knew him. The failure of his health obliged him to remove to the city of Baltimore, where, in a great measure, his enfeebled constitution was restored. He received an appointment from the New-York Conference to Poultney in the state of Vermont. The succeeding year he was transferred to the Philadelphia Conference, and stationed in Morristown, N. J., and the year following at Newark in the same state, where he closed his labours and his life.

In the death of our brother Porter the church sustained a serious loss. He was an excellent preacher, a judicious pastor, a sincere and ardent, a consistent and amiable Christian. He was zealous in every good work; an efficient patron of the Sunday schools, Bible and missionary societies, and, in short, of whatever he deemed promotive of the cause of God and of human happiness.

10. Benjamin Collins was born in Sussex county, New-Jersey, in the year 1785. At what period of his life he became a subject of converting grace we know not; but in the year 1819 he joined the Philadelphia Conference as an itinerant minister, in which he remained, serving the Church acceptably in his several appointments, until death terminated his career. His last field of labour was New-Providence, Essex county, New-Jersey. In the month of August, 1831, he attended a camp meeting on the Asbury circuit, during which he complained of being unwell. That night, about twelve o'clock, he was walking in the woods in the rear of the encampment, and fell into a deep gully, striking his head violently against the loose and craggy rocks which covered the bottom: he received a shocking contusion in the head, which, together, as is supposed, with some internal injury, acting upon a frame already debilitated by disease, put a period to his earthly existence in about thirty-six hours after the accident occurred. He died, however, in great peace.

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

11. William Phœbus was born in Somerset county, in the state of Maryland, in the month of August, 1754. Of his early days little is known; nor is the exact period of his conversion ascertained. In the early days of Methodism, however, he was brought to a knowledge of the truth under the preaching of one of the Methodist preachers, became a member of the society, and in 1783 was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to the Frederick circuit. He continued to travel and preach from that time until the year 1798, when he located and settled in the city of New-York, and entered upon the practice of physic. In the year 1806 he was readmitted into the New-York Conference, and stationed in the city of Albany. From that time he continued to fill various stations until the year 1821, when he was returned a supernumerary, and in 1824 he was returned superannuated. In this relation he continued until his death, which took place in the city of New-York, Nov. 9, 1831.

William Phœbus was a man of great integrity of character, uniformly pious, deeply read in the Scriptures, and a sound, experimental, and practical preacher. In his last sickness he manifested the virtues of a Christian in a high degree, being remarkably patient and submissive under his sufferings, and expressing with great cheerfulness his prospects of future blessedness. A little before his death, in conversation with a friend, he quoted the words of St. James, "Let patience have its perfect work," and commented upon them with much apparent pleasure and great clearness of apprehension; and he exhibited on his dying bed a bright example of the meaning of these words. He sweetly fell asleep in Jesus in the seventy-eighth year of his age.

NEW-ENGLAND CONFERENCE.

12. Edward Hyde was born in the year 1786.* In the twenty-third year of his age he entered the itinerant ministry, and continued in that work with great fidelity until his death, greatly beloved by all who knew him. He was a great advocate for revivals of religion, doing all in his power to promote them wherever he went. He died in the triumphs of faith, in the town of Wilbraham, Mass., March 16, 1832, aged forty-six years.

* No particulars of his birth or conversion have been communicated to the editors.

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

13. RALPH LANING was born in Hopewell, Hunterdon county, New-Jersey, on the 5th of April, 1789. When about eleven years old he removed with his parents to Ulysses, Tompkins county, New-York. It was here, when about sixteen years of age, that Ralph was brought to the saving knowledge of the truth. In 1811 he was admitted to the travelling connection, in which service he continued until his death. The disease of which he died was a pulmonary consumption, brought on by a violent cold and excessive labour. Under all his sufferings he evinced the most exemplary patience and resignation. During the day on which he died, he was heard to say repeatedly, "I am happy—praise the Lord."

Brother Laning was a devoted Christian, an acceptable and useful preacher, an ardent and trusty friend, an affectionate husband, and faithful parent. In a word, his character and deportment were such as to win the confidence and affection of most who knew him.

Question. Who have died this year?

PITTSBURG CONFERENCE.

1. Dr. Samuel Adams in early life was affected with infidel principles. When considerably advanced in years he was converted to God, and called to preach the gospel he had once rejected; but refusing to obey this call he lost all his comfort, and remained in a backslidden state until 1813, when by means of a camp meeting he was restored to divine favour. In 1817 he was licensed to preach, and was received on trial in the Ohio Conference in 1818, having relinquished a lucrative practice and comfortable home for the gospel's sake, to which he devoted himself with earnestness until arrested by age and infirmities. In 1829 he was placed in a superannuated relation to the Pittsburg Conference. During last winter he became ill of a cancer on his knee, which resulted in the process of amputation, and finally in death. He closed his sufferings at his own house, near Beaver, Pa., on the 6th of March, 1832, in the sixty-sixth year of his age, and the fifteenth of his ministry, with peace and resignation.

2. John Crawford, son of James and Sarah Crawford, was born in Fayette county, Pa., September 28, 1799. He was converted under the Methodist ministry when about sixteen years old; licensed to preach in 1820; commenced his itinerant labours in 1821, which he prosecuted with fidelity and success during life. At the last Pittsburg Conference he was reappointed to New-Lisbon circuit, where, on the 29th of February, 1832, he finished his course in peace at the house of Jeremiah Hickman, after an illness of thirteen days. He died of typhus fever, which was attended with some derangement; yet in his lucid intervals, religion and heaven were his themes. To one of his brothers he said, "Tell my aged father that the doctrines of the gospel, and the religion of Jesus Christ, which I have preached to others, are now my comfort in a dying hour." To his colleague, brother Summers, he said, "Tell my brethren on New-Lisbon circuit that I am gone to heaven, and that I want them to meet me there."

Brother Crawford was agreeable in his person and manners, a man of prayer, loved his Bible, and read it much on his knees. As a preacher, his talents were of the useful kind. Experimental and practical religion was his theme in the pulpit and in the family circle. He left a wife, three small children, and many relatives behind, and has gone to his better home.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

3. James Bankson,* only son of his pious parents, was born in Oglethorp county, Ga., January 8, 1795, and was taught to know the Scriptures from his youth. When about eight years of age he was taken to the new settlements in Illinois, where he received only an imperfect English education; but having embraced religion at fourteen years of age, he applied himself in early life with such diligence to reading and study that he became a good scholar. In 1821 he entered the ministry; and though he travelled mostly in the frontier circuits, such was his industry and application to study that he became well acquainted with Greek and Hebrew. Last spring he returned to his father's house under a lingering disease, and was never afterward able to resume his labours. For the benefit of medical aid he was of choice taken to the St. Louis hospital, where he underwent a painful surgical operation; and after lingering in pain for some weeks, he died triumphantly, Sept. 4, 1831.

4. William H. Askins, son of Benjamin and Lucy Askins, was born in Virginia, July 8, 1803, and died July 6, 1832. He sought and found the pardon of his sins in 1820, at Ebenezer camp meeting, Kentucky. In 1823 he joined the Kentucky Conference, and travelled Lexington circuit; in 1824, Newport; 1825 and 1826, Hinkstone; 1827, Limestone; 1828 he was stationed in Washington; but one of the preachers failing from affliction, he took his station on Hinkstone and Limestone circuits, where was laid the foundation of that complaint which ultimately terminated his life. In 1829 he was stationed in Bowling Green; in 1830 he was transferred to Illinois Conference, and appointed to Apple Creek circuit; in 1831 to Jacksonville, which he travelled until February, 1832, when his afflictions compelled him to desist.

About the 1st of April he received a stroke of paralysis, and about six weeks after another, which deprived him of his speech, and mostly of his hearing; in this condition he continued several weeks, and died, aged twenty-nine years. He was a popular and very successful preacher; lived beloved, and died lamented; but he bore his sufferings with patience, and gave evidence to the last that God was with him in the mighty deep. He has left a wife and three little children behind, and his parents, now bereft of all their children.

INDIANA CONFERENCE.

5. Benjamin C. Stephenson, from the best information we have, was converted in his sixteenth year; in 1827 he joined the Illinois Conference, and was appointed to Eel River circuit; in 1828 to Carlisle circuit; in 1829 he was ordained deacon, and sent to Galena mission, where he endured some privations and sufferings, but not without some fruit; in 1830 he was stationed in Madison; and in 1831 he was appointed to Indianapolis station; but before he finished his arrangements to start for the field of his labour, God called him to his reward, just eight weeks after his marriage.

Brother Stephenson was a dignified young man, of respectable talents, and promised much to the church; but in the midst of his prospects an all-wise Providence called him hence. "Be ye also ready."

6. William Moore was esteemed a very good man, about whose life and labours we have but little information; it appears, however, that he embraced religion in the prime of life, entered the travelling connection in 1823, and after travelling a number of circuits with some degree of usefulness to the church, he died in peace, at his own house in Charleston, Indiana.

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

7. George W. Davis was born in Morgan county, Ga., in 1808. In 1824, at a camp meeting held near Monticello, Jasper county, he was brought to the knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus. In 1828 he was admitted on trial in the travelling ministry, in which he continued to the end of his life. Though his death was sudden, the righteousness of his life gives assurance that he died in the Lord. Being seated at the table in company with some of his brethren at the house of brother Joseph M'Bride, in Florida, he suddenly sunk down and expired in about two minutes, Nov. 27, 1832, in the twenty-fourth year of his age.

8. Thomas Darley was a native of England, but his age and the particulars of his conversion are not known to us. He entered the travelling ministry in 1801, and continued with great zeal and usefulness until 1806, when he located; but continued his ministerial labours, as far as he was able, with great fidelity. In 1814 he was readmitted as a member of the Conference. From that time he was faithful and successful in the itinerancy until God called him to his reward. The last year of his life he was employed as an agent for the Georgia Conference, for the benefit of missionary societies and Sunday schools, in which work he continued as long as his strength permitted. He died in great peace in Harris county, April 16, 1832.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

9. William Leonard was born April 20, 1783, near Salisbury, Somerset county, Maryland. He made a profession of religion, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, July, 1805. He entered the travelling ministry in 1810, in which he continued as an acceptable and useful minister until his death. By the uniform integrity of his character, and uprightness of his deportment, he secured the confidence of all his acquaintance. Though his last sickness was severe and protracted, he possessed his soul in patience, and finally departed in full assurance of hope, Feb. 16, 1833, in the fiftieth year of his age.

10. ALWARD WHITE. In the early part of his life he devoted himself to the service of God. In 1793 he commenced his itinerant career, but after travelling four years he located, and lived in the city of Baltimore. In 1819 he was readmitted as a member of the Philadelphia Conference, and continued in this work until his death. He was an acceptable preacher, modest and unassuming in his manners, and firm in his friendships. He died in peace at his residence in Greenborough, Md., Nov. 23, 1832.

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

11. JOHN M. SMITH was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., October 10, 1795. In the spring of 1810 he was brought to the knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus, and immediately joined the church. He graduated in Columbia College in the city of New-York; and although in the early part of his studies he designed to prepare for a physician, after prayerful attention he changed his purpose, and entered the itinerant ministry in the year 1817. He continued in this work until, in September, 1820, he was elected principal of the Wesleyan Seminary, and in 1826 he took charge of the White Plains Academy. In this employment, together with preaching every sabbath, he continued until he entered upon the duties of a professor of languages in the Wesleyan University in May, 1832. Here he ended his days, December 27, 1832, in peace and triumph, aged thirty-seven years. Brother Smith was a man of sound and extensive learning, of uniform piety, gentle and unassuming in his manners, and a plain, able, and practical preacher of the gospel.

MAINE CONFERENCE.

12. JOB PRATT died on February 22, 1833, at the parsonage house in Rumford, aged forty-two years. He had been a travelling preacher in the Methodist Episcopal Church nineteen years, and a member of the Maine Annual Conference from its organization till his decease. He was a man of great equanimity of temper, and endured the privations incident to the life of a travelling preacher with a patience and perseverance worthy of great commendation. Brother Pratt was a man of peace, and a consequent mildness pervaded all his efforts. His talents were rather useful than brilliant, and we believe he was generally very acceptable as a preacher. He died of a consumption, after a painful illness of about seven weeks. During this time his mind was in great peace, and he was permitted to see the "inheritance of the saints in light," without a cloud to obscure his prospects.

GENESEE CONFERENCE.

13. DENISON SMITH was born in Broome, Schoharie county, New-York. He was brought to the knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus at an early period of his life, joined the Methodist Church, and ever after lived in all holy obedience. July 22, 1821, he entered the travelling ministry, and continued in this work as long as he was able, filling his appointments with acceptance and usefulness. In his last sickness, though at times he suffered mental derangement, he manifested an unshaken confidence in God, and an humble resignation to his will. He died at his own house, in Bethel, Ontario county, N. Y., August 22, 1832, in the thirty-fourth year of his age, leaving a widow and four children to mourn their loss.

14. CHESTER V. ADGATE was a native of Neversink, Green county, N. Y., and made a profession of religion in early life. In July, 1819, he was admitted on trial in the Genesee Conference. His talents as a preacher were respectable, and his sermons were well digested, and usually delivered in a chaste style, and often attended with the most salutary influence. His deportment evinced a kind and sociable disposition, and uprightness of intention. He died in peace of mind in Penn Yan, February 4, 1833, in the thirty-eighth year of his age, leaving to the care of the church a widow and four children.

 It will be perceived by an examination of these Minutes, that the Tennessee, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina, and Virginia Conferences, have neglected to furnish answers to the 14th, 15th, and 16th questions, respecting the deficiencies of preachers, and the amounts collected to supply them, as also the amounts collected for missionary purposes and the Publishing Fund. The failure, therefore, to insert these in their proper places is not the fault of the editor, as the information was not found in the manuscript Minutes from which we printed. The fourteenth and fifteenth answers were also wanting in the Maine, New-Hampshire, and Genesee Conferences. The disbursements of the Oneida Conference were unhappily lost after they were received.

☞ After the Minutes of the Georgia Conference were printed, a note was received from Bishop Andrew, requesting us to state that "Frederick P. Norsworthy was by the Conference deposed, but permitted to retain his place in the church as a private member."

Question. Who have died this year?

OHIO CONFERENCE.

1. John Ulin, the subject of this memoir, was born in Virginia, 1792 or '3. He spent the early part of his life in Greenup county, Kentucky. We know not the precise period of his conversion; but from the best information we have been able to obtain, he was awakened and led to seek the Lord, through the instrumentality of the Rev. Marcus Lindsey, in 1815 or '16. Soon after his conversion, being "called of God," he was authorized by the church to preach as a local preacher. In this relation he lived and laboured until 1826, when he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and laboured zealously and usefully. His last appointment was to New-Richmond circuit. On July 1st, 1833, he was called to part with his wife, who fell a victim to the cholera; but their separation was short: on the 13th of July, 1833, the same disease brought him to the house appointed for all living. Brother Ulin possessed a sprightly mind, stored with useful knowledge. In all the circuits where he laboured, success attended his ministry. He lives, and will long live, in the memory and affections of those among whom he preached Jesus and the resurrection.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

2. Barnabus M'Henry embraced religion, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the infancy of Methodism in the United States. Believing it to be his duty to preach the gospel, he joined the travelling connection in 1787. From this time he laboured faithfully and successfully as an itinerant minister until 1796, when, in consequence of the loss of health, he located. In 1819 he was readmitted into the travelling connection; but his strength not being sufficient for the labours of an effective man, he was in 1821 returned superannuated. This relation he sustained until death (by cholera, June 16th, 1833) relieved him of all his infirmities. As an old apostle of Methodism, he was fond of the doctrines of this church, and took delight in teaching them to others. He lived in the enjoyment of the blessing of sanctification, and died in peace, taking his transfer from the church militant to the church triumphant.

3. Marcus Lindsey, the subject of this memoir, was a native of Ireland. He was brought by his parents to America when but a child. Through the instrumentality of Methodist preachers he was led to embrace religion, and join the church, in his twenty-first year. Convinced that it was his duty, he gave himself up to the work of the ministry, and joined the Methodist itinerant connection in 1809, and there remained, performing the duties of a minister of Jesus Christ, till death, by cholera, on the 27th of July, 1833, terminated his useful life. He has left behind him evidence, that for him to die was gain. By reference to the Minutes it will be seen that he filled many important stations in the church. He was an able minister af the New-Testament; a faithful pastor, abounding in zeal and good works. Useful and beloved in life, triumphant in death, he doubtless rests in Abraham's bosom.

4. Joseph B. Power was born in Montgomery county, Kentucky, September 15, 1802. He made a profession of religion, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, when about twenty years of age. In the fall of 1826 he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, continuing a faithful and useful labourer till the spring of 1830, when he was seized with a violent disease of the breast, from which he never afterward entirely recovered, but continued to linger and suffer until July 22d, 1833, when he ended his pious and suffering life in a peaceful and triumphant death. During his protracted illness, he exercised much patience, and possessed a strong Christian confidence. His end was peace.

INDIANA CONFERENCE.

5. John Strange, a native of Virginia, was born November 15, 1789. When quite young he emigrated to Ohio, embraced religion, and united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. He commenced his itinerant labours in 1810, under the direction of the Rev. J. Quin, presiding elder. In 1811 he was admitted on trial in the Ohio Conference, where he laboured thirteen years with great fidelity, acceptance, and usefulness. The balance of his useful life was spent in Indiana. He was a zealous and faithful, an eloquent and beloved minister of Jesus Christ. He has left abundant proof, both in Ohio and Indiana, of his success in the great work of winning souls to Christ, "epistles known and read of all men." He died in peace, December 2, 1832, but will long live in the memory of endeared thousands.

6. Anthony F. Thompson was born in Kentucky, September 2, 1806. His parents were pious, and through their instrumentality he was induced to seek religion and join the Methodist Episcopal Church in his twelfth year. In 1824 he was an exhorter, and soon after was licensed as a local preacher. In 1829 he was received on trial into the travelling connection, and laboured with acceptance and usefulness. In the fall of 1832 he was appointed to Terre Haute circuit, Indiana Conference, where he laboured about three months, when he was, by a paralytic stroke, forced to abandon the field of itinerant labour. He died in peace, sabbath, May 19, 1833. He was a young man of respectable talents, and they were devoted by him to the best of causes. He rests from his labours, and his works follow him.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

7. Daniel D. Brewer. Of the early history of our beloved brother Brewer we are too imperfectly informed to state any thing interesting. He was a native of North Carolina. His education and early advantages were very inconsiderable. It pleased God, soon after his arrival in the state of Louisiana, in 1827, to call him out of darkness into his marvellous light, and to make him a partaker of his salvation. Saved by grace himself, he was soon urged, by a conviction of duty, to devote himself to the great work of calling sinners to repentance; and never, perhaps, with the same amount of talent, was any minister of divine mercy more abundantly successful: first in the Pearl River circuit, in 1829, and afterward in Marengo, in 1830; White Sand in 1831, in Alabama 1832, and finally in the Rapides; in which last field of labour he closed the scene of his toil and usefulness, after a severe and protracted illness, by a peaceful and triumphant death. His career was short, but active and successful; and his end peace, though far sooner than his Christian friends would have desired. His memory is blessed by hundreds, and his crown of recompense will be decorated with many a star.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

8. Absalom Brown, James J. Richardson, Thomas Neill. No memoirs have been received.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

9. Melville B. Cox was born in Hallowell, Maine, November 9, 1799. He received a pious education under the instruction of a widowed mother, and at the age of seventeen he made a public profession of religion, and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. At the age of twenty he entered the travelling ministry, but at the end of four years he was compelled to desist for want of health. After remaining about four years located, during a part of which time he edited a periodical in Baltimore, called the Itinerant, he resumed his labours in the ministry, and joined the Virginia Conference.

In 1832 he volunteered his services as a missionary to Liberia, under the auspices of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and sailed from Norfolk November 6 of that year. Soon after his arrival he was seized with the fever of that climate, of which he died in peace on the 21st of July, 1833, in the thirty-fifth year of his age.

Brother Cox was a man of deep piety, of great meekness, of respectable talents, and great intrepidity of mind. (For a fuller account of his life and character, see Methodist Magazine and Quarterly Review for January, 1834.)

10. Edward Cannon. No memoir has been received.

11. William W. M'Clunn was born in Middletown, Frederick county, Virginia, December 18, 1799. In his sixteenth year, at a camp meeting near Stevensburg, Frederick county, Virginia, he experienced a change of heart. In 1826 he was admitted into the itinerancy, and travelled Columbia circuit. While in the faithful prosecution of the great work to which he had been called, in the early part of September he was attacked with a hemorrhage of the lungs; in 1832 was superannuated; and in March, 1833, at his residence in Nelson county, Virginia, he died in the full assurance of hope, leaving an affectionate companion, an infant son, and numerous friends to mourn their loss.

Brother M'Clunn possessed talents of the useful order, and a spirit of the most benevolent character; and was much beloved by his fellow-labourers in the gospel, and the people to whom he ministered. For the last five years of his life he was a professor of perfect love. "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace."

12. George M. Anderson was born August 20, 1799, in Chesterfield county, Virginia. His parents were both pious and respectable, and they used all their influence to bring him up in the way he should go. He was early taught the doctrines of the gospel, and especially the importance of seeking salvation through the Lord Jesus Christ. About the age of fourteen he was deeply convinced of sin, and earnestly sought forgiveness through the blood of atonement. He joined the Virginia Conference in 1818, soon after his adoption into the family of God, and from that time until 1825 he filled different circuits and stations with great acceptance and usefulness. He was ever ambitious to labour in his Master's vineyard. From 1825 until the day of his death he sustained a superannuated relation to the Conference, and was a man of much suffering; but in the midst of all his afflictions he found God a present help in time of need. On the morning of the 7th of December, 1833, his spirit left this abode of sorrow, as well as the tenderest ties of life, and doubtless took its flight to the paradise of God.

13. Stephen D. Winbourne was born in Northampton county, North Carolina, April 12, 1801. Though at an early period of his life he was the subject of religious impressions, through the instructions of a pious mother, yet he did not fully embrace religion until in the twenty-first year of his age, when he received the Spirit of adoption. In 1828, after labouring some time as a local preacher, he joined on trial the Virginia Conference, in which work he continued with great zeal and fidelity until his death. During his last illness, which was of about six months' duration, he enjoyed much of the consolations of religion, and finally departed in the triumphs of faith.

14. John J. Carter was born in Patonsburg, Botetourt county, Virginia, September 16, 1806. September 1, 1824, he was made a partaker of the grace of life, and in 1830 was admitted on trial as a travelling preacher in the Virginia Conference. He was a zealous and successful preacher of righteousness, much beloved as an amiable and pious man, and deeply devoted to his Master's work. He died November 3, 1833, rejoicing in the Lord, and no doubt rests from his labours.

15. Wilson Barclift was born October 24, 1804, in Perguiman's county, North Carolina. He was blessed with the instructions and prayers of a pious mother, and was early taught to love and fear God. He lived, however, without enjoying the comforts of religion until 1824, when, through the instrumentality of a camp meeting, he was deeply convinced of sin and savingly converted to God. Soon after this he was impressed by the Holy Spirit that God had called him to labour in his vineyard. In view of this he joined the Virginia Conference in 1826. From that time until he was removed from among us he devoted his time and his talents to the work of the ministry. He divided the word of life with great clearness, and urged its claims with peculiar force. Seldom did he address an audience without making deep and lasting impressions. He was indeed a faithful and successful minister of the new covenant, a workman that needed not to be ashamed. On the 9th of August, 1833, he died in peace, leaving an affectionate wife and numerous friends to lament their loss. He died in full prospect of eternal life.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

16. JOHN CHALMERS was a native of Annapolis city, Maryland. When but a boy he embraced religion, and began to preach the gospel before he was sixteen years of age. As appears from the Minutes, he entered the itinerant connection of the Methodist Episcopal Church on trial in 1788. In this relation to the church he laboured with great acceptance and usefulness for nine years. At the Conference of 1797 he located, and remained a local preacher till 1832, when he was readmitted into the travelling connection as a supernumerary, and appointed to Fairfax circuit. During this year his health failed very much. He attended the Conference in 1833, and was reappointed in his former relation to Fairfax circuit. From the feeble state of his health, though he reached his field of labour, he soon retired to a friend's in Montgomery county, Maryland, where, on the 3d of June, 1833, he closed his mortal existence.

Did we not esteem it a duty carefully to abstain from every thing like eulogy of the dead, much might be said in regard to the deceased. He was long and extensively known, highly appreciated as a pious man, and greatly beloved as an able and successful minister of Christ. Many were the seals to his ministry, some of whom entered the port of rest before him; others remain to bless the church with their godly walk and conversation.

The last moments of brother Chalmers were such as might have been expected from a life like his. His intercourse with God through the Mediator was uninterrupted, his peace undisturbed, his triumph complete. He died indeed like a man of God, full of faith and the Holy Ghost; and "rests from his labours, and his works do follow him."

17. SEELY BUNN, lately a member of the Baltimore Annual Conference, was born in Poughkeepsie, New-York, August 1, 1765. After removals to different sections of the United States, his parents finally settled in Berkley county, Virginia. Here he first heard the gospel through the instrumentality of Methodist preachers, and was awakened to a sense of his sinfulness. He sought and found redemption through the precious blood of the atonement. This occurred on the 29th of April, 1789. Esteeming it his duty to enter the ministry, he offered himself as a labourer in the vineyard, and was admitted on trial in the itinerant connection of the Methodist Episcopal Church at the Conference of 1792. He laboured efficiently in that sphere till 1814, when, from affliction, he asked and obtained a superannuated relation to the Conference, which was continued the remainder of his life.

In the early part of our deceased brother's labours as a travelling preacher he encountered, as was the common lot of his cotemporaries, many hardships, growing out of the then unsettled state of the country, and other causes. His field of labour in some instances embraced part of the frontier settlements, where he was exposed to savage cruelty, and had to sleep in the woods, without any covering but its foliage. Our church owes much to that holy band of pioneers to which brother Bunn belonged, who spent the vigour of their days in planting the standard of religion and Methodism in the early settlements of this country. Their number is rapidly decreasing; death is thinning their ranks. God grant that their successors may be animated by the same spirit that prompted them to action!

Brother Bunn's death was occasioned by a fall from his gig. The writer was with him in his dying moments. The doctrines of the gospel he had so long and so zealously held forth to others sustained him while passing from time to eternity, and enabled him to proclaim victory through the blood of the Lamb.

18. EDWARD MATTHEWS was a native of Wales. But little is known of his early life, or at what time he came to this country. He was brought to serious reflection while assisting to hang the pulpit in mourning on the occasion of the death of the Rev. John Wesley. He was hence led to the Methodist Church, to class and prayer meetings, and finally to a knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus. In 1802 he entered the travelling ministry, in which he continued until his death; and in the latter days of his life he professed to enjoy the blessing of perfect love. His last end was "peace and assurance for ever."

Brother Matthews experienced various vicissitudes in his temporal affairs during life; sometimes enjoying affluence, and at other times, through cross providences, being reduced to poverty; but in the midst of all his changes he exemplified the spirit and temper of the Christian, and maintained the purity and dignity of the Christian minister.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

19. William Hunter, the subject of the following memoir, was born in the county of Tyrone, Ireland, on the 5th of May, 1755. He experienced religion and united himself with the Wesleyan Methodist society about the twenty-fourth year of his age. Soon after he had felt the gospel to be the power of God to the salvation of his own soul, he began publicly to warn others to flee from the wrath to come. His connection with Methodism brought him into the company of its venerated founder, when on his visits to Ireland.

These seasons brother Hunter improved by accompanying Mr. Wesley from place to place, in order the more abundantly to avail himself of the able and powerful ministrations of this honourable servant of God, and particularly in view of his own spiritual edification.

In May, 1790, brother Hunter left his native land for America, and on the 1st of August of the same year arrived at Wilmington, Delaware. During the passage he maintained the dignity of a Christian and a Christian minister, and frequently preached the word of life to the passengers and crew. He was admitted on trial in the travelling connection in 1793, in 1794 was ordained a deacon, and in 1796 an elder. He successively travelled Chester, Bristol, Dover, Cecil, Kent, Queen Ann's, Strasburg, Dauphin, and Lancaster circuits. For two years he laboured as a missionary in Pennsylvania, and during four years he presided on the Schuylkill district. In 1814 he was returned superannuated, but in 1816 again resumed his labours. In 1819 he was returned supernumerary, and from 1822 to 1827 continued, and so remained till his death. Brother Hunter, in the various appointments he filled in the church, was acceptable and useful as a preacher, and discharged the duties of his vocation with simplicity and fidelity, ever manifesting an ardent and enlightened zeal for the salvation of souls, and a commendable and truly missionary spirit in the spread and enlargement of the boundaries of his labours. He secured the respect and affection of the people where he laboured, and left among them the savour of a good name.

In his attachments and friendships he was sincere and firm; as a Christian, he was consistent, uniform, and devout; as a husband, kind and affectionate; and as a parent, deeply interested for the temporal and spiritual welfare of his children.

As a divine he was sound in the faith, was blessed with a solid judgment, a clear and discriminating mind, and possessed a thorough and intimate knowledge of the doctrines and discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with which, from principle and affection, he continued united for a period of fifty-four years.

In the latter years of his life brother Hunter was the subject of severe and protracted affliction; yet he bore it with Christian patience, fortitude, and resignation, and ended his days in peace and triumph, at Coventry, Chester county, Pennsylvania, on the 27th of September, 1833, in the seventy-ninth year of his age and fifty-sixth of his ministry; no doubt exchanging a life of toil, suffering, and pain, for one of bliss and immortality in the kingdom of God. "Our fathers, where are they? the prophets, do they live for ever?" Yes—

> "Where perfect love and friendship reign
> Through all eternity."

20. John Finley was a native of Ireland, born July 29, 1784. He embraced religion and attached himself to the Wesleyan Methodist society in the seventeenth year of his age, emigrated to the United States of America in 1807, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was received on trial in the New-York Conference, and stationed on Bergen circuit, in the Philadelphia Conference; in which Conference he continued to labour, in preaching the word of life, until affliction suddenly stopped him. He left this world of conflict at Germantown, Pennsylvania, July 25, 1833, with that faith and assurance with which the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ inspires the believer.

Brother Finley possessed more than ordinary ministerial abilities, but did not always show them to that advantage of which he was capable, in consequence of his constitutional diffidence. However, the seals of his ministry are still in the church, and on their way to meet him in the kingdom of glory.

Brother Finley will long live in the affections of the friends among whom he laboured.

21. William Colbert. No information can be obtained respecting the early life and education of brother Colbert; and the first account we can procure is his being admitted on trial into the Philadelphia Annual Conference, in 1790; and he appears, from the Minutes, to have continued in the travelling connection until 1811, when he located; but in 1826 he was readmitted as a supernumerary, which relation he retained until the termination of his life, in 1833.

Brother Colbert was a minister of exemplary and genuine piety, zealous in the cause of God, earnest in his appeals to the hearts of sinners, to win them to Christ, and successfully urged the promises of the gospel to animate and encourage the people of God "to go up and possess the goodly land."

A few moments previous to his departure, he called his children to his bedside, and exhorted them not to grieve at his death, for he would soon depart from his afflictions, and be with Jesus. He likewise urged, with parental affection, his eldest son to be dutiful to his mother, a father to his younger brothers, and, above all, to take care of his precious soul; and while these exhortations were quivering on his lips, the immortal spirit left its tabernacle of clay, and now, we doubt not, he enjoys the blissful scenes of everlasting life.

22. Lott Warfield, the subject of this memoir, was born in Frederick county, Md., July 28, 1778. In early life he joined the American navy as a midshipman, and after acquitting himself with honour to his profession and country, he retired from the service in 1801. In the gay circles of fashionable dissipation, urged onward by exuberant spirits, and a ready wit, he was suddenly arrested by a painful conviction that he was a sinner, exposed to the wrath of God. Impressed with a deep sense of his sin and danger, he fled to lay hold on the hope set before him in the gospel, and diligently sought and obtained the remission of sins by faith in Jesus Christ. He soon after united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which, after giving evidence of the sincerity of his religious profession and his talent for usefulness, he was in 1806 licensed to exhort. Having exercised his gift in exhortation acceptably and profitably for two years, he was in 1808 licensed to preach, and in 1813 ordained deacon.

In 1815 he was admitted on trial as a travelling preacher by the Philadelphia Annual Conference, and in 1816 ordained elder. He laboured two years as an itinerant with considerable success, and then located. In 1822 he again joined the Conference, and travelled, successively, Milford, Somerset, Dorchester, Queen Ann's, Kent, Talbot, and Caroline circuits, with his accustomed zeal; in all of which he was generally beloved, and eminently useful to many. The Conference of 1832 appointed him to labour on Caroline circuit. With his accustomed zeal he entered upon the duties of his charge, and continued his indefatigable efforts to promote the high object of his mission until some time in autumn, when, in going from Easton, where his family resided, he was attacked with paralysis, which enfeebled his body, and so affected his mind as to disqualify him for some time for ministerial labour. He was, however, partially restored, and afterward preached occasionally.

By the Conference held in Newark, N. J., in April last, which he attended, his name was put on the superannuated list. He returned home from the Conference, and on the 12th of May last attempted to preach in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Easton, Md., from Eccles. viii, 11.

When he had nearly gone through his subject, he paused, and requested the congregation to bear with him a few moments, as he felt ill. He then sat down two or three minutes, after which he closed his sermon with a few remarks, and asked the brethren to sing a few verses of a hymn, after which he dismissed the congregation with the usual benediction as he sat, being deprived of the use of his right side, so that he could not kneel. Two of the brethren then went to him in the pulpit. As they approached, he held out his hand, and said, with a smile, "Do not be alarmed or affrighted; the Lord has blessed me. I had as soon die here, and in this way, as anywhere. My soul is happy! Glory be to God! Hallelujah! Glory!" These, with similar expressions, he continued to utter until his voice was gone.

He was then taken from the pulpit, and conveyed to his house in a close carriage, where he continued to linger in great pain until the Saturday following, being unable to speak, when his immortal spirit took its flight to realms of bliss.

Thus lived and died Lott Warfield, a man full of faith and the Holy Ghost. With a heart formed for friendship and all the domestic virtues, he united the lion-like spirit of a true soldier of the cross; he knew how to wield the shepherd's crook and the warrior's sword; to suffer or to triumph with his Lord. He lived a saint, and died a hero on the field of battle —

"With all his honours thick upon him."

23. William H. Stephens, the subject of this memoir, was born in New-York, December 18, 1804. In his childhood he was the subject of religious impressions, but subsequently he became thoughtless, and disregarded the subject of religion. In the year 1828, under the preaching of the Rev. Charles Pitman, he was awakened and converted to God, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. In the Conference year of 1829 he was appointed by the presiding elder to Burlington circuit, to fill the place of brother Throckmorton, who, in consequence of ill health, was compelled to leave his circuit. In 1830 he was placed by the presiding elder on Bargaintown circuit, and at the Conference of 1831 was admitted on trial, and appointed to Cumberland and Cape May circuit; the next year to Salem circuit; and at the Conference of 1833, held at Newark, he was admitted into full connection, and ordained a deacon. From this Conference he received his appointment to Swedesborough circuit, where he terminated his earthly career.

Brother Stephens was a young man, of studious habits, of good preaching abilities, of ardent piety, of extensive usefulness, and much promise to the church. His life was devout, and his death triumphant. About three weeks previous to his death, he observed, "I know not what God intends to do with me, but I am perfectly resigned." When dying, he was asked what were his prospects for heaven. He replied, "As clear as the noon-day—not a cloud, or the shadow of a doubt." On being asked if Satan tempted him in this hour, he remarked, "He is not suffered to come near." When his physician informed him he would soon be gone, he thanked God, repeating his expressions of gratitude again and again. About an hour before he ceased to breathe the inquiry was again made, "Is your way clear?" He replied, "As clear as a sun beam." Thus lived, and laboured, and died, this servant of the Lord. Our loss we mourn, his memory we cherish, and his Saviour we adore.

NEW-ENGLAND CONFERENCE.

24. Ebenezer Ireson was born of pious parents in Marblehead, Mass., in April, 1800. He experienced the pardoning grace of God in youth, and was exemplary in his piety. He joined the New-England Conference in 1824, and was appointed to Charlestown, Mass.; in 1825, to Danville, Vt.; in 1826 and 1827, to Haverhill, N. H.; in the latter of which years a severe attack of the lung fever laid the foundation of his premature dissolution. In 1828 he was appointed to Malden, Mass.; but the feeble state of his health compelled him to retire from the field of labour. The following year he took a superannuated relation, and located his family in Boston, where he continued until summoned by death to his final reward, on the 26th of December, 1833.

Brother Ireson possessed an amiable disposition and an affectionate heart, with a sound and discriminating mind, well versed in general knowledge and Christian theology. He was a good, useful, and acceptable preacher, and lived and died in the affections and confidence of his brethren. His last sickness was short and severe, but he sustained it with firmness, and has left good evidence of a glorious immortality.

25. Benjamin Keith. He was born in Pomfret, Vt., December 9, 1788, and died in Truro, Mass., February 11, 1834, aged forty-five years. He embraced religion in early life, and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1811 he was received on trial in the New-England Conference, but soon desisted from travelling for want of health; in 1817 he again joined the travelling ministry, in which he continued, graduating to deacon's and elder's orders, until 1821, when, his health declining, he located. In 1826, having in some measure regained his health, he re-entered the itinerant field, in which he continued to the day of his death, preaching and discharging the other duties of his office, as long as his strength would permit. His religious experience was deep and genuine, and his preaching sound and useful; and as he lived the life of the righteous, so he died his death, and no doubt rests from his labours.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

26. Stephen H. Cutler was born in Montpelier, Vt., November 1, 1802. At the age of eighteen he obtained mercy of the Lord, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was licensed to preach in January, 1827, and joined the itinerant ministry in June following. He laboured with acceptance and success on Craftsbury, Troy, Barton, and Cabot circuits. His last appointment was to Barre, where he ended his useful life in peace and triumph, on the 22d of May, 1834, leaving a wife and two small children to mourn an irreparable loss.

Brother Cutler was sound in doctrine; his manners were amiable, sincere, and affectionate; loving and beloved of all his brethren with whom he was associated in the ministry. He was a faithful and zealous minister of Christ, and eminently useful in the cause of God. Through his abundant labours he fell a martyr to his work. He was, however, ready to be offered, so that, when the hour of his departure arrived, he could exclaim, "I have fought a good fight, and finished my course."

The following death was ascertained after the New-Hampshire Conference had adjourned:—

27. George W. Noyes was born in Enfield, N. H., September 18, 1809; born again in the summer of 1828; entered the itinerant ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1830, where he laboured to general acceptance, and with usefulness, on Lyndon, Craftsbury, Cabot, and Barton circuits. But believing it to be his duty to restrict his ministerial labours, that he might render his aged parents some pecuniary assistance, he asked of the Conference a location, which was granted. But before the Conference had closed its session, and while on his way to an appointment, in crossing a bridge, his horse took fright, and precipitated him into the river, where he immediately drowned, on sabbath, the 10th day of August, 1834. Thus, by a mysterious and melancholy providence, were the prospects of his afflicted parents blighted, while the church has lost a bright example and faithful minister.

TROY CONFERENCE.

28. Coles Carpenter was born in Westchester county, N. Y., on the 17th of March, 1784. For want of information we are unable to state any particulars in relation either to his conversion to God, or his call to the work of the ministry. He was admitted on trial in the New-York Conference in 1809, and appointed to travel on Middletown circuit, Conn. In 1811 he was received into full connection and ordained a deacon. Having used the office of a deacon well, in 1813 he was advanced to the office of an elder.

He continued to labour acceptably on some of our most important circuits and stations until August, 1833, when he was appointed presiding elder on Troy district. His labours in this relation to the church were highly appreciated by his brethren. But his valuable services here were of short continuance. Having travelled but a few months on the district, he was attacked with the bilious cholic: the attack was fatal. He died February 17, 1834, in the town of Cambridge, New-York.

In the death of brother Carpenter we have another exhibition of the power and excellence of our holy religion. To a preacher who inquired, he remarked, that he was firm in the doctrines he had preached. To him death had no terrors; he conversed about it with perfect composure. So triumphantly did he grapple with his last enemy, that even his dying accents were, "Glory! glory! glory!" till his voice failed in death.

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

29. Azariah Hall died at Ogdensburg, N. Y., December 15, 1833, after having devoted himself to the ministry of the word for about five years. The exact time of his conversion is not known; but he was admitted on trial in the Oneida Conference in 1828, and continued in the work, with great acceptance and usefulness, until the day of his death. As he had lived several years in the service of his God, so he died in great peace, repeating, in his last moments, several times, "Farewell, glory!"

GENESEE CONFERENCE.

30. Menzer Doud was born in Pittsford, Monroe county, N. Y., April 13, 1803. He embraced religion in his youth; and though his early opportunities were limited, he became one of the most commanding and useful preachers of his age. He entered the itinerant field in 1825. At the Conference of 1832 he was appointed to the Dansville station, which he was soon forced to abandon on account of the declining state of his health. He retired, with his afflicted wife, to his father's house in Pittsford, where he finished his earthly career, on the 27th of April last. Brother Doud was a man of an amiable temper, conciliating manners, and deep and ardent piety. With the utmost composure he talked of his approaching dissolution; and when the hour of his departure came, he met it with expressions of holy triumph.

31. Caleb Kendall was born in 1797, and experienced religion when about twelve years of age. In 1820 he was admitted on trial as a travelling preacher, and continued to labour until his health began to decline, when he obtained a superannuated relation. During the long period of his sufferings, he manifested much Christian patience, and a cheerful resignation to the divine dispensation. He died in Centreville, Alleghany county, N. Y., on the 15th of November, 1833, leaving a satisfactory evidence to his friends that he departed in peace. Brother Kendall was a man of decided piety, and a plain, practical preacher. He has left a widow and three children.

Question. Who have died this year?

PITTSBURG CONFERENCE.

1. JOHN MOFFIT was born in the county of Tyrone, Ireland, March 2, 1798. In the year 1808 his father and family emigrated to the United States, and in 1810 settled in Harrison county, Ohio. His parents were members of the Wesleyan Methodist society in their native country, and early taught their children the fear of the Lord.

At an early age brother Moffit was the subject of powerful awakenings, but did not fully set out in the service of God until he had reached his twenty-first year, when, at a camp meeting, he obtained the pardon of sins, and the most satisfactory evidence of the fact in the witness of the Spirit. Soon after this he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and such were his gifts, piety, and usefulness, that he was licensed to exhort, and afterward to preach as a local preacher. In 1827 he was received on trial in the Pittsburg Conference, and travelled four years successively, with acceptance and usefulness. In 1831 he was ordained elder, and appointed to Leesburg circuit. During this year his health failed, so that he was compelled to retire from the work. In 1832 he received a supernumerary relation, and was appointed to Barnsville circuit, but was able to preach but seldom. Previous to the Conference of 1833 he was completely prostrated, and was placed on the superannuated list. His sufferings, under the consumption, he bore as a Christian. When asked at any time the state of his mind, he would answer, "I am happy in God, and have a living hope, and a bright prospect of everlasting life." In this calm and peaceful state of mind he continued until the 3d of March, 1834, when he fell asleep in Jesus, in the thirty-sixth year of his age, and the seventh of his ministry.

2. ANDREW M'CAMMON was born January 1st, 1810. About the eighteenth year of his age he experienced redemption in the blood of Christ, the forgiveness of sins. In June, 1830, he received license as a local preacher in the Methodist Episcopal Church. At the Pittsburg Annual Conference in 1831 he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to labour on North-East, and in 1832 on Westfield circuit. At the Conference which was held at Meadville in 1833 he was ordained a deacon in the church of God, and appointed to Napoli circuit. Under the influence of a pulmonary consumption his health soon began to decline. His sufferings were protracted, but he bore them with Christian fortitude and patience until the 27th of May, 1834, when he calmly fell asleep in Jesus. His last words were, "My sufferings will soon be over."—"Lord Jesus, receive my spirit."

Brother M'Cammon's talents as a preacher were respectable, and, in connection with his piety, qualified him for usefulness in the church of Christ. But in the morning of life he was cut down by the hand of death, leaving this consolation to friends and relations, for him to die was gain.

OHIO CONFERENCE.

3. THOMAS F. SARGENT was born April 10, 1776, in Frederick county, Maryland. He received an early religious education, and was converted to God in the eighteenth year of his age, and the following year was called to the ministry. In 1795 his name first appeared on the Minutes as an itinerant preacher, and in this relation he filled the most important stations in the Baltimore, Philadelphia, New-York, and New-England Conferences, during the period of nineteen years, when he located and settled in the city of Philadelphia. In this relation he continued eleven years, and sustained a reputable standing as a local preacher. During this time he was engaged in the practice of medicine for the support of his family, and in preaching the word of reconciliation on the sabbath, for both of which he was eminently qualified. In 1824 he was readmitted into the itinerant connection as a supernumerary, and for eight successive years sustained this relation to the Philadelphia Conference. In October, 1832, he removed to Ohio, and settled in the city of Cincinnati, and the following year obtained a transfer to the Ohio Conference, and was appointed to the Cincinnati station as a supernumerary, where he finished his ministerial course, and laid down his life and charge together, on the 29th of December, 1833, in the full hope of immortality.

Dr. Sargent's attainments in literature, divinity, and medicine, were profound and accurate. He was beloved and esteemed by all his numerous acquaintance.

4. James Calahan was the son of pious parents, who were among the pioneers of Methodism in the west. His father, George Calahan, was for several years an itinerant minister of respectable standing, and now sustains a local relation in the Methodist Episcopal Church. When very young, James was the subject of religious impressions, produced, under God, by the instructions and prayers of his parents. While but a boy he experienced the pardoning mercy of God, and enjoyed a clear evidence of the fact, and united himself to the church. He was soon called to fill the important station of class leader, and discharged the duties of the office with fidelity and eminent usefulness. In 1826 he was admitted on trial in the Ohio Annual Conference, and filled important stations and circuits for six years. In 1832, his health having failed, he received a superannuated relation: after this he lingered and suffered another year under pulmonary consumption, which he bore with exemplary patience, and on the 9th November, 1833, he died in peace, in the twenty-seventh year of his age, and seventh of his ministry, at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Burlingham, in the vicinity of Marietta.

Brother Calahan was a young man of respectable talents and attainments. As a minister, he was eminently useful. A prominent trait in his character was candour blended with modesty and affability, which, added to his other virtues, deservedly gave him a high place in the esteem and affection of those who knew him best.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

5. William P. Macknight was born of Presbyterian parents, in the interior of Pennsylvania. From his infancy he was taught to abhor sin, and revere the word and worship of God. The impressions made upon his mind were deep and lasting. An impartial examination of our doctrines convinced him that they were those of the Bible; and under the preaching of these doctrines he was graciously convicted of sin, and soundly converted to God. Having attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, he soon felt it his duty to proclaim that gospel to others which had been the means of his conversion. He was admitted into the Kentucky Conference in 1829. In all the circuits and stations to which he was sent he gave full proof of his ministry; and in some his labours were signally sanctioned and blessed by the great Head of the church. His talents, which were of no ordinary grade, were much improved by education and general reading; and with an untiring zeal they were all devoted to the great work of saving souls. His last appointment was to Louisville station, in which, on account of declining health, he only continued a few weeks. Apprehending that he would soon depart, he endeavoured to reach the place of his nativity, that he might die in the midst of his relations. So rapidly did his disease increase, that he could get no farther than Lancaster, Pa. Here, though among strangers, his couch of sickness was affectionately tended. When told that his end was near, with a heavenly smile he promptly replied, "Brother, all is well." His expiring words were, "My work is finished:—glory! glory!"

6. Thomas P. Vance has been called from labour to reward. In 1827 he obtained a knowledge of God, in the remission of sins, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. The love of Christ, and the love of souls, soon constrained him to enter the work of the ministry. In 1829 he was received on trial in the Kentucky Conference, in which he continued for four years, labouring faithfully, and with success. While on his way from the last Conference to the field of his labour, he and his wife, whom he had recently married, were attacked with the bilious fever. After lingering from the 23d of September to the 6th of October, his surviving companion and the kind family in which Providence had cast his lot were called to witness the termination of his brief, but bright and useful career.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

7. William Mavity was born in Franklin county, Va., in the year 1780. He was married in the year 1801; and in 1804 removed to Smith county, West Tennessee. In 1808 he embraced religion; and in the year 1809 commenced preaching. He moved to Kentucky, and resided there two years, and then moved to Harrison county, Indiana, and resided in that state nine years. He entered the travelling connection in the Illinois Annual Conference in 1827, and laboured with acceptance and usefulness as a minister of Christ until he died on the Wabash circuit, to which he had been appointed, in the month of August, 1834. He lived a pious life, and died a happy death.

INDIANA CONFERENCE.

8. George Locke was born in Mason county, Ky., June 8, 1797. He experienced religion in the eighteenth year of his age, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. About two years after his conversion he commenced his itinerant labours, under the direction of a presiding elder, in the Kentucky Conference, and in 1818 he was received on trial into the travelling connection. From that time he continued to travel and preach, in several Conferences, on several circuits, and on one district, with acceptance and usefulness. At the sitting of the Indiana Conference, in the fall of 1833, he received a superannuated relation, and on the 15th day of July, 1834, he was called from labour and suffering to reward. He died of an affection of the lungs.

Brother Locke was a useful and successful minister of Christ. He was an accurate and strong reasoner, and his learning was respectable. He expired shouting, "Glory to God!" Servant of God, well done; well hast thou fought and conquered.

9. Nehemiah B. Griffith, the subject of this memoir, was born some time in the year 1798, in Whitehall, Washington county, N. Y. In the eighteenth year of his age, he, with his father, emigrated to the state of Ohio. When about twenty-one years of age, he, principally through the instrumentality of William H. Raper, was brought into the fold of God, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. In six or seven months after he first obtained pardon, God in answer to his fervent prayers conferred on him the inestimable blessing of sanctification. In 1822 he was admitted on trial into the travelling connection, where he remained, discharging the duties of an itinerant minister, until his work was done. Through his instrumentality many of the circuits where he laboured were blessed with powerful revivals of the work of God. He was well acquainted with the doctrines and discipline of the church to which he belonged, and endeavoured wherever he went to sustain both. He died of an inflammatory affection of the liver, at the residence of his father, in St. Joseph county, Ind., on the 22d day of August, 1834. Not long before he expired, he exclaimed, "Glory, glory, glory! Sweet heaven, I am coming!" and between six and seven o'clock, A. M., his triumphant spirit took its flight to the mansions of rest.

10. James Armstrong was born in Ireland, in the year 1787 or 1788, and was brought by his parents to America when but a child. When he was about seventeen years old, he, through the instrumentality of Methodist preachers, was led to embrace religion, immediately after which he attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church in the city of Philadelphia. In 1812 he was licensed to preach as a local preacher in the city of Baltimore. In 1821 he emigrated to the state of Indiana, and in the fall of the same year joined the itinerant connection, in which he continued an acceptable and useful member until God called him to his reward. He was an able minister of the New Testament: he laboured with indefatigable diligence to promote the prosperity of Zion. God gave him many seals to his ministry, and thousands have no doubt been profited by his labours; some of whom went before, and others remain to follow after, who will rise up in eternity and call him blessed. He died in peace at his own residence, in Laporte county, Ind., on the 12th of September, 1834.

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

11. JOHN COLLINSWORTH. He was born in Virginia, February 22, 1786, and in his thirteenth year embraced religion. In 1807 he was received on trial in the South Carolina Conference, and continued his itinerant labours until 1816, when, in consequence of feeble health, he located. In this relation he continued for ten years, ministering to his necessities by the labour of his hands, and yet preaching as extensively as his strength would allow, until the year 1827, when his health returning, he re-entered the travelling ministry, the duties of which he discharged with zeal and fidelity. In 1831 he was appointed a missionary on Sugar Creek and Little River, where by his good conduct he gained access to the hearts of the slaves and the confidence of their masters. In 1834 he was stationed at Eatonton and Clinton. Here he closed his laborious and useful life, September 4, 1834, in the full hope of eternal life.

12. JAMES BELLAH was born in North Carolina, and at the age of twenty-two years was made a subject of converting grace. In 1816 he was admitted on trial in the South Carolina Conference, and for seventeen years he travelled and preached with zeal and usefulness, when he was obliged, from feeble health, to desist for a while from effective service; but as soon as his strength would admit he returned to his work, and continued until he was worn out. His last moments were moments of great peace and holy triumph, he testifying to the last his firm hope of immortal blessedness.

13. GEORGE BISHOP was a native of South Carolina. In the year 1829 he embraced religion, and in 1831 was admitted on trial in the Conference, and continued his labours with vigour and usefulness until 1834, when he sunk into the arms of death, fully ripe for heavenly glory. He was a young man of a vigorous mind; thought and studied with deep attention, and was fully competent for a manly defence of the doctrines and usages of his church. His premature death therefore deprived his brethren of that hope in his future usefulness which the early unfolding of his mind gave them reason to expect.

14. RUSSELL J. RICHARDSON was born in Jasper county, Ga., July 23, 1808. When about sixteen years of age he was happily converted to God, and in about four years after he commenced preaching the gospel. In 1830 he entered the travelling ministry; but in 1831, in consequence of a distressing nervous affection, he suffered a temporary derangement of mind, on which account he was discontinued. In 1834, being restored to soundness of mind, he was again employed on a circuit, but was soon cut down by the resistless scythe of death, and taken no doubt to his everlasting reward.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

[The three following Memoirs were omitted in last year's Minutes, not having been received in time.]

15. ABSALOM BROWN. We have no certain information of the time or place of his birth. He was admitted on trial in the itinerancy, and travelled Lincoln circuit in 1828; Quincy, in Florida, in 1829; Sugar Creek in 1830 and 1831; Rocky River in 1832; and Montgomery, where he died, in 1833.

Brother Brown's death was probably occasioned by paralysis; and for several months before that event his reason was much impaired. During all that time, however, the delirious preacher was still occupied with preaching, and other holy services; and sometimes it seemed difficult to persuade one's self that the wise remarks he made could proceed from one in his circumstances.

He was an humble-minded, godly man, and an able and considerably successful preacher: We doubt not of his being with the Lord in glory.

16. JAMES J. RICHARDSON. He was born in Marion district, S. C., June 22, 1805. Born again January 8, 1827. Licensed to preach October 25, 1828. He travelled Black River circuit in the year 1829, Montgomery in 1830, Hollow Creek (now Barnwell) in 1831, Sugar Creek in 1832, and York (where he ended his labours) in 1833.

Brother Richardson was a very amiable man, a highly gifted preacher, and a faithful and successful labourer in the great work of winning souls. In him genius was blended with sweetness of spirit, and uncommon ability with an humble mind. His brethren loved him greatly, and he enjoyed richly in his own soul the blessings of the gospel which he preached to others. It pleased God to favour him with extraordinary manifestations of grace in his last illness, so that he seemed to die almost literally in sight of heaven. After commending his wife and child confidently to God, sending his affectionate farewell and dying exhortations to his father and his brethren in the ministry, and charging all about him to prepare to follow him, he departed this life at Yorkville, S. C., July 9, 1833.

17. Thomas Neill was born in Burke county, N. C., January 8, 1806. Born again in September, 1822. He was licensed to preach January 8, 1831, and that year he travelled the Rutherford circuit. In 1832 he was appointed to the Lincolnton circuit, and to Newberry for the year 1833. In this circuit it pleased God to dismiss him from the labours of his calling, and take him early into his Master's rest. He died July 21, 1833. When one asked him, "Are you afraid to die?" he seemed surprised at the question, and returned, "Surely you do not think me a hypocrite!" "But you really are dying," said another. "Then all is well," was the answer of our godly young brother.

Brother Neill was a sober, watchful, faithful man, who promised much usefulness in the ministry; but it hath pleased God to take him from us; and it behooves us who are continued a little longer in the field to work watchfully and prayerfully, knowing that the Master needs us not, and will at his own time call us to the reckoning.

18. Isaac Smith. He was one of the fathers of our church in this country, and one entitled to be had in everlasting remembrance. He entered the itinerancy at a Conference in Virginia, his native state, April 30, 1784, and travelled that year the Salisbury circuit, and the next year Tar River, both in North Carolina. He was with Henry Willis in Charleston, 1786; Santee circuit, 1787. In the Minutes of 1788 his name is given in the list of deacons, but not in that of the appointments, probably by an error of the press. It stands for Edisto circuit, 1789; Charleston, 1790; Broad River, 1791; and Santee, 1792. For the year 1793 he was presiding elder of almost the entire of our present Conference district; in which, for 1794, he was succeeded by Philip Bruce, and divided his time between Charleston and Edisto circuits. He was again presiding elder, and over a still more extensive field than before, in 1795. This year's labours must have been beyond his strength; and for 1796 the Minutes give his name to the question, "Who are under location through weakness of body, or family concerns?" In 1797 he was a supernumerary; and afterward his name disappeared from the Minutes till 1820, during which time he was located in Camden, S. C. He was readmitted at the Conference in Charleston, January 13, 1820, and appointed to Columbia for that year. In 1821 he was presiding elder of the Athens district, in Georgia. In 1822 he was appointed to the charge of the Asbury mission among the Creek Indians; where he continued, a light in a dark place, till the infirmities of age obliged him to take a superannuated relation to the Conference in 1827.

Of our venerated father we cannot trust ourselves to speak fully. He was the oldest, and what was well becoming the father of the Conference, the most honoured and beloved of all the preachers. Believing every word of God, meek above the reach of provocation, and thoroughly imbued with the spirit of love and devotion, he was a saint indeed. After much suffering, he died of a cancer at the extremity of the spine, July 20, 1834, full of faith and the comfort of the Holy Ghost, aged seventy-six years, and more than half a century a minister of the gospel. We expect there will be published memoirs of his life, written by himself.

19. Josiah Freeman. He was born October 5, 1797, in Oglethorpe county, Ga. He was admitted on trial in the itinerancy in the year 1822, and that year travelled the Sandy River circuit; in 1823, Black Mountain; 1824, Lincoln, where he laboured two years; 1826, Wilmington; 1827, Camden; 1828, Tallahassee; 1829, Charleston; 1830, Columbia; 1831, Fayetteville; 1832, he was again appointed to Columbia; 1833, Rocky River circuit; 1834, Yorkville, which concluded his labours upon earth. In all his appointments he sustained himself as a godly and useful minister; diligent in duty, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord with admirable simplicity and steadfastness. Early after he reached his circuit last year his health failed him; but he kept on his appointments till the month of August. His strength now failed him utterly, and he left his circuit for Columbia, in which place he died of diarrhœa, November 27, 1834.

The affliction of our beloved brother was tedious, and extremely painful; but through it all he found the grace of God sufficient for him. Patient, resigned, and happy, he often said, "All is well!" and the last day of his mortal life was the brightest and the best. "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace."

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

20. Stith Mead was born in the county of Bedford, Va., September 25, 1767. In the twenty-second year of his age he was brought to the knowledge of the truth, and in July, 1790, he was made a "partaker of perfect love." In 1793 he was admitted on trial in the travelling ministry; and with the exception of two years, during which time he was returned superannuated, he continued to travel and preach with great acceptance and usefulness, until 1816, when he received a location. In this relation he continued eleven years, when, at his request, he was readmitted into the Conference as a superannuated preacher, and thus continued until his death. Old and feeble as he was, he abated none of his zeal in the sacred cause, but continued his labours as far as his feeble strength would permit.

In his last moments he evinced perfect resignation to the will of God; and after commending his family to God, he died triumphantly in the faith, leaving behind him the brightness of his example for the edification of those who should come after him.

Though brother Mead was not distinguished by great talents or literary attainments, he was eminently useful. A holy unction signalized his ministrations, and he was an instrument in promoting those revivals of religion in the southern states which are yet fresh in the recollection of some, and in which men were raised up who have been extensively useful in the church of God. His long and steady life, and his persevering exertions in the cause of his Master, entitle him to a more extended notice than we are able to give in this sketch. But his reward is with his God, and his example will long live in the recollections of those who knew his worth.

21. Jonathan Williams was born November 8, 1802, in the county of Northampton, N. C. At the early age of ten years his mind was deeply impressed with the necessity of religion. He prayed much, and by the dint of his own application learned to read the Scriptures. Shortly afterward he obtained a sense of pardoned sin, which for some time he enjoyed; but in consequence of not joining the church, and associating too much with the ungodly, he backslid. In the year 1824 he was again awakened by reading the "Saints' Everlasting Rest," and brought back to God. He then obtained license as a local preacher, and after remaining in that relation three years, was received on trial in the Virginia Conference, in Richmond, 1830. He laboured with general acceptance and usefulness until disabled by his last sickness; and although his affliction was protracted, yet he was graciously sustained, and bore the whole with fortitude and resignation.

As he approached the hour of dissolution his confidence gathered strength in his divine Saviour, and the gloom of the grave was entirely removed by the brightness of his prospects. His last expressions were, that all was well, and that he was going in peace with God and man.

The following memoir was not received in time to appear in last year's Minutes:—

22. Edward Cannon was born 1784, in Princess Ann county, Va. In 1803 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church; in 1807 he was admitted on trial in the Virginia Conference; from which time he continued his itinerant labours until the year 1822, when he was superannuated; in 1823 he located; and in 1825 his name was again entered on the Minutes of Conference among the superannuated preachers, and so continued the remaining part of his life, which ended August 11, 1833.

A little before his death he said to brother Early, "We have now to go back to first principles." And again, "If I were not now a converted man I could not become one." He has gone to his reward, leaving a wife and three children in the care of the widow's God and the orphan's Father.

Brother Cannon's mind was active and vigorous; his soul thirsted for knowledge, and drank deep from its fountain. He was an able minister of Jesus Christ; a workman that need not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. He read and thought much, and was esteemed by his brethren as an excellent divine. His influence, popularity, and extensive usefulness as a Methodist preacher, were felt and acknowledged in the Virginia Conference. He was a man of pleasing exterior, agreeable manners, and uniform conduct; he was sincere, humble, benevolent, and pious; "an Israelite indeed;" "a burning and shining light." The evening of his life was calm; his sun went down without a cloud, to rise and shine with renewed brilliancy in the heavenly world.

The memoir of John S. Thompson has not been received.

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

23. William Bishop was a native of Worcester county, Md. The exact time of his birth is not known, but it is believed that he died in the seventieth year of his age, and the forty-third of his itinerant ministry. He was eminently a good man, zealous and faithful in the discharge of his public and private duties as a travelling preacher. He died suddenly at the house of his friend, Colonel William Hughleth, near Easton, Md., on the 22d of June, 1834.

24. Joseph Osborn was a native of Fairfield county, Conn. He was made a partaker of the grace of life while quite young, and in 1800 was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference. In 1806 the loss of health compelled him to become superannuated; but in 1810 he had so far regained his health as to re-enter the itinerant field, in which he continued, witnessing some great revivals of religion as the fruit of his labours, until 1823, when he took a supernumerary relation. He still continued his efforts to advance the cause of Christ as his strength would admit, until his death, which took place in the early part of February, 1835, at the house of his son, in Chestertown, Kent county, Md., in the sixty-seventh year of his age. He was a man of deep piety, and his end was peace.

25. William Bloomer was born in Sullivan county, N. Y., December 14, 1808, and was made a partaker of pardoning mercy in the fourteenth year of his age. In 1830 he was admitted on trial in the travelling ministry, and continued to labour in this field until he was called to his reward on the 18th of November, 1834, in the twenty-sixth year of his age. He gave promise of usefulness had his life been spared. He died in great peace.

26. John Goforth was born in Dover, Del., February 29, 1784. At the age of twenty-two he became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and in the spring of 1813 he entered the travelling ministry, on trial. He laboured assiduously and successfully until 1820, when his health declining, he took a supernumerary relation. In 1824 he had so far recovered his health as to do effective service again, and continued so to do until 1830, when he was again obliged to relinquish that work which was the delight of his heart, and to become supernumerary, though he still laboured to the extent of his ability to the end of life. He finally sunk away into the arms of death under the influence of a pulmonary consumption, giving good evidence that he rests in hope where no "chilling blasts" disturb his sweet repose.

27. William M'Lenahan was a native of Ireland, but came to this country when nineteen years of age. From the best data we have, it appears that he embraced religion at the age of twenty-five. In 1787 he commenced his labours as a travelling minister, and continued faithfully to discharge his duties, though sometimes in a superannuated relation, for about forty-five years, often enduring many privations, and submitting to hardships, in the early days of Methodism, to which but few are now called. But his "bow abode in strength," and his heart rejoiced in witnessing the enlargement of the work on every hand.

In the year 1811 he became supernumerary, and in 1812 superannuated, which relation he sustained until the day of his death, which took place July 10, 1834. Retiring in his manners, humble in his disposition, deeply pious, and zealously devoted to his work, he acquired and maintained the confidence of his brethren, and commended himself to every man's conscience in the sight of God. His end was peace.

28. Samuel M'Elwee was born in Cecil county, Md., and was made a partaker of converting grace about the year 1815. After labouring for several years as a local preacher, in 1829 he entered the travelling ministry, in which he continued until 1834, when he closed his days in peace, December 24, in the forty-fourth year of his age. He was well qualified for, and deeply devoted to his work, and was rendered a blessing to many.

NEW-ENGLAND CONFERENCE.

29. Samuel Osgood Wright. The subject of this brief memoir was born in Springfield, Mass., October 25, 1808. He was the second son of Calvin and Mary Wright, who are respectable members of the Calvinistic Congregational Church. In the winter of 1824 he was awakened and hopefully converted under the ministry of the Rev. John W. Hardy, and on the 4th of March following he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, a branch of which had just been formed in his native village. In 1829 he was licensed to exhort, and subsequently to preach. In May of the following year he was received into the travelling ministry in the New-England Conference, and stationed in Malden, Mass., where he laboured so acceptably, that by special request he was reappointed the year following. In 1832 he was appointed to Braintree, Mass., where his labours while he remained with this people were both creditable to himself and acceptable to them.

In the autumn of this year an urgent call being made for missionaries to go to Western Africa, he, with his companion in life, with whom he had but a few months previously been united, pledged themselves to this hazardous service.

On the 6th of November, 1833, they sailed from Norfolk, Va., in company with others, for Liberia, where they arrived on the 1st of January, 1834. After suffering three violent attacks of the fever of the country—which sufferings were aggravated by the painful sickness and death of his wife—he fell a martyr to the cause they had so ardently espoused.

His last sickness being attended with delirium, the exercises of his mind in view of death could not be fully known; but we doubt not he experienced the full import of the apostolic declaration, "to die is gain." He died on the 29th of March, 1834, at eight, A. M., in the twenty-sixth year of his age, and fourth of his public ministry.

For a more full and circumstantial account of Mr. Wright's life, character, &c., the reader is referred to his Memoir by B. B. Thatcher, Boston, 1835.

30. Oliver E. Bosworth was born in Northampton, Mass., either in 1808 or 1809, according to the best information received. He became the subject of conversion during a revival in his native town in 1830, and immediately united himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. About one year from the time of his conversion he was employed to travel and preach by the presiding elder of Springfield district.

He was received on trial in the New-England Conference at Providence, R. I., in June, 1832, and continued his labours with zeal and diligence until about the middle of the year 1834, when his health began rapidly to decline, and continued so till the 5th of March, 1835, when, with Christian resignation, he took leave of his family, his labours, and a world of sin and sorrow, to go to his everlasting and glorious reward.

He possessed a clear understanding; his preaching was perspicuous and pointed; his manner dignified and graceful, and his piety deep and uniform. He will long live in the affectionate remembrance of his friends and acquaintances.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

31. Joseph Dearborn was born July 14, 1806, in Rumney, N. H. In 1822 he found redemption in the blood of Christ, and in 1831 was received into the travelling ministry, and continued to labour as an itinerant until December 28, 1834, when he preached his last sermon. From that period he lingered along the shores of time, often suffering much in body and mind, until the 6th of March, 1835, when God gave him a complete victory over the fear of death, and he at length entered triumphantly into his Master's joy. His talents, piety, and diligence were such as gave promise of extensive usefulness, had his life been prolonged; but God took him to himself in the midst of his labours, and his works have followed him.

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

32. Matthew Wescott was born in Watertown, Jefferson county, N. Y., May 7, 1807. In his eleventh year, during a great revival of religion, he was brought from darkness to light. In 1830 he was admitted on trial as a travelling preacher, and, with the exception of one year, when, from bodily infirmity, he was obliged to desist, he continued his itinerant labours until 1834, when his health was entirely prostrated; and he died in great peace, with the consumption, in the twenty-ninth year of his age. His ministerial career was short, but brilliant and useful.

33. Seth Young was born June 20, 1784, in Ballston, Saratoga county, N. Y. In 1811 he was brought to the knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus, and in 1823 entered the travelling ministry, and continued to travel and preach extensively and usefully until 1832, when he was returned a supernumerary; and though in 1833 he was considered effective, yet it was soon evident that he was not adequate to the full labours of a circuit, and accordingly, in 1834, was superannuated. On the 7th of February, 1835, he died suddenly of the bilious cholic, and no doubt entered into rest, as he had, by his diligence in his calling, by his depth of piety, and uniformity of Christian conduct, furnished indubitable evidence of his preparedness to meet his end in peace.

GENESEE CONFERENCE.

34. Joseph Tompkinson. He was born in Staffordshire, England, July 11, 1784, and was made a partaker of the grace of life at the early age of twelve years. He joined the Methodists, and such were his attainments in piety and gifts, that at the age of sixteen he was appointed a class leader, and at eighteen was licensed as a local preacher. Soon after he emigrated to this country, and in 1829 was received as a probationer in the Genesee Conference, and continued his labours in the itinerant field with zeal and success until 1834, when want of health obliged him to desist. He gradually declined in health until September 15, 1835, when he peacefully took his departure to a better world. His deportment always corresponded with his profession, and gave weight to his public addresses.

MINUTES OF CONFERENCES.

Quest. Who have died this year?

1. WILLIAM M'KENDREE, senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Bishop M'Kendree was born in King William county, state of Virginia, on the 6th day of July, 1757. In the year 1787, during an extensive revival of religion in the section of country where he lived, under the ministry of the Rev. John Easter, he was brought to a knowledge of acceptance with God through Jesus Christ. In less than nine months after his conversion, he was received on trial as a travelling preacher, and appointed to a circuit. He travelled extensively, and laboured abundantly, as a pioneer through the new states and territories of the west, and a preacher and presiding elder in the regular work, until May, 1808, when he was elected by the General Conference to the office of a general superintendent, or bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. This office he filled with much credit to himself and usefulness to the Church, until the General Conference of 1820, when the debilitated state of his health rendered it necessary that he should be released, in a degree, from the severity of those labours and responsibilities which the duties of a general superintendent involve. For this, provision was made by a resolution of the conference, who respectfully requested him, at the same time, to resume the functions of his office as soon as his strength would admit. The residue of his devoted life he employed, to the extent of his ability, in attending the successive General Conferences, and as many of the annual conferences as he could; and promoting the interests of the work by the influence of his example and the aid of his counsels. His long and eminently useful life terminated March 5, 1835, at five o'clock, P. M. He died as he lived, "strong in the faith, giving glory to God." He proclaimed in his last hours, "All is well." An interesting account of his life and labours is contained in Bishop Soule's excellent sermon, preached before the General Conference during its last session, and published at the request of that body. Bishop Soule was also requested, by the conference, to prepare the life of the deceased Bishop M'Kendree for publication, which it is hoped will in due time appear.

2. JOHN EMORY, junior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. This eminent man of God was born in Maryland, and educated for the profession of the law. At the age of about seventeen he experienced religion, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In his twenty-second year (1810) he entered the travelling connection on trial, in the Philadelphia Conference. In 1820 he was delegated, by the General Conference, to visit the British Conference of Wesleyan Methodists, as their representative to that body. In 1824 he was elected by the General Conference as assistant agent in the Book Concern at New-York; and in 1828 as the principal agent. During this latter period, he discharged the duties of editor of the Magazine and Quarterly Review with distinguished ability. In 1832 he was elected a bishop. This office he was permitted to fill but a short time. By an inscrutable providence he was removed from his work in the prime of life, when the whole Church was looking, with much confidence, to the beneficial influence of his counsels and labours, in promoting the prosperity of its institutions. On Wednesday the 16th of December last, he left home in the morning to go to Baltimore, on business connected with his office. He was thrown from his carriage and received a wound in his head, of which he died about seven o'clock in the evening of the same day. The life of this great and good man will, we expect, in due time be furnished to the public, by hands capable of placing his worth in a true light.

OHIO CONFERENCE.

3. PHILIP GATCH was born in Baltimore county, Md., March 2, 1751, and awakened to a sense of his lost condition in 1772, under a sermon of Nathan Perrigo, being the first ever preached by a Methodist in that neighbourhood, shortly after which he obtained a clear evidence of justification through faith in our Lord Jesus Christ. He began his itinerant labours under the superintendence of the Rev. Thomas Rankin in 1773, though his name did not appear on the printed Minutes until the Conference in Philadelphia in 1774. Brother Gatch was among the first native American Methodist preachers, and outlived all his early cotemporaries in the work. His travels were mostly in the states of New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia, and performed in those days of peril which tried men's souls. In one instance he fell into the hands of a persecuting mob, which used tar freely upon him for preaching Christ and the resurrection; some of which being violently drawn across his naked eye-ball, well nigh destroyed it.—After his health was impaired by labour and exposure, he desisted from travelling, and lived sixteen years in Powhatan county, Virginia, and afterward five years in Buckingham county. From thence he emigrated to the Northwestern Territory, in the year 1798, and settled on Little Miami, a few miles east of Cincinnati, when that city was but a small village. In this new country Brother Gatch took an active and distinguished part, both as a local minister and as a citizen. He was re-admitted into the travelling connection in the latter part of his life, and placed in a superannuated relation to the Ohio Conference, in which relation he continued until death. His last sermon was preached the day he was eighty-four years old. He finished his course in great peace, and with an unshaken confidence in Christ, Sunday evening, the 28th of last December, aged eighty-five years, lacking two months and five days.

4. WILLIAM PAGE was born in East Jersey, Monmouth county, September 2, 1772. Our brother, in his fifteenth year, became a hearer of Methodist preachers, and while listening attentively to Rev. E. Cooper, "I thought," says he, "he told me all that ever I did in my life." Shortly after a door was opened, and he, with several others, were admitted into the Church. At the session of the Philadelphia Conference, held in Philadelphia in 1793, he was admitted on trial and appointed to Dover circuit, in the state of Delaware. He continued to travel on different circuits till the year 1797, a the close of which he married and located; in which relation he continued until 1803, when he again entered the travelling connection. He continued to travel till 1809 in the Baltimore Conference, when the weight and care of a growing family caused him again to locate. In the fall of 1814 he removed to the state of Ohio, and settled in Adams county. The fire that had been kindled in his heart in his youthful days continued to burn, and he could not rest easy in a local sphere. In 1820 he again entered the travelling connection, in which he continued until he closed his earthly existence. He had, on account of bodily infirmities, sustained a superannuated relation for several years before his death. His last affliction was painful and protracted, which he bore with great patience, and during which he enjoyed great peace of mind; and there is no doubt that he exchanged a world of sorrow and affliction for the land of everlasting rest. He departed this life at his own home in Clermont county, on Saturday morning, November 15, 1834, in the sixty-third year of his age.

5. Russel Bigelow departed this life in the city of Columbus, July 1, 1835, in the forty-third year of his age. The subject of this brief notice has long been known as a most devoted and useful minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Brother Bigelow possessed a strong and vigorous mind, a sound and discriminating judgment, and early gave promise of that distinction which has been so justly awarded him. Ardent and zealous in the promotion of useful knowledge, his attainments were proportionably great. In every thing connected with his office, he was "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." For more than twenty years he has borne the burden and heat of the day. Instant in season and out of season, he never shrunk from summer's heat or winter's cold; and he was heard to say, that he had not made a disappointment in nineteen years! His labours have always been great—so much so, that a broken constitution and a premature grave have been the consequence. His health had been feeble for several years; and he had been brought near the grave. In March last, his health being much improved, he was appointed chaplain to the Ohio penitentiary. The zeal of former years marked his course in that institution; and he has won for himself a reputation that eternity alone can fully reveal. The hopes of his friends, as to his restoration to health, were here doomed to a speedy disappointment. About two weeks before his death he was attacked with dysentery; which, preying upon his already enfeebled constitution, soon wore him away. In the midst of his sufferings he was entirely resigned to the will of God; while, in the language of living faith, he was heard to exclaim, "Glory to God!" And while a brother in the ministry was praying by his bedside, his responsive amens confirmed the truth of the poet's language: "The chamber where the good man meets his fate" is "quite on the verge of heaven." Our beloved brother has gone, we doubt not, to receive the kingdom and crown which shall be awarded to the faithful in glory.

MISSOURI CONFERENCE.

6. Thomas Drummond was born in Manchester, England, January 27, 1806. In 1811 he came to America with his father's family, who settled in the west. In the twelfth year of his age he professed to find the pardoning mercy of God. This blessing he soon lost, through the neglect of duty and the influence of irreligious company. In 1827 he was again justified. In 1829 he was licensed as a local preacher. In 1830 he was admitted on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference, where he laboured for four years with acceptance and usefulness. In 1834 he was transferred as a volunteer to the Missouri Conference, and appointed to St. Louis station, where he ended his useful labours. On Sabbath, the 14th of June, 1835, at eleven o'clock, he preached with more than ordinary fervour, though somewhat indisposed. He intended to preach again in the evening, but was prevented by a violent attack of cholera. All efforts to arrest the disease were in vain, and on Monday the 15th, he closed his mortal career in triumph. His last words were, "All is well. Tell my brethren of the Pittsburgh Conference, I die at my post." As a preacher, Brother D. was above mediocrity. His literary attainments were very respectable.

7. Richard Henry Lee died on the 15th of March, 1835, at the house of W. Walker, Esq., aged twenty-six years and a few days. Brother Lee, though young, was a man of affliction; and the slow consumption finally released his happy spirit from its wasted tenement. Near the closing scene he said, "If religion is love, I feel it; I know I love God; God is love!" and rejoiced in prospect of his heavenly inheritance. The evening of his death, while some pious friends were singing, "And let this feeble body fail," &c., he gave his hand to all present; and being asked if all was calm and peace, he answered, "All is peace!" and fell asleep in Jesus.

8. John P. Neil. We have no certain information concerning the early history of Brother Neil. In 1832 he was admitted on trial in the Missouri Conference, and appointed to Spring River circuit, Arkansas Territory, where he laboured with acceptance and success. In 1833 he was appointed to St. Helena: during this year he suffered some affliction, but was able to attend to the work assigned him. At the Conference of 1834 he was ordained deacon, and appointed to Green circuit. In a short time, while on a visit to his friends, he was attacked with disease, which prevented his rendering any efficient service during the year. In July it was apparent he must soon die. He bore his sufferings of body with much patience and resignation; and about the last of July, 1835, he entered into rest.

9. Martin Wells died of influenza on the 20th of March, 1835. Brother Wells filled some important and difficult stations in the service of the Church. He was a missionary for several years to the Cherokee Indians in troublous times, and suffered in common with his brethren. He served two years as presiding elder on the Arkansas district, and discharged the duties of that relation with fidelity and usefulness, and in a way to endear himself to the people of that territory—in whose affection he will long live. At the Conference in 1834, he was appointed as a supernumerary on the Little Rock circuit, and died in the midst of his toil, and at the meridian of his life; but, like the beloved Drummond, he "died at his post," and rests from his labours.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

10. Benjamin Ogden was a native of New-Jersey, born in 1764. In early life he was a soldier of the revolution which gave distinction and independence to his country. He embraced religion in 1784, at the age of twenty. In 1786, he is found among the travelling preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, two years after its first organization. His first appointment was to the then wilderness of Kentucky, as a missionary. Ill health compelled him to desist from travelling in 1788. In 1817 he is again found in the travelling connection. He soon, however, sunk a second time under the pressure of ill health, but re-appears in active service in 1824. In 1827 he took his place upon the superannuated list, where he remained until his death, in November, 1834. He appears to have been a man of good native intellect, and various attainments as a Christian minister, and especially well instructed, and deeply imbued with the principles and spirit of his vocation, as a primitive Methodist preacher. After a long life of laborious toil and effective service, in the furtherance of the Gospel, this venerable servant of God and his Church—one of the two first missionaries who penetrated the vast valley of the Mississippi—was released by death from his militant charge, and expiring in all the calmness and confidence of faith and hope, went to his reward.

11. Samuel Harrison was a native of Virginia; born in Rockingham county, October 8, 1782. His conversion is dated in 1803. He entered the travelling connection, South Carolina Conference, in 1808. He travelled three years and then located. He re-entered the travelling connection, same conference, in 1815, and continued till 1819: during this year he removed to Kentucky. He entered the travelling connection again, Kentucky Conference, in 1827. He travelled effectively six years, when his health failing, he became, in 1833, superannuated. In 1834 his relation was changed to supernumerary, and he assigned to labour in proportion to his strength. Shortly after conference in 1834, he was taken ill of typhus fever, delirium ensued, and it was only during lucid intervals that he expressed any thing respecting his future hopes and prospects. During these, however, he gave ample satisfaction on the subject of his readiness to "depart and be with Christ;" assuring his family and his friends that he was not unprepared to meet the summons of his God, and thus finally expired in peace and tranquillity.

12. Minor M. Cosby embraced religion, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, when about twenty-one years of age, and two years after became a travelling preacher in the Kentucky Conference. He was a young man of good understanding, great industry, and hopeful carriage, in and out of the pulpit. His piety was deep, consistent, and uniform. He steadily aimed at improvement as it regarded himself, and usefulness to the Church and to all among whom he laboured. He sought to do good as the great end of his vocation; and furnished, during the four years of his labour in the travelling connection, full proof of his ministry. He died on the 5th of September, 1835, of congestive fever. His last sufferings were severe and trying, but were borne with firmness and resignation; and the testimony of his dying hour illustrated the principles of his profession as a minister of Christ.

13. William Outten was a native of Fayette county, Kentucky. He became decidedly pious at a very early age. His mind was of the ordinary cast, but respectably cultivated by education, and his early preparation for the pulpit. His career as a minister was brief, dying the early part of the second year of his admission into Kentucky Conference upon trial in 1833. His exemplary piety, his constant devotion to the objects and interests of his calling, endeared him to all who appreciate moral worth in the character of a minister. He sank in death at the premature age of twenty-one; but that death was peaceful and triumphant, and he rests from his labours.

14. William Adams was a native of Virginia, Fairfax county, and was born the 29th of June, 1785. He was the nephew of William Waters, the first native American travelling preacher. His family emigrated to Kentucky at an early day, and settled near Lexington. Piously educated, he joined the Church at an early age, say fifteen, made profession of the knowledge of salvation by the remission of sins soon after, and in 1813 commenced preaching. In 1814 he joined the travelling connection, and continued regular and effective as a travelling preacher up to the period of his death. Possessed of a good, strong mind naturally, that mind was handsomely stored with valuable information. To no mean pretensions of scholarship, especially as it regards English literature, he added an admirable store of theological attainments: and few men have appeared upon the same theatre whose every day performances, throughout the year, ranked higher than those of William Adams. Although seldom overpowering in the pulpit, he was always lucid, strong, and convincing. His manner was singularly suasive and impressive. His moral and religious worth was universally known and appreciated among those who enjoyed his acquaintance. Grave and serious in manner, he was at the same time cheerful and amiable. Studious and laborious in his habits, he was always social and accessible. He lived beloved and died regretted by all who knew him well, and especially by those who knew his value as a member, and for many years the secretary, of the Kentucky Annual Conference. His death was not only peaceful, but signally triumphant.

15. Francis Landrum was born in Virginia, Loudon county, February 5, 1789. He embraced religion and joined the Church in 1807, Louisa county, Va. He was successively known, soon after, as a class leader, exhorter, and local preacher. In 1810 he removed to Kentucky, and was extensively useful in the section in which he resided as a local preacher. In 1811 he joined the travelling connection, and travelled effectively until he fell a victim to bilious fever in the early part of the autumn of last year. He failed to meet but very few of his public engagements in the course of twenty-four years' labour. His never-failing zeal, the pathos and solemnity with which he made his plain and pungent appeals, connected with his untiring industry and devotional habits, rendered him extensively useful; and accordingly, in the course of twenty-four years, he gathered into the Church some five thousand members! During his last illness, he calmly and firmly adjusted his mind to what he believed would be the result; and the same ardour of hope and fervour of faith by which his life had been distinguished, signalized his dying hour, and marked his translation to the heaven he had so long and faithfully preached to others.

HOLSTON CONFERENCE.

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

17. Andrew Hammel,
18. John R. Hearne,
19. Benjamin Pope.

The memoirs of these brethren have not been received, or they have been lost.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

20. Parley W. Clenny was born in Anson county, N. C., October 17, 1812—converted July 6, 1828, and admitted upon trial as a travelling preacher by the South Carolina Conference held in Darlington, January 28, 1832.

From this time he was successively appointed to the Orangeburgh, Barnwell, Greenville, and Lancaster circuits; all which he filled much to the satisfaction of our people generally. Shortly after the first quarterly meeting in Lancaster circuit, in the year 1835, he was removed to Santee circuit. Here he laboured with his usual zeal and fidelity, till the near approach of a camp meeting held at Rembert's camp ground, when he was attacked with a bilious fever. With some difficulty, however, he reached the camp meeting. Here his fever rose to such a height that no human means could effect his recovery. His friends thought it best to let him know that, in their judgment, he could live but a few hours longer. Upon receiving this intelligence he was silent a short time, but upon his being asked if he was afraid to die, he said, No! if his work were done, he would rather die than live. Upon his being asked what word should be sent to his relations, he said, "Charge them to meet me in heaven." Being farther asked what he would wish to be said to the Annual Conference, he expressed a hope to meet them all in heaven. He afterward manifested the most perfect resignation to the Divine will, and amidst the shouts of praise that arose from various parts of the encampment, his happy spirit took its flight from the Church militant below to the Church triumphant above, on the evening of October 5, 1835. Concerning the character of our dear Brother Clenny, we think that we hazard nothing in saying, that he was a man of deep and solid piety. Concerning his talents as a preacher, they appeared but small in the beginning, but greatly improved in the course of his ministry. He is cut down in the very morning of life, and early dawning of future usefulness.

But we must bow in calm submission to the Divine will, in the sure hope that our loss is his infinite gain.

21. George W. Huggins was born March 23, 1808, in Marion district, S. C. From his childhood he was strictly moral in his conduct till he was fourteen years of age, when he became convinced of the necessity of a change of heart, which he soon afterward professed to have obtained. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the year 1830. At the Ann. Conf., held in Lincolnton, N. C., Jan., 1833, he was received on trial as a travelling preacher, and successively appointed to Lincolnton, Deep River, and Waccamaw circuits, in all of which he laboured with zeal and success in bringing souls to Christ. About the end of September, 1835, he was attacked with a bilious fever. In the beginning of his fever he seemed to have a presentiment of his death. Medical aid however was resorted to, and such symptoms of amendment appeared that strong hopes were entertained of his recovery. About the eighth or ninth day, however, an alarming change took place; the disease returned with redoubled violence, and all hope of recovery was taken away. Finding his end approaching, he called the family to his bedside, sat up a little while, and exhorted them to meet him in heaven, and exclaimed, "My work is finished, I am going to heaven." He then clapped his hands, sunk back in his bed, and closed his eyes with his own hands. All present thought he was gone, but in a short time he rose up again, and resumed his exhortation to the people present, to meet him in heaven. In a few moments he clasped his hands, sunk back upon the bed, again closed his eyes and laid his hands across his breast, and, without a struggle, breathed his soul into the bosom of his Redeemer.

22. Samuel Bozeman was received on trial, as a travelling preacher, at the conference held in Columbia the latter end of January, 1830. After which he was successively appointed to Lincolnton, Pee Dee, Montgomery, and Cooper River circuits. At the conference held in Charleston, 1834, he was located on account of ill health. At the conference held in Columbia, February, 1835, his case was reconsidered, and he was placed in a superannuated relation to the conference. It was afterward ascertained that he had died a little while previous to the change of his relation by the last act of conference in his favour.

Brother Bozeman was a man of sincere piety, which he particularly manifested by the zeal that he evidenced in his ministerial labours, which were highly useful to the Church in the several circuits that he filled; and he was not without seals to his ministry. Of his dying exercises there was nothing very remarkable. He had been afflicted with a lingering and painful illness for several months previous to his dissolution; during the whole of which time he was the humble, resigned, and submissive Christian; breathing in the meantime an humble confidence in the merit of his adorable Redeemer. In this frame of mind he continued till the hour of his dissolution; and finally died in full prospect of eternal glory.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

23. Richard B. F. Gould was born in Queen Anne county, east shore of Maryland, and he died in that section of the state, at the residence of his brother, on Thursday, July 23, 1835, in the thirty-eighth year of his age.

Of his early history we have no information at command. He was received on trial in the Baltimore Conference of 1833, and appointed to the pastoral charge of the coloured people of Calvert circuit, where he laboured with remarkable usefulness and acceptance. In 1834 he was appointed to Latapsco circuit, and his name appears on the minutes of 1835, as received into full connection. His arduous labours induced an affection of the throat, which gradually wasted his strength, and so impaired his voice that he was obliged to suspend his ministerial functions. As his physicians were of opinion that a sea voyage might possibly restore his health, he readily accepted the proposal to take the oversight, as special agent, of a select company of emigrants, mostly from his own pastoral charge, and destined for the Maryland colony at Cape Palmas, on the coast of Africa. On this expedition he sailed Dec. 14, 1834; and returned to this country on the 15th of May following. Strong hopes were entertained by his friends that he would recover. But all hopes were soon cut off; for disease in another form brought him suddenly to the gates of death. Brother Gould, however, was ready for his change. Declaring that death had no terror to him, he stood firm and undismayed when the messenger arrived; and with the love of God reigning in his heart, and in the full enjoyment of his mental faculties to the last, he left the world with the note of triumph falling from his lips.

24. Christopher Frye, the subject of the following memoir, was born in Winchester, Va., on the 13th of February, 1778, and died at his residence near Leesburgh, in the same state, on Tuesday, the 18th of September, 1835, in the fifty-seventh year of his age, and thirty-third of his ministry. On the 3d of September, 1796, he experienced the forgiveness of sins; and on the 8th of January, 1800, was enabled, through the blood of Christ, to witness that God had cleansed him from all unrighteousness. From that time he became greatly impressed with the conviction that he was moved by the Holy Spirit to "go out, and preach that men should repent." In 1802 he was admitted on trial in the Baltimore Annual Conference; and through a long course of years filled many of the most responsible appointments in its gift. The various important places which he supplied as a preacher and presiding elder, with his general character, are interestingly detailed in the Christian Advocate and Journal of November 13, 1835. The incidents of the last Sabbath before his death were of the deepest interest, connected as they were with his early departure. In an address which he delivered after sermon, he dwelt with unusual fervour and solemnity upon Christian experience; and, adverting to his own, he affirmed the certainty of his knowledge of the pardoning love of God—told how many years he had enjoyed its witness, and declared that it was at that time as bright as ever. He then recited the verse beginning with, "My God is reconciled," when his soul seemed to take fire, and with a pathos not soon to be forgotten, exclaimed, "for this faith I would be willing to burn at the stake." It was the spirit of Stephen—God took him at his word. Two days after, while attending the operations of a threshing machine, it caught his left leg, and ere relief could be had the thigh bone was broken, the knee crushed, and nearly the whole limb severely injured. From that moment he was sensible that his time was come. About three hours closed the suffering scene; but his work was done. The messenger found him at his post, with sword in hand, "still warm with recent fight." And his, too, was the distinguished privilege to see, and know, and converse with his friends, and at the same time feel a reconciled God. Besides, although he was required to cross the stream of death in a bold and narrow place, still his passage to the grave was sloping enough to enable him to write out the last paragraph of his history with a steady hand. A few moments ere his spirit departed, his amiable and affectionate wife inquired, "My dear husband, how do you feel?" He replied, "My whole body is in tumult, but my soul is calm and stayed on God." After a short interval, an intimate friend again inquired, How are you? "My body," said he, "is in an agony of pain, but my soul is happy, happy, happy!" And scarce had this note of triumph died on his faultering lips, and ceased to vibrate upon the ears of his weeping friends, waiting to catch the last lispings of dying nature, ere it was removed and re-echoed amidst the shouts of the redeemed hosts in heaven. No doubt, to him sudden death proved sudden glory. Since the introduction of Christianity into the world, it has rarely fallen to the lot of mortal, to have borne a more illustrious and animating testimony of its truth and power, than was evinced in the death of the Rev. Christopher Frye.

25. Thomas D. Allen was born in Accomac county, Va., on the 26th of Dec., 1801, and died of pulmonary consumption at the house of his brother, Rev. Edward E. Allen, in the city of Annapolis, Md., June 25, 1835, in the thirty-fourth year of his age.

Under the instruction of pious parents, Brother Allen from a child feared the Lord; but he did not fully surrender himself until between eighteen and nineteen years of age. While seeking the Lord, the Holy Spirit presented these inspiring words, "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth," and his faith laid hold of the hope set before him, and light, and peace, and joy, sprang up in his heart. This occurred on the night of the 20th of August, 1820, and he now enjoyed the witness that God for Christ's sake had pardoned his sins.

After serving the Church in various departments of usefulness in Baltimore, he emigrated to the west, and in 1829 was admitted on trial into the Ohio Conference, held in Urbana. Here he was appointed to Straight Creek, Milford, and Salt Creek circuits successively, and laboured with great zeal, acceptability, and success. On account of his aged mother, he was transferred to the Baltimore Conference, and in March, 1834, appointed to Warrenton circuit. His constitution gave way under the burning zeal with which he cultivated his new field of labour. By the advice of his friends, he availed himself of the attention of physicians in Baltimore. But his disease, the progress of which he had closely observed, assumed a position which triumphed over the power of medicine, and he repaired to the dwelling of his brother, patiently to await his change.

Here it was no ordinary privilege to converse with him, when he could look back upon the world without a sigh, and with a mind clear and discriminating, look forward to eternity in settled and joyful hope of everlasting rest. On the day before he died, a number of his ministerial brethren assembled around his bed, and with him celebrated the Holy Eucharist. On this solemn occasion, his was the language of peace and of triumph: "I am not yet in the grave, nor am I yet in heaven:" said he, "I am still in the body, and still exposed to the temptations of the adversary. But as it regards that scripture, 'Look unto me, and be ye saved,'" he uttered with emphasis, "I am saved." Just before he departed, he said to a friend, "I have always expected to have a reasonable degree of comfort in my dying hour, but I never expected to enjoy such a deep, settled calm as I now feel." While the brethren knelt to commend his soul to God, he joyfully entered into rest. May we meet him there through Jesus Christ!

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

26. Solomon Sharp, the venerable subject of this brief memoir, was born in the county of Caroline, eastern shore of Maryland, on the 6th day of April, in the year of our Lord 1771. He was early taught the fear of God by his pious parents, who were among the first fruits of the labours of the little band of Methodist preachers, who were the first sowers of that seed which has since yielded so copious a harvest. At the age of twenty, he commenced travelling under the presiding elder. His name first appears on the minutes for the year 1792, and stands for Milford circuit in the state of Delaware. The various important appointments which he has since honourably filled, for more than forty years, the minutes of the conference will show.

At the Philadelphia Conference in April, 1835, he was induced to take a superannuated relation; and before the conference met again he was called to his great reward. He died in the sixty-fifth year of his age, at Smyrna, Del., on the 13th of March, 1836, of an asthmatic affection, a disease to which he had been for some time subject.

While preaching his last sermon, a short time before his death, upon Heb. iv, 9, his soul was much blessed in contemplating the rest that remains to the people of God; and after he had concluded, he was heard to say, "Now I feel as if my work was done." On the evening of the 12th of March, he retired to rest not more indisposed than he had frequently been. In the latter part of the night, his wife was awakened by his hard breathing. She called him, but he gave her no answer. Alarmed, she called some of the family, but before they could be in attendance his spirit had fled.

It is due to our highly esteemed and revered brother to state, that as a Christian he was irreproachable, and as a preacher his talents were of an extraordinary character

MAINE CONFERENCE.

27. Arad P. Mayhew was a native of Maine. He experienced religion in the twenty-second year of his age. After having received license as a local preacher, he was two years an itinerant under the direction of the presiding elder. He joined the annual conference in 1832, and at the close of his probation was admitted into full connection, and ordained deacon. After a sickness of a number of months, endured with Christian resignation, he died in peace, August 7, 1835, in the twenty-ninth year of his age. At the commencement of his ministry his acquired abilities were unusually small; but his improvements were such that he soon became an acceptable preacher. His manner of delivering his sermons was easy, while they were instructive and interesting.

28. Moses Davis was born in Poland, Me., of pious parents, and received early religious instruction. He experienced religion at the age of fourteen, and maintained it to the close of his life with great uniformity. After a sickness of a number of months he died of consumption, in great peace, August 29, 1835, in the thirty-fourth year of his age. He was mild and modest in his manners, successful in his ministry, uniform in piety, and enjoyed the peace which passeth all understanding at the approach of death.

29. Richard E. Schermerhorn was born in Nassau, Rensselaer county, N. Y. He experienced religion at the age of nineteen, at a camp meeting in Hillsdale. He was received on trial by the New-York conference in less than three years after his conversion; and was, the same year, transferred to the Maine conference. He was successively appointed to the Scarborough and Gotham circuits; and Belfast, Hollowell, Bangor, Buxport, and Gardiner stations. In 1834 he was appinted to Augusta district. In 1835 he was reappointed to the same district; and also elected as delegate to the General Conference. After five months' sickness he died of the consumption, April 18, 1836, aged thirty-two years, four months, and eighteen days. He was a man well read, of uniform and deep piety, respectable preaching talents, interested in the prosperity of the Church, and successful in the great object of the ministry. The most prominent characteristics of the man were, his profession and exemplification of perfect love, his constancy and frequency in fastings and prayer, his faithfulness in religious conversation with families in his pastoral visits, the great advantage at which his religion appeared in his last sickness, giving full evidence that he possessed all he professed, and his triumphant approach to his blissful station.

30. GREENLEAF GREELY was born in Readfield, in 1804. In 1817 he obtained the evidence of justification by faith. His first attempt to preach was in 1823. He was received on trial by the Maine conference in 1826, and for seven years received appointments to the following circuits and stations in succession, viz., Norridgewock, Thomaston, Bangor and Orono, Vienna and Winthrop. At the place of his last appointment he was attacked with hæmorrhage of the lungs, and was the rest of his life superannuated. He died at the house of Col. A. H. Anderson, in Burke county, Ga., while on his way to the upper country for the benefit of his health, on the 25th of December, 1835, in the thirty-first year of his age. As a man he was affectionate and kind; as a Christian, he was deeply and uniformly pious; as a minister, he possessed respectable preaching talents, and gifts peculiarly calculated to be useful in personal conversation and pastoral visits; and faithful and successful in the work of his charge—and doubtless rests in heaven.

TROY CONFERENCE.

31. ANDREW C. MILLS was born in Castleton, Vt., December, 1807. Of his early history we have no particular account. He was awakened and converted to God in 1825, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Soon after this it was made manifest to him that God had a work for him to do, which he soon set about with diligence and Christian zeal. At the conference of 1833 he was received on trial, and appointed to Berne circuit—in 1834 to Westport, and at the last session of the conference he was received into full connection, ordained deacon, and appointed to Luzerne circuit, where he spent one Sabbath; and while visiting his friends at Chester, he was taken suddenly ill at his father's house, and there ended his labours in peace. Brother Mills was an example of piety and true Christian zeal. He promised much usefulness to the Church of Christ. Though his race was short, he lived to accomplish much in a short time. His last words were, "I am now ready to be offered. I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day."

BLACK RIVER CONFERENCE.

32. During the past conference year but one has fallen in our itinerant ranks within the bounds of what is now the Black River conference, viz., the Rev. SAMUEL BIBBINS, who "fell asleep" in Christ on the 6th of January last, at his residence in Brutus, N. Y., in the sixty-eighth year of his age. This venerable servant of God and his Church has, for the last fifty years, been known as a very devoted and successful minister of the Lord Jesus. For want of suitable documentary evidence, we cannot give dates in reference to the precise time of Father Bibbins' conversion to God, or his entrance among, and his respective fields of labour in connection with, the itinerant ministry; but a considerable number of his later years were, to the great profit of the Church, devoted in this way, until declining years, and consequent loss of physical power placed him on the superannuated list, where he continued until his death. Of the moral, Christian, and ministerial character of our much lamented father in the Gospel, we cannot now speak particularly within the limits of this imperfect memoir, since a volume might be filled in this way. But as a preacher he was eminently owned of God—a revival being almost certain to follow wherever he was stationed. Soon after the close of our last annual conference, his health (which had been declining for several years under a pulmonary affection) began more perceptibly and rapidly to decline; and it soon became evident to his friends, and no less so to himself, that he was fast approaching the end of his earthly pilgrimage. This, however, gave him no concern, for his work was done, and the faithful servant was ready for his reward. The following are among the expressions which dropped from his lips a day or two before his death: "The storm of life has at length blown over! The last tornado has past by! The victory is gained, and heaven is mine! Sweet heaven of rest it is mine! Hallelujah! Hallelujah! My life has been spent these fifty years past in the ministry; but I do not regret it. All my sufferings in that laborious employment will render the heaven of eternal rest the sweeter." And on a subsequent occasion, when alluding to the abodes of the blessed above, he said, "There I shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob. There I shall see the apostles, and martyrs, and confessors. There I shall see Wesley and Fletcher, and other kindred spirits, who have entered into rest. And best and most of all, there I shall see JESUS! Glory!

Glory! Hallelujah! Hallelujah!" He continued much in the same heavenly frame of mind till the struggle was over, and the "weary wheels of life stood still."

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

33. Asa Cummins was born in the town of Thompson, county of Windham, and state of Connecticut, on the 1st of September, 1762. In the twenty-fifth year of his age he was powerfully awakened to a sense of his lost condition, through the instrumentality of the Methodist ministry. He remained in great distress of mind for some months, when he attended a quarterly meeting held at Coeyman's stone church. "From this place," says Freeborn Garrettson, in his Journal, and with evident allusion to the subject of this memoir, "a poor distressed man followed me to the city of Albany, where, under the word, God spake peace to his soul: and so clear was his conviction of acceptance with God, that he testified before above five hundred witnesses what great things the Lord had done for him." He immediately joined the people who had been instrumental in bringing him to the knowledge of the truth, and was soon after appointed class leader and circuit steward.

His first license to preach, dated July 21, 1797, was given him by a quarterly meeting conference held in the city of Albany, and signed by the Rev. Robert Green, presiding elder of the district. In 1802 he travelled the Albany and Saratoga circuits, under the direction of the presiding elder, the Rev. Wm. M'Lanehan; and in 1803 he was received on trial in the travelling connection. From this time up to the day of his death, it is believed, he continued in the itinerant field.

Though Father Cummins may not have been a splendid preacher, he was, notwithstanding, a useful labourer in the vineyard of the Lord. Long, indeed, will he be remembered by the hundreds and thousands who have been edified by his eminently spiritual ministry. For some years past he has sustained a superannuated relation, and consequently has been able to render the Church but little service. Still, what he could do he has cheerfully done, to bring sinners to Christ, and build up believers in their most holy faith. During the last twelve months, he has been lingering under the wasting influence of disease, which, however, he bore with great patience and resignation till the 5th of September last, when, at his residence in Spencer, Tioga county, he fell asleep in Christ, aged seventy-four years and five days.

Thus our fathers are leaving us, and entering into the felicities of the heavenly state. May we follow them as they followed Christ, and thus be prepared to share with them in the rewards of the just!

34. Rufus Stoddard. Respecting the time and circumstances of his conversion to God, no facts have come to us. He commenced his itinerant labours in 1832, under the direction of the presiding elder, by whom he was placed on the Mexico circuit. At the conference of 1833 he was received on trial into the travelling connection, and appointed to the Lowville and Martinsburgh station. In 1834 he was appointed to Homer; and at the conference of 1835 he was admitted into full connection, ordained, and reappointed to the Homer station. This appointment was, however, made with the express understanding that, in consequence of the feeble state of his health, he was not to return to his charge till the opening of the spring. But at the time it had been fondly hoped he would be able to resume his labours, it was found he was fast sinking into the embraces of death, under the wasting influence of an unconquerable pulmonary affection. He himself, however, did not abandon all hope of final recovery till a few weeks before his death, when, seeing his end approaching, he girded on his armour, and, with the courage of a true disciple, addressed himself to the final contest.

The following extracts from his diary will show the state of his mind during some of the last months of his pilgrimage:—"Jan. 1, 1836. Another year has fled: its joys live only in grateful recollection; its sorrows in mournful remembrance. Death has numbered among his victims two of the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wm. M'Kendree and John Emory; the former died in March, the latter in December. The Church mourns, yet confides with undiminished confidence in the living God! Many events have occurred which should make a lasting and salutary impression on my mind. I live to see the dawn of another year; but before another year shall arrive, I may be in my grave—my spirit be with God. How important that I begin anew in the service of Christ! How necessary that I live for eternity every day—every hour—every moment! O my God, graciously assist me to do more perfectly thy holy will; to please thee in all my ways! that when my eyes shall be closed in death, I may be received into thy glory! Amen."—"Feb. 24. Since this last note on this page, my mind, for the most part of the time, has been cheerful and composed: I have had some refreshing seasons in devotion. I would here record the tender mercy of God in delivering me from peculiar temptations—in giving me grace to overcome when attacked by Satan. I would praise the Lord also for some improvement in my health." This was the last he ever wrote.

The manner in which he took his leave of his father's family, and his friends generally, was peculiarly appropriate and affecting. Never, indeed, can it be forgotten. The following were his last words: "My work is done:—heaven is mine! Victory, victory, victory, through the blood of the Lamb! Death has lost its sting. Come, Lord Jesus, —come!"

Brother Stoddard was a man of deep piety, and of more than ordinary preaching talent. His race has been short, but both honourable and useful. Few of his age stood fairer before the public, and few promised greater usefulness to the Church and the world. But his toils are now over, and he has gone to enjoy the reward of a faithful servant.

35. Josiah Keyes was born in Canajoharie, N. Y., December 30, 1799, but most of his juvenile years were spent in Otsego county. He was converted to God, and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at twelve years of age. He was admitted on trial in the Genesee conference in 1820, and was appointed to St. Lawrence circuit. In 1821 he travelled Le Roy, in 1822 French Creek, 1823 Aurora, 1824 Lake, 1825–6 he was stationed in Owego, in 1827 Norwich, 1828–9 Pottsdam. In 1830 he travelled Black River circuit, and in 1831 he was appointed presiding elder in the Black River district, in which he continued to exercise his office his full constitutional term. In 1835 he was appointed to the Cayuga district, where he continued to labour until he finished his earthly course.

In all the various fields of labour to which our dear Brother K. was called, he laboured with great acceptability and usefulness; but it was not until he was appointed to the charge of a district, that his extraordinary powers were brought forth to the greatest advantage and the best effect. In this very responsible office he was the wise counsellor, the judicious administrator of the Discipline, and the eloquent defender of the great doctrines of the Bible.

His toilsome duties were continued to the last period of life. For a year and a half he had laboured under jaundice, in its most aggravated form; but, with few exceptions during the extreme cold of last winter, he attended his appointments.

At his last quarterly meeting, which was on the 10th of April, he took cold, and returned home in a sinking and almost dying condition. He lingered upon the shores of time until the 22d, when he bid adieu to all earthly things. Though our brother did not appear so, he was aware of his approaching end. Death did not find him unprepared. He often expressed himself in the strongest terms as to his future prospects. "For me," said he, in the language of Paul, "to live is Christ, to die is gain."

Brother K. was emphatically a strong man. He possessed an extraordinary grasp of intellect, and for application was perhaps never excelled. By dint of industry, without regular instructions, he had become a respectable Latin, Greek, and Hebrew scholar. His thirst for knowledge was unconquerable, and he never lost an hour. As a scholar, as a theologian, as a preacher, and as a Christian, our Brother K. stood in the foremost rank of Methodist preachers. But he has gone! He fell in the midst of a glorious career! But he "conquered when he fell."

"His body with his charge laid down,
And ceased at once to work and live."

At Elmira, Chemung county, N. Y., Sept. 12, 1838.

LIBERIA MISSION CONFERENCE.

This Conference commenced its first session in Monrovia, Africa, January 5th, 1837. But we cannot furnish the minutes of it in regular form, not having received the stations and some other items necessary to make them out. The following are the numbers in society, viz :—

Places.	Nos.	Places.	Nos.
Monrovia	132	Cape Palmas	74
Caldwell	73	Junk	7
Millsburgh	10
New-Georgia	36	Total this year	417
Edina	70	last year	340
Bassa Cove	16	Increase	77

☞ We must beg the secretaries of the Conferences to be particular in giving the orthography of proper names and places, and in writing them correctly and legibly. Unless special care be taken in these respects, errors will occur in spite of all we can do to prevent them. In many instances the names of preachers are spelled in two or three different ways, where they recur in different places in the copy, and the proof readers have no means to determine which is correct: so also when a name is not legibly written, they are as liable to print it incorrectly as otherwise

QUESTION 12.—WHO HAVE DIED THIS YEAR?

PITTSBURGH CONFERENCE.

1. CORNELIUS JONES was born May 20, 1800, in Hinsdale, Berkshire county, Mass. When young, he lost his mother and sister; which bereavement produced serious impressions, and led him to much reflection on things pertaining to another world. But under the influence of an opinion then prevalent in the church, he thought himself too young to obtain regenerating grace; and having been taught it was sinful for an unregenerate person to pray, he was the more easily tempted to procrastinate. In 1820 he removed to Chardon, Geauga county, Ohio, whither he was soon followed by his father. On the 24th of February, 1821, he attended a meeting held by brothers Brown and Brunson, for the purpose of satisfying his mind on some doctrinal subjects. The exercises did not much arrest his attention, till about the time when that most solemn and impressive sacrament, our Lord's Supper, was being administered. The elements before him, the sufferings of Him whose death was thus shown forth, with the thrilling interest of the whole scene, seemed to conspire in waking up the keenest reflections on his own lost condition. He returned from the meeting deeply convicted of sin; repaired to the barn alone; and, as he has often testified, when, for the first time kneeling in prayer, and pouring his penitential tears in Mercy's sight, God sealed his pardon; and being freely justified by faith, he began to participate in the comforts of our holy religion. His sense of Divine favour was, from the first, clear and satisfactory; while the light that illumined his pathway, unlike the ignis fatuus of mere enthusiasm, shone "more and more unto the perfect day." Soon after his conversion, our brother was convinced that God designed him for a more extensive field of usefulness in his church. He conferred not with flesh and blood, but, urged from his wonted retirement by a love "sweeter than life and stronger than death," he "told to sinners round, what a dear Saviour he had found." After improving his mind, and exercising his talents as an exhorter for some time, he was recommended by the quarterly conference, and licensed at Rootstown, by the district conference, June 17th, 1825. In 1826 he was employed by the presiding elder on Newcastle circuit. In 1827 he was received on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference, and appointed to Cleveland circuit, where he laboured two years with great acceptance and usefulness. In 1829 he was ordained deacon, and appointed to Deerfield circuit, where he remained two years, faithfully, as many yet live to testify, preaching Christ. At the conference of 1832, he was elected to the order of an elder, ordained, and appointed to Youngstown circuit. His next field of labour was Mercer circuit, which he also supplied two years. From the conference of 1834, he went to Harmony circuit; and in July, 1835, received his last appointment, which was to the charge of Alleghanytown station.—Though unwell at the close of the conference, he entered immediately on the discharge of his duties, and for a few weeks was sustained in the arduous work; when, by an inscrutable providence, he was unexpectedly called away, apparently in the midst of his years, and promising a long life of ministerial usefulness. His disease was of a bilious character, and terminated in an inflammation of the bowels, which baffled the skill of his physicians. Death, in this instance, severed the most tender ties—our brother's attachment to his family was strong; for their sakes and that of the church, he seemed to hope for life almost to the last. When his partner, sensible that all hopes were cut off, first spoke to him of his approaching exit, and asked his dying advice, he was much affected. But soon after he was enabled, in his own words, "to give up all;" and having confidently resigned his little family to Him who has promised to be a father to the fatherless and the widow's God, he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, on the 27th of August, 1835. As a Christian, he was grave and circumspect. His piety was deep, ardent, and constant. Those who knew him best can testify that they never heard him enter into conversation, or utter a word inconsistent with the dignity of his office as a Gospel minister. For several years he not only preached the doctrine, but enjoyed the blessing of perfect love—was a living witness of that grace which saves to the uttermost. Both in his public and private duties, brother Jones was a man of one business; and as the fruit of his studious and devotional habits, so assiduously cultivated, his "profiting appeared unto all." Of Cornelius Jones, we may well say, "He did the work of an evangelist, and made full proof of his ministry." And, although God has cut short his work by taking him away, it was not until he had furnished us an excellent model, worthy the imitation of all, through which he, "being dead, yet speaketh."

2. Milton Colt was born in Oswego county, New-York, in the year 1810. He was blessed with the advantages of an early religious education, and attributed his first religious impressions to the prayers of his pious mother. When young, he removed with his parents to Chatauque county; where he sought and obtained a sense of pardoning mercy, in the 20th year of his age. In 1830 he was licensed to preach, by the quarterly conference of Northeast circuit; and in July of the same year was employed by the presiding elder on Leesburg circuit; where his labours were not only zealous and untiring, but successful. During this year he obtained the witness of his sanctification, through the blood of atonement; which was retained, with but little interruption, until death. In 1833 he was admitted on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference, and appointed to Cleveland circuit. Here many were given him as seals of his ministry; but through excessive and indefatigable efforts his health was much impaired, and for the last three months he was obliged to discontinue his public labours. In 1834 he was appointed to the charge of Hudson station. His godly life, and pathetic entreaties from the sacred desk, were blessed to the good of many, who will long cherish an affectionate remembrance of his ardent prayers and pious labours for their good. In 1835 he was elected to the order of a deacon, ordained, and appointed to Canton station; where he ended his short, but highly useful career, on the 1st of January, 1836. His death was completely triumphant. Having taken leave of all around him, he calmly closed his eyes on the world, where he had suffered and toiled for a few years, to open them on the brighter objects of eternal day, being in the twenty-fifth year of his age.

MICHIGAN CONFERENCE.

3. Thomas Wiley, the subject of this memoir, was born of respectable parents, in Bucks county, Pennsylvania, in 1806. He experienced religion in Muskingum county, Ohio, on the night of the 28th of June, 1830, and shortly after joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1831 he was licensed to exhort and preach, and admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to Oakland circuit, where he laboured acceptably and usefully. The year following on Tecumseh, the next on Calhoun mission, and the year following again on Tecumseh. At the last Ohio annual conference, he was appointed to Ann Arbor station. In all these places he was owned of God, and proved himself worthy of the confidence reposed in him by the church. Shortly after he commenced his labours in the station, his already enfeebled constitution began to give evidence that his intense application to study, and his unremitting labour, were above his strength; yet he continued faithful to his charge until his health entirely failed. In his sickness he enjoyed unshaken confidence in God, and maintained a calm, undisturbed state of mind. When interrogated about the state of his soul, his common answer was, "Peace." His disease was in the outset of a dyspeptic character, but for a few days before his dissolution, he was attacked with fever, which assumed a typhus form. His reason and strength were entirely prostrated; yet his characteristic piety and calmness of spirit were still visible. On the 4th of April, 1836, in the thirtieth year of his age, he fell asleep in Jesus, beloved in the church, and respected by all.

OHIO CONFERENCE.

4. William Phillips was born the 7th of May, 1797, in Jessamine county, Ky. Shortly after his conversion, being convinced that he was moved by the Holy Spirit to preach the Gospel, he was licensed to preach on the 27th of December, 1828. He was admitted on probation as a travelling preacher, into the Kentucky Conference, in the fall of 1831. His first year was on Winchester circuit. The two following years he was appointed to Lexington circuit. In 1834 he was appointed to Newport and Covington station; and in September, 1835, was ordained elder and reappointed as supernumerary to the same station. In May, 1836, he was elected by the General Conference assistant editor of the Western Christian Advocate, which office he filled the previous year. On the 22d of June, 1836, he was confined to bed by a violent attack of fever, which, after much suffering, terminated fatally on the 4th of August. As he lived, so he died, in the possession of abundance of grace, in sure hope of a blessed immortality. As a minister of Christ, he possessed those solid and useful attainments which rendered him an able and useful pastor. As a Christian, he possessed all those qualifications which give weight to the ministry, and render the professor of religion respected and profitable. As a writer, he possessed clearness and strength in diction, and solidity in argument, tempered by gravity and sober satire; by which, if life had been spared, he would have filled a very respectable station among the writers of his age, especially those of the periodical press. A work of his, now in press, on Campbellism, will furnish ample proof of the character just given.

MISSOURI CONFERENCE.

5. Nelson R. Bewley died of consumption, on the 25th of January, 1836, in the twenty-eighth year of his age, in sure and cheering prospect of a blessed immortality. He was a true lover of the church and her institutions, and for six years a faithful minister of Jesus Christ. He was long the subject of affliction, and though occasionally flattered with the hope of being restored to health, he ever made it his business to keep his lamp trimmed and burning, that he might be prepared at any time to meet the Lord. As might have been expected, when all hope of life and recovery was fast vanishing away, he lost none of his composure; but met his final end with becoming Christian courage, evincing to his friends that he had viewed death in all its forms, and for him it had no terrors. Long will those who witnessed his departure cherish the recollection of his peaceful end, and complete triumph over death and the grave. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; yea, saith the Spirit, for they rest from their labours."

6. John H. Ruble was born in Washington county, east Tennessee, of religious parents, and was early impressed with a sense of the importance of religion, and when but a youth sought and obtained remission of sins; but being of a volatile disposition, and mingling with irreligious associates, he soon lost his religious enjoyment. He remained in this situation until he arrived at manhood, when he attended a camp meeting, at which, after a severe struggle of several hours, he realized the pardoning mercy of God. Shortly after his conversion, he was impressed with the conviction that it was his duty to preach the Gospel; but being timid, he declined taking up the cross, but acted for some time in the capacity of a class leader. To get relieved of the impression that it was his duty to preach, he emigrated to Illinois; but was still conscious that the Lord had called him to the ministry of the word, and finally was prevailed on to engage in this important work; and in the fall of 1832 was licensed to preach, and immediately came to Missouri, and was employed by brother Ketron, presiding elder of the Cape Girardeau district, to travel the Bellevue circuit; where he remained three months, when he was sent to White River circuit; where he travelled and preached till the conference of 1833, when he was received on trial in the Missouri Annual Conference, and appointed to White River circuit; in 1834 to Lexington circuit; in 1835 to Burlington circuit; at this conference he was ordained deacon. He travelled six months on Burlington circuit, when his health failed, and he was confined in Burlington, at the house of a brother Ross. His affliction was influenza. As his end drew near, his confidence became stronger in God, even to exultation, and he shouted aloud the praise of God.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

7. Henry S. Duke was born in Ohio county, Ky., on the 29th of January, 1805. He embraced religion and became decidedly pious in 1820, in the sixteenth year of his age. Soon after his conversion, his attention was turned to the ministry, and he looked forward to his entrance upon it with intense solicitude, and carefully availed himself of all the means of improvement and preparation in his power. After an inquiry and examination, he was licensed to preach by a district conference, in 1824, under the administration of the late Rev. William Adams, and, subject to his direction, travelled a part of the same year on Franklin circuit, in the interior of the state. In September, 1825, he was admitted on trial as a travelling preacher, and continued, during a term of nearly eleven years, faithfully to perform the annual service assigned him by the conference, through its usual organs of appointment. His first appointment in 1825, was to Cumberland circuit. In 1826 and 1827, to Danville circuit. In 1828, Lancaster and Standford. In 1829, Limestone circuit. In 1830, Glasgow circuit. In 1831, Frankfort station. In 1832 and 1833, Mount Sterling station. In 1834, Maysville station. In 1835, Lexington district. In all these places, he left behind him the savour of ministerial piety and zeal, and yet lives in the memory of thousands. Henry S. Duke was a young man generously endowed by nature—agreeable and prepossessing in person and address, with a mind naturally strong and discriminating, and well furnished with various information, and especially information appropriate to his vocation as a Christian minister. Two years prior to his lamented death, brother Duke laboured under the insidious, yet fatal ravages of pulmonary consumption; and when death finally approached, he was not found unprepared, reluctant, and fearful to depart. He had adjusted his mind to the coming trial. For him "to die was gain;" and in this triumphant persuasion, on the 3d of May, 1836, he bade adieu to earth, and went to his reward.

8. John Littlejohn was a native of England, and was born in Penrith, county of Cumberland, on the 7th December, 1756. The emigration of the family to this country was prior to 1769; the precise time, however, is not known, but supposed to be in 1767. When quite young, the subject of this memoir appears to have been placed at a classical school, but for want of pecuniary means was soon removed; and his education, in consequence, was such as is usually received in the better English schools of the country. In early life he appears to have been twice apprenticed as a mechanic, and also to have acted as a clerk or assistant storekeeper. From the age of fourteen years, notwithstanding the religious instruction and pious impressions received from his mother, until he was about twenty years old, he represents himself, in documents left in possession of his family, as addicted to the more common vices of an irreligious community, such as gambling, profaneness, neglect and violation of the Sabbath; and so of other kindred practices, intemperance always excepted. His first residence in this country was in Maryland, near Port Tobacco. He subsequently resided in Northumberland county, Va.; and at a later period removed to Norfolk, Va. In Norfolk he first became acquainted with the Methodists. Residing but two years in Norfolk, he removed to Annapolis, Md.

In 1773 he removed to Alexandria, Va., now District of Columbia. In this place, in 1774, under the ministry of John King, he was more decidedly awakened to a sense of his moral condition; and finally, by the preaching and admonitions of John Sigmon, he became fully resolved to seek the "knowledge of salvation, by the remission of his sins;" and after a long and despairing struggle, to use his own words, he was enabled to exclaim, "My Lord and my God." Soon after this, he is found one of twelve persons, constituting the first Methodist society raised in Alexandria. About this time, also, he became a class leader, and subsequently an exhorter; and thus in 1775 commenced his ministerial career. In 1776 he commenced travelling. His first essay in the itinerancy of the primitive Methodists was on Berkley circuit, Va., in company with William Watters, as senior preacher. Brother Littlejohn continued in the field of active labour, as a travelling preacher, until the autumn of 1778; when, on account of his marriage, he located, and settled in Leesburg, Va. He continued in Leesburg, filling and discharging various important offices and trusts connected with civil and religious society, until the autumn of 1818, when he removed to Kentucky, and settled in Louisville. Subsequently he fixed his residence in Warren, and finally in Logan county, Ky. At the Baltimore Conference, in March, 1831, he was re-admitted a member of that conference. In the September following, he was transferred to the Kentucky Conference, as a superannuated preacher.

His mental energies and moral resources of every kind, and especially his eloquence as a speaker, were all brought to bear upon the single engrossing question, of usefulness to the church and world; and thus gave him a weight and eminence in the pulpit, and in all the various relations of life, to which but few have ever attained. And finally, after a life of laborious usefulness for nearly sixty years in the church of God, on the 13th of May, 1836, he expired; and it is left for us to record, that his death was as triumphant as his life had been useful and exemplary.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

9. Jesse Walker, who died, October 5, 1835, while our conference was in session, was admitted on trial in the travelling connection in the fall of 1802, as appears from the Minutes of 1803; but no information could be obtained relative to him previous to this event. It appears from the Minutes, that our deceased brother spent the first four years of his itinerant life, in the then Cumberland district, in Tennessee and Kentucky; but in 1807, he came to the then uncultivated wilderness and bleak prairies of Illinois. The next year he went to Missouri, and has continued in "these ends of the earth," breaking up new ground, and establishing new missions, till his health failed him, and he was compelled to take a superannuated relation at the conference of 1834. He then retired to his farm in Cook county, Illinois, where he died in the bosom of his family. The last moments of our beloved and deceased brother were such as might be expected from his long and laborious life in the way of doing good. To a ministerial brother, who visited him shortly before his demise, he said that God had been with him from the time of his conversion, and was still with him. His last moments were tranquil, and he died in full and confident hope of a blessed immortality.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

10. Robert A. Smith was born in Robertson county, Tenn., 1809. He was awakened through the instrumentality of the Methodist itinerant ministry, and in the fall of 1828 was converted to God at a camp meeting, while applying to his own case the language of a believing invalid, "If I may but touch the hem of his garment I shall be made whole." He immediately felt it his duty to call sinners to repentance; but, under a strong sense of the awful responsibility of the work, he remained a private member of the church until the spring of 1832, when he was licensed to preach as a local preacher. In the fall of the same year he was received on trial in the Tennessee Annual Conference, and transferred. In 1833 he was stationed on Oakmulgee circuit; in 1834, Jones' Valley, at the close of which year he was admitted into full connection, ordained deacon, and again sent to Jones' Valley; and in 1836 he was stationed in the town of Montgomery, which closed his labours. Early in August he was attacked by fever, and, after recovering sufficiently to travel, was advised to leave the place. He went to Elyton, where his faithful labours for two years had endeared him to the hearts of many, and there, at the house of a friend, on the 25th of October, he breathed his last, and went to join the company of the redeemed in heaven. During his illness, which was long and painful, his mind was stayed on God, and raised above the fear of death. Sometimes his soul was filled to overflowing, and he shouted aloud for joy. He rejoiced that he had been permitted to call sinners to repentance, and said if he had his life to live over he would preach the Gospel even with a knowledge that he would fall so early. Brother Smith was a man of deep and ardent piety, a good preacher, and a most agreeable companion.

11. Thomas L. Cox was born Jan. 15, 1809, in Washington county, Ky. His father, the Rev. John Cox, was a Methodist local preacher in England, and his mother was a daughter of the Rev. Thomas Longley, who travelled many years in connection with Mr. Wesley. Descended from such a stock, and raised by parents who loved and feared God, we need not be surprised that the subject of this memoir was very early taught the necessity of religion. At ten years of age he was often found at the altar among the mourners, pleading for mercy; and at the age of twelve years he experienced the joys of pardoned sin, and was admitted a member of the M. E. Church in Nashville, Tenn. Notwithstanding his extreme youth, he walked worthy of his high vocation, often amid a privation of church privileges, until he finished his course with joy. From his very childhood it was impressed on his mind that he would one day preach the Gospel; and a desire to devote himself to the work of the ministry strengthened with increasing years. But circumstances beyond his control prevented the accomplishment of this favourite object until he was twenty-five years old, when he joined the Tennessee Conference, and was immediately transferred to Alabama. He travelled in 1834 on Buttahatchee circuit, and in 1835 Black Warrior. At the Conference held at Tuscaloosa in December, 1835, he was admitted into full connection, ordained deacon, and appointed to travel on Chickasawha circuit. But the great Head of the church saw fit to end his work, and call him home. On the 18th of January he was attacked by a violent hemorrhage from the lungs, which soon brought him to the gate of death; but he had no fear; his hope was full of immortality. Throughout his illness he was patient, resigned, calm, and happy,—yea, unspeakably happy. About four hours before he took his departure he seemed inclined to slumber; but no sooner would he close his eyes than he would endeavour to sing, or exhort, or pray. In a short time he broke forth in a strain that surprised all who heard him. Seeming to address a brother in the ministry, he said, "Brother Jones, brother Jones, the Lord is good; he is merciful, long-suffering, slow to anger, and of great compassion. Blessed is the man that trusteth in him; his feet are placed upon the Rock of Ages—he shall never be moved. He shall go in and out, and find pasture. Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, for they rest from their labours.—Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his. One hath said, 'Though I walk through the valley and shadow of death I will fear no evil, for thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.' To this end the Lord will sanctify those who sincerely call upon him. This is a glorious, a precious privilege; let us attain unto it,—and may the Lord enable us so to walk that we may inherit everlasting life. Amen." He then arranged himself on his pillow, folded his hands on his breast, and shortly fell asleep in Jesus. "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints."

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

12. Andrew Hamill died in Covington, Newton county, Georgia, in great peace, on the 22d of March, 1835, in the thirty-ninth year of his age, and in the twentieth of his ministry. He filled many important offices in the church; was at one time superintendent of the Asbury mission, among the Creek Indians; frequently a delegate to the General Conference, and for many years a presiding elder. He was grave and dignified in demeanour, courteous and affable in deportment, pious, prayerful, and meditative; sound in doctrine, unexceptionable and unimpeached in life; an able divine, possessing a fine classic taste, and remarkable for precision and accuracy on all the subjects of his studies. He was diligent in preparing for his pulpit exercises, and his sermons were distinguished by lucid arrangement, elevated sentiment, and purity of style. He enjoyed the confidence and affection of his brethren in a high degree, and had "a good report of them which are without."

13. John R. Hearne died in Burke county, Georgia, on the 1st of September, 1835, in the twenty-fifth year of his age, and the third of his ministry, filled with the consolations of the Holy Spirit, and triumphing over death through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. He was a pious, humble, and modest young man; grave and serious in character; simple and unassuming in manners; plain in dress; obedient to the order and discipline of the church; patient, and industrious, "redeeming the time." The Bible was his constant companion, and the text book of all his studies. His education had been limited, and his mind was not remarkable either for brilliance or strength; but his sermons, while brief, were sensible and edifying, and his life was a practical comment on the doctrines of that Gospel which he preached.

14. Benjamin Pope died at his residence in Oglethorpe county, Georgia, on the 18th of December, 1835, in the thirty-second year of his age, and the eighth of his ministry. He was a native of Georgia, and, connected with some of its most respectable families, was liberally educated, and inherited an ample patrimony. Very soon after he completed his education he sought and obtained salvation by faith, and immediately thereafter devoted himself to the work of the ministry, and joined the travelling connection, in which he continued as an efficient preacher until the year before his death. His constitution was feeble, and becoming dyspeptic, he suffered greatly from depression of spirits, and was harassed by a fear of death; but in his last illness the bonds of fear were broken, and he proclaimed to his family and friends a glorious victory over death and the grave, through our Lord Jesus Christ. As a minister of the Gospel, he was remarkable for zeal and faithfulness, clearing his skirts of the blood of souls by private admonition and reproof, as well as public exhortation. His sermons were characterized by a beautiful and elevated simplicity in matter, arrangement and style; the practical doctrines of the Gospel were clearly set forth, and plainly and vigorously applied to the heart. He filled the most important stations in the Georgia Conference, was greatly beloved by the churches he served, and admired by his congregations, and died universally lamented in the well-assured hope of a blessed immortality.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

17. Angus M'Pherson, the subject of this memoir, was born in Cumberland county, N. C., May 10, 1802, and was converted to God August 9th, 1823, at a camp meeting held at Pegues' camp ground. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church the next day, under a full conviction that here he could find more help to enable him to "work out his salvation," than anywhere else. He continued for two years a private member of the church, maintaining an unblemished character. He was received on trial in the South Carolina Conference, held at Milledgeville, Ga., January, 1826, and for that year was sent to the Apalachee circuit. In 1827, to Union (now Rutherford) circuit. At the close of this year he was ordained deacon, and in 1828, was sent to Montgomery; in 1829, to Brunswick. At the close of this year he was ordained elder, and in 1830, appointed to Montgomery again; in 1831, to Deep River; in 1832, Yadkin; in 1833, Wateree, (now Lancasterville;) in 1834, Darlington; in 1835, Union; and in 1836, he was appointed to Newberry, where he laid down his life with his charge, and ceased at once to work and live.

On all the above circuits, brother M'Pherson was quite useful, and much esteemed by the people of his charge; and on no circuit more so than Newberry, where he will long live in the recollection of those who waited on his ministry. His deportment was weighty and serious, his manners modest and retiring. He was a great admirer of the doctrines and discipline of the church of his choice, and in the exercise of the latter was always mild, yet very firm. He made it a matter of conscience never to disappoint a congregation, saying, that was his method to secure good congregations. On receiving his last appointment he seemed unusually solemn and thoughtful; he observed to his brother, on parting with him in Columbia, that he felt he should finish his work in Newberry. He however repaired to the field immediately, and continued to labour with his usual industry and zeal until the 27th of October, when the messenger overtook him, but found him in his work and at his post. He was seized with a severe chill, and felt so indisposed after it went off, that he concluded to try and reach the house of his well-tried friend and brother, Dr. James Kilgore. In going to the doctor's, he had to pass the place where he was to preach on that day. On reaching the meeting house, he found the congregation had assembled as usual; when he saw them, (sick as he was,) he seemed to rise above it all, dismounted and preached to them his last sermon, while in the custody of the king of terrors! After preaching, he went to brother Kilgore's, where every attention was paid him by the kind family, the neighbours, and neighbouring physicians, but all to no purpose; he continued to sink, his disease being an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the stomach and bowels. On Sabbath morning he requested his family to be sent for.

Through the whole of his sickness his soul was calm and peaceful; he talked of nothing but death, the grave, and heaven. At all times when his severe afflictions were referred to by any of his friends, his invariable reply was, that they were all good for him. Some hours before his speech failed, his wife asked him if he was afraid to die; he replied with great emphasis, "Not at all." She told him. "The friends thought he would have died the overnight;" he replied, with great composure, "If I had, I should now have been in heaven." She added, she hoped God would give him grace according to his trial; he replied, of that he had no doubt at all. He then asked sister Kilgore to read for him the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah. During the reading of this chapter, his whole soul seemed swallowed up in prayer and adoration. He gathered from his weeping wife and friends that they thought him dying; he exhorted them again and again not to weep for him, that all was well. He begged the doctor to try and comfort his wife; as for himself he was safe. His last act was, on seeing his little daughter stand before the fire, he beckoned her to him, and caught her hand in his, raising his eyes to heaven, and with an audible voice, prayed the blessing and protection of Heaven upon her. His last paroxysm came on; he spoke to his friends no more; but in the midst of his insensibility to all around him, he was frequently heard to say, "O sweet heaven! sweet heaven!"

Thus died our beloved brother, at 4 o'clock, A. M., November 4, 1836, in the thirty-fifth year of his age, and eleventh of his itinerant ministry. He left a wife and two children, with numerous relatives and friends, to lament his loss; but we doubt not our loss is his infinite gain.

18. Albert G. Burton,

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

21. The subject of this memoir, Rev. John Howell, was born in Fairfax county, Va., in 1791. Nothing definite is known of his early life, except that, being convinced of the necessity of an interest in Christ, he sought earnestly and diligently, until he was enabled to realize by faith the efficacy of the Saviour's blood. He soon felt himself moved by the Holy Ghost, to enter upon the important and responsible work of calling sinners to repentance. After having been examined and recommended according to our Discipline, he was admitted on trial in the Baltimore Annual Conference, in the year 1823. From the time of his entrance into the itinerant ranks, until his last illness, he was "in labours abundant," and through summer's heat, and winter's cold, "he toiled to cultivate Immanuel's land."

In all the circuits which he travelled, seals were given to his ministry; and with those who knew how to appreciate solid sense and deep piety, brother H. was deservedly popular.

As a man he was amiable, prudent, and sincere. As a preacher he was not showy, but sound in doctrine, plain in manner, and irreproachable in conduct; feeling deeply the importance of those truths which he preached to others.

When the time of his departure came, the messenger found him diligently engaged reaping a field ripe to the harvest; and in the midst of his usefulness he died of a violent congestive fever, brought on, as was supposed, by his excessive labours. He fell on the 9th of September, 1836, sword in hand, with his face to the foe, while urging on the sacramental host to renewed efforts and to new conquests.

"Servant of God, well done,
Rest from thy loved employ:
The battle's fought, the vict'ry's won,
Enter thy Master's joy."

22. The Rev. Eli Nicodemus, the subject of the following brief memoir, was born of respectable parents, in Frederick county, Md., on the 14th January, 1811. Although by nature depraved "even as others," his childhood and youth were marked, for the most part, by a strict conformity to the dictates of morality; and it was manifest, that the fear of God was before his eyes, even prior to the love of God being shed abroad in his heart.

The drawings of the Holy Spirit were often felt by him, alluring him from the vanities of life to the love of his crucified Lord. At the age of eighteen, while attending a camp meeting, held on the lands of Messrs. Perry and Nelson, in the aforesaid county, the word of God reached his youthful heart. He was found in the congregation weeping and trembling with the arrow of the Lord deep infixed.

When asked to give himself to God, he promptly consented to approach the altar, and avail himself of the instructions and prayers of the pious. It was then he was made to feel that no morality could avail him before God, but that which springs from a principle of living faith in Christ; and to be "born again" was indispensable to his peace here, and happiness hereafter. He sought publicly and successfully the pearl of great price. Soon after, he found in his heart an ardent and growing desire for the salvation of men. Being examined, and recommended, he was received on trial in the Baltimore Annual Conference in April, 1833.

On the different circuits where he travelled, he laboured with zeal, fidelity, and general acceptance, and with profit to many. He was extremely diffident; yet with a faith that encouraged his heart and nerved his arm, he faltered not in the path of duty, but "did the work of an evangelist, and made full proof of his ministry," by seeking not his own, but the profit of others, that they might be saved.

His constitution, which was always delicate, sunk under his labours, and he was compelled to ask of the conference a superannuated relation; after which he returned to the bosom of his father's family, where it was soon made manifest that an insidious disease was sapping the foundation of his health, and bearing him slowly but certainly to the grave. The last enemy found him ready for the conflict; and, full of peace, and abounding in hope, on the 16th day of April, 1836, his redeemed spirit was dislodged from its clay tenement, and entered its rest.

Surely the last end of the good man is peace.

"Night dews fall not more gently to the ground, Nor weary, worn-out winds expire so soft."

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

23. William H. Bull, the subject of this memoir, was born in Chester county, Penn., on the 24th of Nov., 1807, and departed this life on the 19th of July, 1836, in the twenty-ninth year of his age. Although favoured with an early religious education, and pious parental example, he remained destitute of converting grace until his nineteenth year, when, at a camp meeting on Chester circuit, under the preaching of the Rev. Joseph Lybrand he became powerfully awakened to a sense of his danger, and sought and found mercy through the great Mediator.

In the spring of 1827 he was received on trial in the Philadelphia Annual Conference, and appointed to Trenton circuit, N. J. The various important appointments that he afterwards faithfully filled will be seen by the minutes. At the conference of 1836 he was compelled by severe affliction to take a superannuated relation. In the following summer he was taken to the residence of his father, in Pennsylvania, where he soon finished his earthly career, and met the king of terrors, as a messenger of triumph.

Thus died our beloved brother, leaving a wife and two children, with many other relations and friends, to mourn their loss. His talents as a preacher were of a superior order,—his arrangements were systematic—his illustrations clear—and his manner warm and energetic. His labours were eminently successful. Numbers through his instrumentality have been born of God. But he now rests from his labours, and his works do follow him.

24. The Rev. Thomas Hickey was born in the city of Philadelphia on the 16th of April, 1808. He sought and found redemption in the blood of Christ, in his native city, A. D. 1825.

He entered the itinerancy in the Philadelphia Annual Conference in 1831. His labours as a travelling minister were confined to appointments within the bounds of the Chesapeake district, where he will be long rememberd as a devoted, faithful, and efficient minister of the Lord Jesus.

His last illness, which was pulmonary consumption, had its origin in a severo cold which he received at one of our camp meetings by incautiously leaving off his flannel: it was rapid in its course, and soon, even in a few months, terminated his useful life.

Through all his affliction he was cheerful and resigned, manifesting a mature and steady confidence in the providence and grace of God.

In this state of readiness, with his loins girt about, and light burning, he was called to give an account of his stewardship. To all who knew him it is sufficient to say, Brother Hickey was faithful unto death,—the doctrines he preached to others sustained him in his final hour.—"His final hour brought glory to his God"

He died in peace at Port Deposit, of which station he was pastor, January 23d, 1837, leaving to the sympathy of the church, and gracious providence of Almighty God, a widow and two children.

25. Lawrence M'Coombs, so well known and so highly esteemed in the Methodist connection for upwards of forty years, as an able and useful minister of Jesus Christ, was born in Kent county, Del., on the 11th day of March, 1769, and died at his residence in the city of Philadelphia, on the 11th June, 1836, in the sixty-seventh year of his age, and forty-fourth of his ministry. When a man so full of days and "honours that descend from God" is no longer seen among his devoted associates, in whose memory he is embalmed, his friends think they are not bound to consign that to oblivion which, being known, may "glorify our Father which is in heaven." The follwing particulars, therefore, are gleaned from a few friends who yet survive him, and to whom his memory is dear. At a very early period our venerable brother was brought to a knowledge of salvation by the remission of sins. His name first appears on the minutes of conference of 1792, at which time he was only in the twenty-third year of his age. Upon his entering into the itinerant ranks, he went forth as a faithful herald of the cross, relying solely upon the divinity of the cause in which he had engaged, labouring with apostolic zeal in the service of his Master, and realizing those divine supports of grace which are ever connected with a faithful administration of the word of life. In the year 1806 he asked for a location, and settled on the eastern shore of Maryland. In this situation he still maintained his early zeal for the cause of his Divine Master, and performed as much ministerial labour as was expected of him; when in the year 1815, feeling somewhat dissatisfied with this limited sphere of action, he re-entered the travelling connection, of which he continued a worthy and zealous member until the day of his death. Of the numerous excellences by which the character of our departed brother was so happily illustrated, we cannot give at this time any minute or lengthened detail. We may, however, barely glance at the following traits, which in him were peculiarly conspicuous:—He was a man of deep, unquestionable piety; never perhaps has religious experience appeared in any individual less liable to exception, or challenged more universal confidence. Who that knew the man ever doubted the reality and sincerity of his experience? His religion was truly evangelical; it was practical: like a galaxy or luminous path, "shining brighter and brighter unto the perfect day." It was not what has been termed by a sprightly author the "Christianity of nature" merely, but it was the Christianity of the Bible, preceded by "repentance towards God, and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ," and followed by those graces of the Christian temper, which matured his character and adorned his hoary age, like the rich and golden fruits of autumn, which gild the declining year. Our venerable brother was no less remarkable for his friendship than for his devotion. Those persons who were favoured with free intercourse with him, always found him an affectionate and faithful friend. It was scarcely possible to be in his company without receiving good from his conversation, his spirit, and example. Compassion for the lost and perishing children of men was another trait in the ministerial character of our departed brother. Of this amiable and indispensable qualification in a minister of Jesus Christ, his untiring labours in Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and elsewhere, are sufficient and convincing evidence. It was this spirit which gave him praise in the church of God, and made him a blessing to many, who in the day of the Lord Jesus will be the crown of his rejoicing.

Another trait in the character of this man of God was firmness of mind under the trials and afflictions of life. He shone in the time of affliction, and came out of the furnace like pure gold. "The last two years of his life (according to an interesting sketch, published in the Christian Advocate and Journal) were almost one continuous scene of severe and deep affliction, agonizing his body, enfeebling his mind, and nearly depriving him of speech. Yet not a murmur escaped his lips. No repining soured his temper or wasted his spirit. Being asked by his pious, estimable partner, respecting the state of his mind awhile before his departure, he assured her 'that his soul was peaceful, and that he was entirely willing to suffer yet longer, if the Lord should so order it; or to depart immediately to be with Christ, which is far better.' These were the last words he uttered, and in this state of mind he entered into rest."

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

26. Frederick D. Macfarlan was forty years of age, of studious habits, and of a cultivated mind, having received, under the instructions of his father, who was a graduate of the college of Edinburgh, the rudiments of a classical education. At the conference, two years ago, he passed a good examination in science and theology. He was modest, acceptable, and useful, and generally beloved wherever he went.

About twelve years before his death, in the city of Brooklyn, where he obtained his first license to preach, he was brought, through the instrumentality of a pious wife and mother, to feel himself a sinner, and ultimately to experience the blessing of pardon. After his removal to the city of New-York, he was recommended to the New-York Conference, and received on trial in 1832. Thus, in the brief period of five years, he finished his labours as a minister. He had just buckled on the harness, and had scarcely entered the field, when he was called to sing the song of triumph, and to reap the spoils of victory. His disease was bilious cholic, which terminated in dropsy, and ultimately in death. During a visit to his aged parents, about the first of October last, and soon after preaching in the Greene-street Church, N. Y., he was attacked with this disease, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. Though unable to preach for several weeks after, at a quarterly and four days' meeting, which was held in his charge in the month of November, and in which he was instrumental of doing good, it is believed he laboured beyond his strength. After this other diseases set in, which progressed with fearful rapidity, and terminated in death, Jan. 1st, 1837.

His death, though unexpected both by himself and friends, was peaceful. The physician in attendance did not inform him of his danger till a few hours before his death; at that time he said, "You ought to have let me know, but I am not afraid to die." His sickness was exceedingly severe; he could not lie in his bed for any length of time, and finally died in his chair. Though he said but little, he manifested to the last confidence in the goodness of God, and a patient resignation to his will. A surviving widow mourns his loss, and his memory will be embalmed in the recollection of those friends who ministered to him during his illness.

MAINE CONFERENCE.

27. Our esteemed brother, Rev. Oliver Beale, was born in Bridgewater, Mass., Oct. 13, 1777. He experienced religion at Thomaston, Me., in July, 1800. In 1801 he received license to preach; and was the same year admitted into the travelling connection by the conference at Lynn, Mass. At the close of the regular terms he was ordained deacon and elder by Rev. Bishop Asbury. In 1806 he was appointed presiding elder on Portland district; in which office he continued, on the Portland and Kennebec districts, for the twelve succeeding years. In 1818 he was attacked with an inflammatory lung fever, in consequence of which he was the next year appointed to a circuit as supernumerary preacher. In 1825-6 he performed the arduous duty of missionary on Piscataquis mission, from the effects of which on his impaired constitution he never after recovered. In 1830 and the two following years he officiated as presiding elder on Somerset district. In 1833 he was again superannuated. His last sickness may be dated from March, 1836, caused by a violent cold. The same year he journeyed to the south for the benefit of his health; where, in Baltimore, "he died as he lived, calm and peaceful," Dec. 30, 1836, aged 59. As a minister of the gospel he was uniformly pious, and devoted to the work; in prayer he was unusually interesting; in preaching, was instructive, and sometimes excelled. He was successful in the object of his ministry. He is esteemed for what he was as a man, as a Christian, and as a minister; as also for his long and beneficial labours for the church.

28. Our beloved brother, Rev. Ezra Kellogg, was born in New-Salem, Mass., Feb. 17, 1789. At the age of 14 or 15 he removed with his parents to Littletown, N. H. In 1819 he was deeply convinced of sin, and soon found peace with God: and such was the evidence he gave that he was designated by the Head of the church for ministerial orders, that he soon received license for preaching; and in June, 1820, was received a member on trial in the N. E. Conference. In 1822 he came to Maine. In Dec., 1827, he was severely attacked with an inflammation of the liver, attended with a pain in the side, from which he never fully recovered, though he continued his public laoours for a season; until, in consequences of weakness and pain, he was obliged to hold himself up by the pulpit to deliver his morning sermon, and in the afternoon to take his bed. His health now appeared past recovery. In the summer of 1828 he was put on the list of the superannuated; but in 1830 he was so far recovered as to receive an effective relation. In 1834 or 5 he was again supernumerary; but continued to preach on the Sabbath, until March 1836; and was in August superannuated. He died in the peace of the Gospel, June 20, 1837, aged 39. As a Christian minister he was successful in the promotion of revivals of religion, well received as a preacher, and universally beloved.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

29. Alfred Medcalf was born Jan., 1777, experienced the pardon of sin in 1800, and united with the M. E. Church, in which he continued a worthy member until he joined the church triumphant, June 4th, 1837.

His public labours commenced in 1802. In 1803 he was received into the travelling connection, and was successively appointed to the following circuits: Union River and Falmouth, Me., 1803–4; Provincetown, Mass., 1805; Salem, N. H., 1806; Marblehead, Nantucket, and Salisbury, Mass., the three succeeding years, and Portsmouth, N. H., in 1809. On each of these appointments he laboured ardently, and with success. In 1810, his health having become impaired, he received a location, and laboured as local preacher in Greenland, N. H., until he was re-admitted to the travelling connection in 1835. At the last conference he was stationed at Exeter, N. H. His last sermon was delivered in Greenfield, Nov. 17th. From this time he constantly declined, suffering but very little pain, until he departed to receive his reward.

He loved the doctrines and discipline of the church to which he belonged, and maintained them by precept and example until death. As a minister, companion, father, and Christian, he felt a high sense of his responsibility, and well did he discharge the duties devolving on him in these several relations in life.

His views in prospect of death were such as every faithful minister of the Lord Jesus Christ might expect. There was no anxiety manifested, at any time during his sickness, to recover, but a calm and cheerful resignation to the will of God. The doctrines which he had believed, and preached, and lived, he found abundant in their consolations. The night before he died he was triumphant. When informed that he was dying, he pleasantly exclaimed, "All is well—Christ the hope of glory—God is with me!"—and fell asleep.

30. Ariel Fay was born in Reading, Vt., A. D. 1807, and departed this life at the house of Luther Howe, his father-in-law, in Royalton, Vt., Dec. 29, 1836, aged twenty-nine years.

Brother Fay was about fifteen years of age when he commenced a life of prayer, but did not take a decided stand in the cause of God until about twenty, when he came out from the world, gave his heart to God, and obtained an evidence of salvation by faith. He soon connected himself with the M. E. Church, and continued a worthy, active member of the same, in the practical duties of religion, till he entered upon the more public duties of the ministry.

Feeling it his duty to call sinners to repentance, he obtained the approbation of the church, and was admitted to the New-Hampshire Conference on trial in 1830, and appointed to Rochester circuit, Vt.; in 1831, to Barnard circuit; in 1832 was ordained deacon and stationed on Brookfield cir., where he remained two years; in 1834 received elder's orders, and was appointed to Woodstock cir.; and in 1835 to Corinth cir., during which year he was called to experience the bereaving stroke of the death of his family, consisting of a wife and two children. In the latter part of this year he had a severe attack of the lung fever; but, on resuming his labours too soon, his health remained seriously impaired; so that at the ensuing conference, in 1836, he was returned supernumerary, and appointed to Woodstock cir. However, his health did not permit him to go to his appointment, but continued to decline till he closed his earthly career. He died of a pulmonary consumption. His bodily sufferings were severe; but he endured them with Christian patience and resignation. A few days previous to his death, when visited by one of his brethren in the ministry, he said, "I wish you to pray I may possess all the Gospel has provided for me." They prayed; the Lord answered; the room was filled with the glory of God. Brother Fay was unspeakably happy, and though he could speak with difficulty, he praised the Lord aloud, shouting, "Glory, glory! Now," said he, "brother, I am ready; I am ready to die or live, and suffer all the will of God. Tell my brethren they must be holy. Tell my brethren in the ministry that in order for success in their work, they must both live and preach holiness." He remained in this triumphant frame till his summons came, when he fell asleep in Jesus without a struggle or a groan.

Brother Fay possessed acceptable preaching talents, was faithful in his work, generally beloved, and successful. "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

TROY CONFERENCE.

31. Our beloved brother ARNOLD SCHOLEFIELD was born in Nova Scotia. While quite a youth he became pious, and united himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. After being for some time deeply impressed with a belief that God had called him to preach the Gospel, he applied and obtained license as a local preacher; but this sphere of action did not satisfy his mind; he felt an ardent desire to be wholly given up to the work of the Christian ministry. Accordingly, having obtained a recommendation from the circuit on which he resided, he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection at the conference held in Pittsfield, in May, 1810. From that time he travelled and laboured in the work of the ministry, with great acceptance and usefulness, until his health failed in 1828.

In the year 1832 his health was so much improved that he reported himself effective, and was appointed to travel on Troy district: but he had not travelled long before he was arrested by a paralytic stroke, after which he was never able to do any regular effective service till the time of his death.

The circumstances attending his death were somewhat painful. Shortly after the sitting of our last Conference, he was returning from visiting his friends, east of Albany, where he had formerly resided, in company with his wife; they had occasion to ride in the evening, in order to find a decent public house. When within about a mile of Spraker's tavern, in the town of Palatine, he dropped his whip, and began to slap his right hand on his thigh, and stamp with his right foot. He attempted to speak to his horse, but could scarcely articulate a word. Mrs. S. took the reins, and succeeded in getting him to the tavern. He never uttered another sentence; but after lingering three days and a half, he expired. The situation of sister Scholefield was extremely unpleasant, and peculiarly trying. She was among entire strangers, with a sick and dying husband; but she did every thing in her power to make him comfortable.

Thus has our much beloved brother finished his course, after having travelled for many years. Having fought the good fight of faith, we doubt not he has gone to receive the crown of life, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, has promised to all who are faithful.

Brother Scholefield was an able and laborious minister of the Gospel. He was very ardent in his religious feelings, and unusually kind and affectionate in his manners. Though cheerful, there was always a seriousness and gravity in his deportment. His conversation was admirably calculated to administer grace to the hearers. There was a peculiar richness and pleasing variety in his sermons. They were usually delivered with considerable pathos, and generally attended with a Divine unction from on high. We doubt not he had many seals to his ministry, which will shine as stars in the crown of his rejoicing for ever and ever.

* The British minutes for the present year have not yet been received.

☞ 1. The last Annual Report of the Missionary Society numbers between one and two thousand more Indians, as members of the Church, than are reported for the Minutes by the secretaries of the Conferences. We, however, are bound to follow the copies of the minutes as furnished by the secretaries, though we must believe that some of the missions have been overlooked by them, and that there is a very considerable increase in that department, notwithstanding there appears to be, according to the returns, a small decrease.

2. It will be perceived that the Pittsburgh, Erie, and Michigan Conferences are contained in this edition of the minutes for both the last and the present years. The reason is, that the times for holding said Conferences have been changed, so as to bring them before the Genesee, at which the series closes; and it was necessary to bring them in before that Conference to preserve consecutive order in the general arrangement. In the recapitulation of the numbers, however, they are included only once.

3. In reporting the local preachers the Conferences are not uniform. Some neglect it altogether; others report them in the aggregate, making no distinction between elders, deacons, and preachers, while a few only make such distinctions. As we could not carry out the reports in detail without altering the form of the Minutes, or much enlarging them, we have thought it inexpedient to do either for the few Conferences whose reports in this respect are full, and have therefore given only the aggregate number, under the head "L. pr." in the recapitulation.

QUESTION 12.—WHO HAVE DIED THIS YEAR?

OHIO CONFERENCE.

1. The Rev. JOHN A. WATERMAN was born in New-Hampshire, on the 29th June, 1790, and departed this life at his residence in Oxford, Ohio, on the 6th August, 1837. In his 18th year he embraced religion, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. After filling various relations in the church, he became deeply convicted of his duty to preach the gospel; and was accordingly licensed to preach, at Athens, Ohio, in the 24th year of his age. His first appointment was to Miami circuit, in 1814. He successively travelled Mahoning and Zanesville circuits. At this early period in his history he gave evidence of that greatness and goodness which so eminently characterized him in after life. For several years he continued to labour usefully in the Ohio conference, until the formation of the Pittsburgh conference, when his field of labour was assigned within its bounds. He successively filled Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Washington, and Steubenville stations, and travelled several circuits, in which his memory is embalmed in the hearts of thousands. For years he was seriously afflicted with a severe affection of the liver, which often interrupted ministerial labour, producing frequent mental depression, and finally compelled him to take a superannuated relation. He often expressed a wish to return to the field of his early labour; and accordingly, in agreement with the request of the Ohio annual conference, he was transferred from the Pittsburgh to this conference in 1832. Last year he was made effective, and appointed to Oxford, where his life of toil and suffering was terminated. Brother Waterman was what is styled a self-made man. Without the advantage of an early classical education he became, by close application, a scholar in all the different branches of literature. His attainments indeed were great; and while it is pleasing to behold, with the means thus afforded, the minister of God abundantly furnished unto every good word and work, it is yet painful to reflect that they were procured at the expense of health, and we may say almost of life itself. From the natural cast of his mind, he was prone to metaphysical investigation and discussion; yet these never robbed his sermons of that divine unction which ever proclaimed him to be the true minister of God. In reference to his ministerial character, it can be truly said he obtained the foremost rank among pulpit orators. Much might be said of the great moral worth of our departed brother, his devoted attachment to the church of God, his affection for his family, and all those estimable qualities which proclaimed him a great and a good man. We are informed by those who were familiar with brother Waterman, that for some time before his death that irritation and gloom which had so long attended his disease entirely subsided, and was followed by a heavenly calm, and unusual peace and cheerfulness of mind. This change he related with feelings of gratitude, but not without some apprehensions of approaching dissolution. He frequently visited his family physician, (Dr. Waters,) and expressed his feelings to him. He often declared to him, and others of the brethren, that he had never before, at any period of his life, enjoyed such peace of soul. He often exclaimed, "Why this calmness? Sometimes I think my end is nigh." Several of his friends expressed their fears that they should lose him; they had observed a striking change in his feelings. This state of composure continued until his death. A little more than two weeks before his death, he observed to one of his relations, whom he loved in Christ, that a few days before the conversation took place, he had read a beautiful passage of St. Pierre, in which he compared the influence of a belief in immortality to the effect produced upon a ship's crew long absent as they approached their native shore. The effect upon his feelings was altogether unusual, and he was forced to retire to a private room and weep aloud for joy. He continued his ministerial labours until two days before his death. The Sabbath before his death he preached in Oxford with his usual energy, and on Thursday following he preached at an appointment near the town. From that time he began to fail, but his symptoms were by no means alarming until Saturday, when great prostration of the vital powers took place, with paroxysms of fainting. From difficulty of breathing he could not converse much. He, however, informed his friends that he was sensible of his approaching end, and was prepared to meet it; that he had given up his family, with all his friends and interests, to God. He could say but little more, except occasionally to signify that he had neither doubt nor fear. His attending physician expressed his astonishment at the composure with which he met death. About five minutes before he expired, he raised himself a little, and in his accustomed manner examined his own pulse with great care, signified to his physician, who stood near, that he was going; composed himself again, and then left this present scene of human existence, sweetly falling asleep in the arms of Jesus.

2. Erastus Felton was born in Otsego county, N. Y., January 28, 1798. In his 11th year he experienced religion, and united himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. For about fourteen years he was a useful class-leader and exhorter. In 1818 he emigrated with his parents to Ohio; and in 1829 was received into the travelling connection, and appointed to St. Joseph's mission, in which he was continued a second year. After the usual periods he was ordained deacon and elder, and was successively appointed to Kalamazoo mission, Marion, Putnam, and Roscoe circuits; on which last, on the 25th of June, 1837, he ended his labours and his life.

As a preacher, brother Felton was characterized by great zeal. The Bible was his principal study; and with its history, its doctrines, its precepts, and its consolations, he was familiar. His discussion of his subject was not strictly methodical, nor always clear; but he seized hold of its leading features, and urged the great doctrines of repentance, and faith, and salvation from all sin, with earnestness, and often with success. He was faithful in meeting the classes and societies under his care, and in visiting, instructing, and praying with his people. As a man and a Christian, in all the social and domestic relations, brother Felton has left a "good name that is better than precious ointment." For several years he enjoyed, professed, and preached the great blessing and the glorious doctrine of perfect love. In its possession he lived, and in its full triumphs he died. The disease which terminated his earthly existence was not of long duration, and the intelligence that he must soon die was unexpected and distressing to his family; but he received it with undisturbed serenity and joy. His work, he said, was done. There were no lamentations of unfaithfulness over the past, no sore conflicts to disturb the present hour, and no gloomy anticipations to darken for a moment his prospects of the future. All, from the first approach of death till its consummation, was light, and peace, and joy within his soul; and without a sigh or struggle he fell asleep in Christ. "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace."

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

3. Rev. Hooper Evans, the subject of this memoir, was born of pious parents, in Dorchester county, Md., October 23, 1790. While yet a child, his father removed with his family to Kentucky, and shortly after died. His mother, however, brought up her children in the fear of God. In the 16th year of his age he embraced religion, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. About a year after he obtained the great blessing of sanctification, from which time he became very useful to the church as a class-leader and exhorter.

In 1828 he was licensed to preach, and entered the travelling ministry. He travelled six years, with great acceptability and usefulness, at which time his health failed. He was then superannuated, and was able to preach very little afterward. He has since resided in the family of his brother, Mr. John Evans, in Louisville. He suffered much in the last years of his life with a breast complaint; but he bore his sufferings with patience and fortitude, until his life ended in a peaceful death, July 28th, 1837. Brother Evans was a man of good preaching abilities, and remarkable for deep, uniform piety.

INDIANA CONFERENCE.

4. John Ray was born in 1768, in the state of Virginia; and while he was yet a youth his parents emigrated to the then wilds of Kentucky, where he, in the 19th year of his age, sought and found peace with God, and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1790 he joined the travelling connection: and after labouring with great success in the states of Virginia and North Carolina, married, located, and returned to Kentucky. He there reared the standard of the cross, preached Christ crucified to sinners, and was instrumental in establishing the first Methodist societies that were formed in Montgomery county. In his located sphere brother Ray was active and successful, and fully sustained the dignity of a gospel minister. In 1819 he again entered the itinerant field, by joining the Kentucky conference, which he had seen grow from a few classes to an extensive conference. Here he travelled successively the Lexington, Madison, Mount Sterling, and Henkston circuits. On this last circuit his health failed, and he retired, sustaining a superannuated relation. In 1833 he was transferred to the Indiana conference, where he still continued to preach the blessed gospel as his health would permit, till God sent his messenger to call him home. The last acts of his life were to give fifty dollars for the redemption of Thompson, and fifty to the Colonization Society. He died in peace, May, 1837, and now reigns with God on high.

5. Smith L. Robinson was born in 1806, in the state of Kentucky. He was brought up by Presbyterian parents, with whom, in an early day, he emigrated to the state of Illinois, where he embraced religion, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the 19th year of his age. During the following year he was received into the travelling connection in the Illinois conference, in which he laboured for nine years, with great success and usefulness; one year of which he was agent for the M'Kendreean College, and another stationed in Jacksonville, Illinois. In 1835 he was transferred to the Indiana conference, and stationed in Terrehaute, where he laboured with great acceptability and usefulness until the fall of the year 1836, when he repaired to conference, at Indianapolis; where, a few days after it closed its session, he died in peace, and was buried beside the beloved Strange. Although brother Robinson was not able to speak for some hours before his departure, yet he gave signs to his friends that all was well.

ARKANSAS CONFERENCE.

6. Rev. Charles T. Ramsey, the subject of this short memoir, was born in North Carolina, in the year 1794. His parents removed to East Tennessee, where he was reared up to manhood. He then removed with his parents to New-Madrid county, Missouri, where he lived until about the 27th year of his age, when he became awakened to a sense of his danger, under the labours of the Methodist ministry. He joined the church, was converted, and removed to the western district of Tennessee; where he was an exhorter, afterward a local preacher, and in the fall of 1829 was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, Tennessee conference. He travelled various circuits in the western district, with acceptability and great usefulness. His zeal seemed to increase with his years; and finding there was a great call for ministers in Arkansas, he took a transfer to the Missouri conference, which then included that country, and was appointed on the Mount Prairie circuit, where he was useful. At the next conference he was appointed to the Little Rock district, which he filled for two years with great usefulness. He went to conference which met in Batesville, where he was again appointed to the Little Rock district; but was arrested by disease in that place, which ended his sufferings in three days. During his illness he expressed the most perfect resignation to the will of God; and died as he had lived, strong in the faith; giving glory to God. He was an itinerant seven years; and finished his course on the 10th of November, 1836.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

7. Rev. Robert L. Kennon was born in Granville county, North Carolina, in the year 1789, and converted to God in 1801, when about eleven years old. At that early age he was found in the altar praying for mourners—a good beginning, and one which was not disappointed by his future course. In 1809 he was admitted on trial in the South Carolina conference, and stationed on Cypress circuit; 1810, Cypress again, 1811, Kewee; 1812, Warrenton. In 1811 he was admitted into full connection and ordained deacon; in 1813 he was ordained elder, and located on account of ill health. He then read medicine, and practised for several years, preaching as much as health would permit. In 1819 he removed from Georgia to Alabama, and settled at Tuscaloosa, where his superior qualities as a Christian, a citizen, a physician, and a minister of Christ, secured him the affection of a large circle of friends, who loved him to the end. In the fall of 1824 he re-entered the travelling connection in the Missisippi conference, and laboured during the four succeeding years with great acceptability and usefulness on the Black Warrior district; 1829 and 1830, in Tuscaloosa; in 1831 and 1832, Tuscaloosa district; 1833, in Greensborough; 1834, supernumerary on Choctaw mission; 1835 and 1836, in Mobile; 1837, in Tuscaloosa, which ended his laborious and useful life.

He came to Columbus a few days before the conference in unusually good health, preached on the last day of the year with great power, and on the same night took a leading part in the watch meeting, where his solemn remarks on the shortness and value of time seemed premonitory of his own speedy departure. On Monday and Tuesday he assisted in the examination of the young preachers—a work in which he always took a deep interest; for the elevation of the standard of ministerial qualification was an object for which he laboured incessantly. On Tuesday evening he was attacked with fever and inflammation of the lungs, which confined him to his bed during the entire session of the conference; and just before the other preachers received their appointments, he was called by the Head of the church from the scene of his labours and sufferings with his brethren below, to join the ransomed of the Lord in heaven. It is a far easier task to trace the history than to draw the character of such a man as Dr. Kennon. His praise is in all the churches, and the memory of his talents and virtues will long be cherished by thousands. Who that was honoured with his acquaintance did not admire his transparent simplicity, his pleasant yet dignified address, his unaffected humility, and his tender sympathy for the distress of others? Who ever listened to the tones of his pulpit eloquence without acknowledging that he had talents of the first order!—and who could hear his powerful pleadings at a throne of grace without being satisfied that he was truly a man of God? His learning was respectable, his mind well disciplined, and his theological research profound. He was a man "mighty in the Scriptures." To his investigating and devotional mind they presented an inexhaustible mine of instruction and comfort, which it was his daily business to explore. In these hallowed retreats of inspiration he sought and obtained that wisdom from on high which so eminently qualified him to be a master in Israel. Here, in communion with God, he caught that burning fervour, that melting tenderness, that baptism of the Holy Ghost, which rendered his sermons, his conversation, his example, a blessing to thousands. His expositions of the word of God were marked by great originality and independence, and his method of sermonizing was peculiarly his own, characterized by the clearest conception and the deepest thought. These, together with a pathos in delivery peculiar to himself, and a boldness in declaring the whole counsel of God, which knew no man after the flesh, rendered him one of the most able and useful ministers in the south. He was truly a father to our youthful conference. In him the young preachers found an able and willing instructer, a wise and prudent counsellor, a kind and sympathizing friend. If the prayers of his brethren could have detained him, he would have yet been among us; but infinite wisdom has taken him from us, and we submit to the stroke, humbly hoping that some Elisha may catch his mantle.

Throughout his last illness his patience, fortitude, and humble gratitude for any attention shown him, were remarkable. Though at a distance from his family, and detained from the business of the conference, in which he was much interested, his mind was kept in peace, for it was stayed on God. His active mind could not refrain, even in sickness, from the study of the holy Scriptures; he would sometimes exclaim, "I've got it—I've found a key to unlock this passage which I have long sought—I'll preach on it soon." It was remarked by a friend who sat up with him two or three nights before his death, that every expression he uttered, whether asleep or awake, partook of the loftiest intelligence and the deepest piety. Two of the preachers visited him soon after his attack, to whom he said, "I think it very probable I shall be located as brother Cotton was at the last conference; but I have no fear of death." When asked by Bishop Andrew whether he was prepared for any event of sickness, he firmly replied, "I am." His faith calmly rested in the atonement of Christ; and while he derived no comfort from any thing he himself had done, he felt that Jesus was precious to his soul. About an hour before his death he said, "Brethren, my feelings are most delightful—here is true simplicity—here is true grandeur." He was admiring with rapture the glorious plan of man's salvation, on which alone he rested his hope, and his soul was feasting on the love of God. Thus lived and died this eminent servant of Christ. He lived for God and his church,—and when his work was done, he went from the walls of Zion to the city above:

> "His body with his charge laid down,
> And ceased at once to work and live."

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

8. Jesse Richardson was born in Virginia, April 24th, 1765, was converted May 27th, 1785, and soon after began to call sinners to repentance. In May, 1788, he was admitted on trial in the travelling connection. After travelling five years with great usefulness, his health failed and he was compelled to desist. He was married in 1794. As a local preacher he was industrious, going from sixty to seventy miles, employing a third of his time in preaching, and working hard to redeem the time. The Lord blessed his labours. In 1803 he re-entered the itinerancy. Because of his domestic concerns, he was forced to locate the following year. He continued in this situation till 1809, when he again joined himself to the itinerancy. In 1811 he became a supernumerary. Still, however, he exhibited the characteristics of a zealous and untiring minister, never losing an appointment. If unable to preach, he still went the round, holding class meetings and prayer meetings. During the six following years he was effective. In 1818 he was appointed presiding elder of Catawba district. He continued labouring faithfully and successfully in this capacity until 1822, when he was put in charge of the Union circuit. He was now so worn down as to be under the necessity of asking a superannuated relation. During the autumn of 1823 he removed to Habersham county, Ga. He preached his last sermon the 28th of May last, from "Whosoever believeth on the Son of God, hath the witness in himself." He was very happy. June 3d he was attacked with a disease of the lungs, which caused his death. During his illness he manifested a meek resignation to the will of his Creator. He said, "I have the best truth of the Bible to die on, the divinity of Christ. I have faith in this; all is consoling to me beyond the tomb." At another time he said, "I have nothing to fear. I believe in the Godhead of Christ, have preached it, lived on it, and now I die on it, glad to rest my everlasting all on the divinity of my Redeemer." Thus expired our venerable brother.

> "The chamber where the good man meets his fate
> Is privileged beyond the common walks of virtuous life
> Quite on the verge of heaven."

9. Samuel Anslev was born in Warren county, N. J., embraced religion in early life, and lived and died a consistent and devoted Christian. He entered the travelling ministry when young, and continued for about twenty years; during this period he travelled extensively from Virginia to Georgia, and from the seashore to the mountains. And although he was never regarded as having preaching talents of a high order, yet the holy uniformity of his life imparted to his gifts as a preacher a worth which will ever be denied to him whose mind demands a respect which his life does not merit. As this memoir is written without an opportunity of reference to the bound minutes, we must give only facts, and not dates. Brother Ansley first located ; but as he found himself nearing to the grave, he felt such a desire to be again numbered with the members of the conference that he asked and obtained a superannuated relation, in which he filled up the measure of his days. In this relation, wisely granted to such as are worn out in the service of the church, brother Ansley held no claim on the funds of the conference. He generously left the money to those more needy, and felt well satisfied with the honour of dying a member in good standing with the conference. And so he did. Year after year brought to our ears the delightful intelligence of his continued faithfulness, until death closed the scene in April, 1837. His age is not accurately known to us, neither the precise time of his conversion ; but his end was one of peace and triumph.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

10. Thomas C. Smith, the subject of this brief memoir, was born January 1, 1807, and embraced religion September 6, 1824. He was licensed to preach in the Methodist Episcopal Church, September 1, 1827, and admitted on trial in the South Carolina conference, February 11, 1828, and travelled Washington circuit, Ga. ; 1829, Reedy River. At the conference of 1830 he was received into full connection and ordained a deacon. From this conference he was sent to the Morganton circuit. In 1831 and 1832 he laboured on the Cooper River circuit, and for 1833 as supernumerary on the Lancaster circuit. In 1834 he was returned effective, and appointed to Lincolnton circuit. In 1835 the conference gave him a superannuated relation, in which he continued until called to his reward in heaven. Brother Smith possessed naturally an amiable disposition, and after his conversion he always manifested deep and uniform piety. As a minister he possessed good preaching abilities, and was much beloved by those with whom he laboured. He had a feeble constitution, and was unable to endure the labours and exposures of a circuit preacher. His afflictions were great, but he bore them with the fortitude and humble confidence which become the Christian ; exhibiting in his last days that gentleness of mind, evenness of temper, and meekness of soul, for which he was so remarkable through all his life.

When he drew near his end, he said many beautiful and encouraging things, never to be forgotten by those that heard them. His end was truly triumphant. He retained his mind unimpaired to the last, and often told that God was with him, and that he longed to be gone. During the last twelve hours of his life, whenever free from paroxysms of coughing, he was almost continually praising God ; though very weak, he often shouted aloud. At one time he said, "O the missionary cause ; I wish I could do more for it." As one sinking into the arms of gentle slumber, he fell into the sleep of death, about 3 o'clock, P. M., on the 27th of November, 1837. Our loss is his infinite gain.

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

11. Benjamin R. Newcomb was a native of Gloucester county, Va. He was brought at an early age under the influence of divine grace, and became a local preacher before he was of age. At the session of the Virginia conference in Raleigh, Feb., 1834, he was received on probation and appointed to Amherst circuit ; in 1835, to Trent ; and in 1836 to Snow Hill circuit. While labouring on the latter circuit he was seized with consumption, which threatened a speedy termination of his life and labours. He visited St. Augustine, East Florida, and after suffering for several months he was called to his reward some time in the summer of 1837. His advantages in early life were very limited, but by dint of application he acquired a respectable standing among us as a minister of the gospel.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

12. Andrew Hemphill was born in the north of Ireland, and emigrated to this country about the beginning of the present century. He was brought to the knowledge of salvation by the remission of sins, in the year 1800, and at that early period of his spiritual life exhibited the same ardent zeal and stirring activity which characterized him throughout a long and laborious career in the ministry of Jesus Christ.

He entered the travelling connection of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the year 1803, and was appointed to the Clarksburgh circuit, within the bounds of the Baltimore annual conference. In the following year we find him appointed to Erie, laboriously fulfilling the arduous duties and enduring the severe privations of an itinerant missionary on the very frontiers of that vast field which, skirting on Upper Canada, and now occupied by the Pittsburgh conference, engaged the early attention and active enterprise of the preachers of the Baltimore annual conference.

It would be unnecessary to enumerate all the circuits and stations supplied by the labours of our brother from year to year. Suffice it to say that we find him in almost every section of this conference, and at a period when it embraced that extensive region of country now partitioned off to the Pittsburgh, Holston, and Oneida conferences, when a circuit was in compass almost equal to a modern district, and when the travels of a preacher were almost equivalent to those of a Presiding Elder in these days, we find brother Hemphill taking his full share of ministerial labour. In the remarkable success which crowned the self-sacrificing efforts of the men of that age, amid obstacles innumerable, our brother enjoyed no inconsiderable share. He was, in the best sense of the word, a revivalist: he acted on the principle, that he is the best preacher who wins the most souls to Christ. As a preacher he was grave, simple, sincere, pure in doctrine, original in thought, affectionate in address. He performed all the duties of a Methodist preacher. He was careful to fold the sheep of the Lord's pasture, he kept the fence in good order, he paid particular attention to the organization of the societies, and the improvement of church property. He was scrupulously punctual as to time, and until his afflictions toward the close of life considerably embarrassed his movements, hardly ever missed an appointment.

His personal appearance and spirit were truly patriarchal, and the fine venerable form and silvery locks of our beloved Hemphill will not be shortly effaced from the memory of the brethren of the Baltimore annual conference.

In the year 1815 he was appointed Presiding Elder of the Carlisle district; but owing to an injury received by a fall from his horse, he was obliged to decline the appointment.

At the conference of 1834 he received his last appointment to the Presiding Eldership of the Carlisle district. Here his constitution, originally vigorous, but shaken by many a storm, and undermined by much exposure, began seriously to give way. As bodily afflictions multiplied, it was the opinion of some of his intimate friends that he ought to retire from the field, and enjoy that needful rest which he so well merited; but to this he could never give his consent.

During a ministry of upward of thirty-four years he had never faltered in his itinerant course, and the very idea of location was abhorrent. He determined to die in the front rank of veteran and effective soldiers. He never gave up his sword until Christ called him from the walls of Zion: then he surrendered it to that hand which gave it, but carried the honours of his triumph to the city of his repose. The religion which he professed and recommended, sustained him when severe affliction pressed heavily upon him; and although he was sick a long time, yet he never uttered a murmuring word, but cheerfully bore his sufferings as a Christain. He remarked that he was not tired of life; but if it pleased God to order it otherwise, he was ready. The valley of the shadow of death was illuminated as he approached it, and over death and the grave he shouted "glory." His last words were, "happy, happy." He died fifteen minutes before five o'clock on Sabbath morning, August 27, 1837, after a severe illness, in the sixtieth year of his age. His funeral sermon was preached on Monday by his old friend, brother Henry Smith, at his own request, to a large and sympathizing congregation, from Acts xi, 24: "He was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost, and of faith: and much people was added unto the Lord."

PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

13. JOHN POTTS, the subject of this biographical notice, was born in Hunterdon county, New-Jersey. Of his early history, conversion to God, and call to the ministry, we have but little satisfactory information. He commenced his itinerant labours in 1812, under the direction of a presiding elder. In the following year he was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia annual conference, and appointed to Freehold circuit. He subsequently filled some of the most important appointments in the different sections of this then extended conference, as may be seen by recurring to the minutes, in all of which he prosecuted the duties of his high vocation with acceptance and more than ordinary success. His last field of labour was the South Philadelphia district, to which he was appointed as presiding elder at the conference of 1834. Here his versatility of ministerial and business talent was seen and acknowledged. He presided in the quarterly conference with dignity, preached to the edification of the church, and the awakening and conversion of sinners, and counselled both ministers and members with ability and fidelity. In this important and responsible office he added greatly to the amount of valuable service he had rendered to the cause of God; and acquired for himself additional esteem and affection from his brethren and friends. On this field he also fought his last conflict, and gained his last signal and complete victory. At the conference for 1836 he was violently attacked with disease, which soon affected his lungs, and continued its ravages until it terminated his useful life on the 22d of September, 1837. His sufferings for near eighteen months were constant, and much of the time severe. Through grace, however, he was enabled to bear all with patience and resignation. In the last part of his sickness, especially, he abounded in the strong consolations of the gospel. He perfectly understood his condition, and knew that his end was drawing near. He conversed about his departure with perfect freedom and composure. About three weeks before his death, he told a friend his wish respecting his funeral and the place of his interment, and desired him to make the arrangements accordingly; and when informed that he had done so, expressed a satisfaction that his last temporal business was finished. The last three days of his life were days of unmitigated physical agony. To use his own words, "it seemed as if his flesh was all on fire." But during the whole time his mind was perfectly serene and happy. During the last day, after his extremities were cold in death, he frequently repeated this expression, "So shall we be ever with the Lord." A short time before his death, observing his companion standing by his bed weeping, he addressed her with much tenderness, as follows: "O, my dear wife, we shall soon meet again;" and then, as if he already felt so much of eternity that time dwindled into comparative nothingness, added, "soon, soon," repeating the word four or five times. After he had remained with his eyes closed for some time, he opened them, and said with feebleness, but distinctness, "This is the valley of the shadow of death, but I go through fearing no evil." A friend present repeated, "Thy rod and thy staff, they comfort thee." He nodded his head in the affirmative, and slept in death. O how transcendant the moral beauty and sublimity of such a deathbed scene! Here was the joy of triumph when engaged in the dreadful conflict; here was the peace of heaven amid the dying strife of earth. Here was the Christian with his foot upon the neck of the king of terrors, calmly dispossessing himself of his fleshly garment, and with majesty and glory taking his egress from this state of probationary warfare, and ascending to the enjoyment of the rich rewards of immortality, for which he had so long and so successfully contended. In giving a summary of the character of our deceased brother, we observe his excellences were many. As a friend, he was sincere and constant—as a husband and a father, affectionate and faithful—as a Christian, consistent and devoted—and as a minister, talented and useful. Such were the character and death of our departed brother Potts. Let us cherish his memory and his virtues—let us imitate his example, and emulate his piety, and may God grant that we may die his death, and that our last end may be like his!

NEW-JERSEY CONFERENCE.

14. James Buckley, the subject of this memoir, was born in 1810. He was a native of England, and emigrated to this country in 1827. In 1830 he became a subject of regenerating grace. It was soon evident to himself and to the church, that God had called him to the ministry. In the latter part of 1833 he was called out into the regular work by the presiding elder, the Rev. J. J. Matthias. In the spring of 1834 he was received on trial in the Philadelphia conference, and stationed at Mount Horeb; in 1835 and 1836 at Elizabethtown; in 1837 at Morristown. Previous to entering upon this, his last charge, his health was feeble, and gradually declined until about the close of 1837, when it so far failed that he was removed to Bloomfield, among his relatives. Here he rapidly declined until the 15th of March, when he died in the calmness and confidence of faith and hope. The disease of which he died was pulmonary, to which he was evidently predisposed. He possessed strong faith in God, and frequently enjoyed great peace and holy joy. He remarked that "his hopes of heaven were firmly based on the atonement of Christ."

He was confined to his bed but two or three days. The evening before his dissolution he appeared better than usual; was cheerful and conversed with his friends freely; but the following morning an evident change had taken place. His friends were called to his bedside. His speech, to a great extent, had failed him. He was sinking into the arms of death. A friend inquired, "Is the great sacrifice which has been offered sufficient?" to which he responded with emphasis, "O yes, yes." After his speech had entirely failed, he was requested, if all was well, to raise his hand, which was done at two different times in token of victory over the fear of death, through the blood of Christ. He was commended to God in prayer; soon after which he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. As a Christian, his piety was not of a vacillating or doubtful character; but deep, uniform, constant, and practical. The graces of the Christian shone in him with distinguished lustre. Grave and serious in his manners, he was at the same time cheerful and amiable. His talents as a preacher were of a superior order. His mind was strong and discriminating. His habits were studious, his application close, his improvement rapid. He was laborious in every department of his work. As a pastor, he was faithful and devoted: as a preacher, he was not only laborious, zealous, and acceptable, but popular and successful. The zeal, pathos, energy, and affection with which his sermons were delivered, rendered them impressive and efficient. His career was short, but active and successful. His memory is blessed, and his crown of recompense will be decorated with stars

> "Of precious souls to Jesus given,
> That he has led to God—to heaven."

NEW-YORK CONFERENCE.

15. Jesse Carley was a native of Burwash, county of Sussex, England, and emigrated to the United States in 1830. At the age of sixteen years, through the instrumentality of a pious mother, he sought and found salvation by faith in Jesus Christ. About two years after his conversion, his mind became deeply impressed with an ardent desire to proclaim to others that gospel which by experience he had proved to be the "power of God unto salvation." Yielding to the convictions of his heart, that such was the will of God concerning him, he laboured for some years in the city of London with perseverance and fidelity in a local capacity.

Two years after his removal to the United States, he was recommended to the New-York annual conference, and appointed to the Coeymans circuit in 1832. In 1834 he was appointed to Hillsdale and Copake circuit. In 1835 to Hudson Print-Works station, and in 1837 to the Huntington circuit, L. I., where his labours and his life reached their conclusion. Brother Carley's illness was severe and very protracted; but, although suffering under a complication of diseases, he manifested a patient resignation to the will of God, and was divinely supported by the sanctifying and cheering influences of the gospel he had preached to others. After a sickness of five months he fell asleep in Jesus, Nov. 1st, 1837, aged thirty-six years and five months.

As a man, brother Carley was humble, prudent, simple in his manners, and unassuming in his disposition. As a Christian, he enjoyed continual communion with God, deeply cultivated the spirit of holiness, and exemplified in his life and conversation the sanctifying effect of the gospel of Christ.

As a minister, he was warmly attached to the doctrines and discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church, conscientiously preaching the one and enforcing the other.

His pulpit labours were marked by simplicity and sincerity. He was eminently diligent in the discharge of pastoral duties; and to a considerable extent successful in turning sinners to righteousness. We believe that he is now in the enjoyment of the rest which remains for the people of God.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

16. Rev. John Brodhead was born Oct. 5, 1770, in Lower Smithfield, Penn. In 1794 he entered the travelling connection, and the two following years was stationed in New-Jersey and Maryland. In 1796 he emigrated to New-England, where he was among the pioneers, forming new societies in various places in each of the New-England states and Lower Canada. He filled many important offices in the church, and especially in the early part of his ministry his labours were exceedingly arduous and eminently successful.

His constitution becoming impaired, in 1811 he was stationed at New-Market, N. H., where after this period he usually resided, sustaining the various relations of supernumerary, superannuated, and effective, until he was removed from earth to heaven, April 7th, 1838.

Brother Brodhead was a good man; deeply pious, ardently and sincerely devoted to the interests of the church and world. It is known to all who were acquainted with the untarnished excellences of his character, that a great man and a prince has fallen in Israel.

PITTSBURGH CONFERENCE.

17. Martin Ruter, D. D., was born April 3, 1785, in Charlestown, Worcester county, Mass. His parents were pious. When not over three years of age, he had serious impressions, which increased with his age until 1799, when he resolved to devote himself to God, and in the following autumn experienced the forgiveness of sins, and enjoyed "peace with God." In the winter of 1799 and 1800 he joined the M. E. Church. It sometimes occurred forcibly to his mind, even before he experienced religion, that he should be called to preach the gospel. Subsequently these impressions increased, and he turned his attention closely to the study of divinity. In the summer of 1800 he received license to exhort from Rev. John Brodhead, P. E. of New-London district, with whom he travelled about three months for the sake of instruction. In autumn he was licensed to preach, and employed to travel the succeeding winter and spring on Weathersfield circuit, Vermont.

In June, 1801, he was admitted on trial by the New-York conference, being a little over sixteen years of age, and appointed to Chesterfield circuit. In 1802, to Landaff N. H. In 1803 he was ordained deacon, and sent to Adams circuit alone. In 1804 he was sent to Montreal; visited Quebec during the year, and returned to the Ashgrove conference in 1805, where he was ordained elder by Bishop Asbury, and sent to Bridgewater circuit, N. H. This appointment transferred him to the New-England conference. In 1806 he travelled Northfield circuit; 1807, Portsmouth and Nottingham. In 1808 he was appointed to Boston, and also elected a delegate to the first delegated General Conference. In 1809–10 he presided on New-Hampshire district; 1811, sent to Portland, Me. In 1812–13 he was located; 1814, re-admitted and appointed, to North Yarmouth, (where he had resided the two previous years,) and Freeport; 1815, stationed at Salisbury, Mass; 1816, attended the General Conference in Baltimore; 1816–17, stationed in Philadelphia. In May, 1818, the Asbury College in Baltimore conferred on him the degree of Master of Arts. This year he was appointed to the charge of the New-Market Wesleyan Academy; in 1819 appointed to Portsmouth, N. H., but remained at the Academy by an arrangement of his presiding elder; in 1820 attended General Conference in Baltimore, and was elected to conduct the business of the western Book Agency, at this time established at Cincinnati; in 1824, re-elected to the western agency. In 1822 the Transylvania University of Kentucky, without his knowledge, conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. Before the expiration of the second term of his agency, he was elected President of Augusta College, Kentucky, which office he held somewhat over four years. Feeling desirous to be engaged in the more immediate and active duties of the ministry, he obtained a transfer to the Pittsburgh conference; and was stationed the two succeeding years in Pittsburgh. Near the close of his second year, in June, 1834, he removed to Meadville to preside over Alleghany College, which had been taken the year before under the patronage of the Pittsburgh conference. This office he filled with great advantage to the college, until the summer term of 1837, when he resigned his chair for the purpose of undertaking the superintendence of the new mission in Texas. His arrangements being made, he attended the Pittsburgh conference at Steubenville on his way—left his family at New-Albany, Ind., and reached his field of labour some time in October.

Here the want of labourers being great, the country new, and the settlements extended and far asunder, his rides were long—his labours incessant—and exposures great. He continued travelling—preaching—forming societies—laying plans for building churches—promoting Sabbath schools and general education, until the spring. Finding himself diseased, he took medicine, and found partial relief. He determined to start for his family, and rode some forty miles; but his strength failing, he returned to Washington. He was attended by several physicians; and numerous friends sympathized with him in his sufferings, and supplied his wants. He suffered several weeks, enjoying great peace, and exhibiting a calm resignation to the will of God. He professed an unshaken confidence in God, and firm hope of heaven just before his death, which took place May 16th, 1838.

Dr. Ruter was no ordinary man. Naturally he was perhaps little more than many others. His early advantages were no more than a common-school education, and the period that young men generally take their college degrees he spent in passing through the grades of an itinerant minister. Yet, in the itinerant field, Dr. Ruter became a literary man; well versed in languages, science, and history, and discharged the duties of college president with great dignity. He was an affectionate husband and parent, "ruling his own house well," an affable and courteous gentleman—and an interesting companion. He was more. Divine grace had deeply imbued his heart, and drawn upon it in strong lines the moral image of God; and his early devotion to his divine Master was maintained with uniformity through life. In the pulpit he was solid, grave, warm, and dignified, generally listened to with pleasure, always with profit. But these excellences were still excelled by his love to his God and his fellowmen, impelling him, in his fifty-third year, into the missionary field, where he laboured, SUFFERED, and DIED.

QUESTION 12.—WHO HAVE DIED THIS YEAR?

OHIO CONFERENCE.

1. JAMES W. FINLEY was born Dec. 24, 1800, in Highland county, Ohio. He was the eldest son of the late lamented John P. Finley. Early in life he was moved by the Holy Spirit to preach the gospel of Christ. He accordingly gave himself to God and the church, and was regularly admitted on trial in the travelling connection in the 21st or 22d year of his age. He laboured about nine years for his blessed Master, and was then called to exchange his labour and trial for a joyful crown at God's right hand. His constitution and health, from the commencement of his ministry, were feeble: still he was an indefatigable labourer in the vineyard of his Lord. Indeed his earnest desire for the salvation of souls impelled him to such labours as doubtless hastened his departure. "Instant in season and out of season," he was always at work, and ever seemed emulous to obey the injunction of our beloved Wesley, "Be diligent." By one who knew him well, he has been known, contrary to the advice of friends and physician, to rise from the bed of sickness, and call sinners to repentance. His pulpit exercises were far above mediocrity; and so amiable was his deportment, that he was universally beloved. In January last he was attacked with a deep-seated affection of the lungs, and conveyed to his mother's, in Lima. Symptoms of returning health were frequently given him; but like thousands who have suffered from that same deceitful disease, he and his friends were doomed to disappointment. In the month of April he was altogether confined; and from this period he often told his friends the time of his departure was near at hand. In the midst of great sufferings God sustained him; and when gasping for breath he would say, "What love and peace I feel!" To his weeping mother and family he exclaimed, just as he expired, "O, how precious the Lord is to my soul! Glory! glory!" Thus, on the 11th of June, 1838, with glory on his tongue, and glory full in view, departed our beloved brother.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

2. MICHAEL S. TAYLOR, from the best information, was born Oct. 28, 1798, in Scott county, Ky. Of his parentage and early years little is known. He was authorized to exercise his gifts as an exhorter on Lexington circuit, by the Rev. Marcus Lindsay, in September, 1823. In September, 1824, he was licensed to preach. He was some time afterward received on trial as an itinerant peacher in the Kentucky conference. He was ordained deacon at Versailles, Ky., in 1827, by Bishop Soule; and two years after he was inducted into elders' orders. He travelled about four years in the Kentucky conference; was then transferred to the Illinois, and travelled Salem and other circuits in Indiana. He was subsequently transferred from the Indiana conference back to the Illinois conference, and appointed presiding elder on the Wabash district, where he continued his labours for four years; during which time, in 1834, he was united in matrimony with Emily D. Cullem. He was appointed also during this period a delegate to the last General Conference, in Cincinnati. At the session of the Illinois conference, held in Rushville, in October, 1836, brother Taylor was appointed presiding elder of the Quincy district. About the 10th of July, 1838, he was seriously taken with fever, which increased continually to the 20th; when, at eight o'clock in the evening, he expired, aged thirty-nine years; fourteen of which were spent in entire dedication to the ministry. In all the relations of life he was irreproachable.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

3. THOMAS H. GIBBONS was born in Springfield, Ky., July 19, 1807. He was of respectable parentage. His father was a Baptist, and his mother a Presbyterian. In 1828 he attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church as a seeker of religion, and shortly after was happily converted in a class meeting. In the fall of 1829 he was licensed to preach, and admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to Lewis circuit: in 1830 to Elizabeth circuit, where he travelled two years. In 1832 he was appointed to Glasgow circuit: in 1833 to Cynthiana station, and at the end of the year located. He was readmitted in 1835, and appointed to Winchester circuit: in 1836 to Ebenezer and Athens; and in 1837 to Georgetown circuit, where he laboured with zeal and success until the summer of 1838, when he was suddenly attacked with inflammatory fever; and after a few days' suffering, died in peace and triumph. Brother Gibbons was a man of good natural abilities, assisted by the advantages of a common education. His piety was deep, uniform, experimental, and practical; and his preaching was much of the same character. He possessed a sweet disposition, was agreeable in his manners, and much beloved by all his acquaintance. His end was peace.

INDIANA CONFERENCE.

4. Benjamin Nichols Barnes was born in Southampton co., Va., Nov. 15, 1808. His parents were religious, his father being a local preacher, who had travelled seven years in the early part of his life. The circumstances of his father were such, that he could not give Benjamin much education; but he taught him the fear of the Lord; in consequence of which he ever had a high regard for religion, though he lived for years without its enjoyment. In 1826 he lost his father, which made a deep and lasting impression on his mind; so that in 1827 he experienced religion, and joined the church. He obtained license to exhort in 1829; and in February, 1830, joined the Virginia conference, where he graduated to deacons' and elders' orders, according to the economy of the church. In the Virginia conference he travelled six years, acceptably and usefully. In 1836 he located, and came to Indiana. He was soon employed by the presiding elder to fill the Greencastle station, until the close of the year 1837, when he was readmitted, and appointed to Crawfordsville station, where the Lord crowned his labours with abundant success. Many were born to God, and added to the church. Here he professed to experience the blessing of perfect love. About the middle of August he attended a camp meeting, and preached with his usual acceptability. His last sermon was preached from—"We preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord." Immediately on his return he was taken sick, and continued to decline until the 6th of September, when he sweetly "fell asleep in Jesus." Brother Barnes had, by his own industry, greatly improved his mind. His preaching talents were above mediocrity, and promised much usefulness to the church. But he has gone to his reward, leaving his widow to mourn.

ARKANSAS CONFERENCE.

5. Hiram Gering was born of respectable parents, in the state of Virginia, Monongalia county, in 1810. He embraced religion in the year 1830, at Zanesville, Ohio, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1833 he was licensed to exhort and preach, and was received on trial in the Ohio conference, and appointed to Calhoun mission. In 1834 he was appointed to travel St. Clair circuit. In 1835 and 1836 he was appointed to Mt. Clemens circuit, in the Michigan conference. Hearing of the great call for preachers in Arkansas, he was transferred to the Arkansas conference, and appointed to the Washington circuit, where he laboured with great acceptability until the 4th of September, 1838, when he was violently attacked with congestive fever at Dr. Bedford's. His disease baffled all medical skill; and on the 17th of September, sabbath evening, at three o'clock, his triumphant spirit took its flight; and with his dying breath he said, "Tell the preachers of the Ohio, Michigan, and Arkansas conferences, I die at my post, and in the sight of heaven."

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

6. Alexander Talley was born of respectable parents; at what time and place we have not the means of ascertaining. In the year 1810 he was admitted on trial in the South Carolina conference: he laboured successively in that conference in the following stations:—1810, Wincombe—1811, Oakmulgee—at the close of which year he was elected and ordained deacon;—1812, Washington—1813, Broad River, when he was elected and ordained elder;—1814 and '15, Charleston—1816 and '17, Edisto district—1818, Charleston—1819, he was appointed a missionary to Mobile: he was the first sent by our church to that place. At the close of that year his health had very much failed, and he located and settled on the Alabama river, in the practice of medicine. In the close of 1825, his health being somewhat improved, he was readmitted into the Mississippi conference, and laboured in 1826 and '27 on Louisiana district. In the close of 1827 Dr. Talley was appointed a missionary to the Choctaw Indians, with whom he continued till the close of 1834: his health was then very feeble. In 1835 he laboured as a missionary in Lafayette, immediately adjoining New Orleans. As the warm season came on his health grew worse, and he set out with his family to visit the western country for the improvement of his health. While between Natchez and Vicksburg, on a steamboat, he was seized with cholera, was landed at Vicksburg, and in a few hours expired, in perfect peace and triumph. Among the last words which he uttered were, "My work is done." He has deservedly received the title of "Apostle of the Choctaws." Through his instrumentality God opened the door of faith to that people. He was first to accompany them to the west, and never left them until his health failed. His memory is embalmed in the hearts of his brethren.

 This memoir belongs to last year, but was not received in time for insertion.—Eds.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

7. Daniel B. Barlow, the subject of this notice, was born in Richland district, S. C., on the 9th of August, 1806. When about twenty years of age he was converted, and in 1829 was admitted on trial in the Mississippi annual conference. He filled several important stations with dignity and usefulness. In the division of the conference, he fell into the Alabama conference, a deacon of one year. His exposure to the inclemency of the weather and the privations of an itinerant ministry, having fastened an inflammation upon his lungs, it terminated in consumption; and at the conference of 1837 he was placed on the superannuated list; and on the 12th of December, 1838, he closed his earthly career at the residence of the Rev. John French. His departure was in peace, and under the cheering prospect of a blissful immortality. The day before his death he said to his father that his way was clear, and he wanted to be gone to heaven. Surely

> "The chamber where the good man meets his fate
> Is privileged beyond the common walks of life,
> Quite in the verge of heaven."

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

8. George A. Chappell.—No memoir received.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

9. Benjamin Bell, the subject of this memoir, was born in Montgomery co., N. C., Nov. 15, 1801; was born again Aug. 9, 1818; licensed to preach Aug. 5, 1825, and admitted on trial in the travelling connection at the conference in Milledgeville, Ga., Jan., 1826.

After having served the church as a probationer for two years, he was received into full connection, and ordained a deacon, at the conference in Camden, S. C., Feb., 1828. He was elected and ordained an elder at the conference in Columbia, S. C., 1830, and continued to fill his appointments each year successively, and was very successful in his work of preaching the gospel of the grace of God until 1833; when, at the conference in Lincolnton, N. C., the same year, he received a superannuated relation. His health being much improved, he was returned effective at the conference in Charleston, 1834. He continued to labour effectively on all the appointments he filled, until 1838, when, at the conference in Columbia, S. C., he again obtained a superannuated relation to the conference on account of ill health. He departed this life June 27, 1838, in Anson co., N. C., in full assurance of a blissful immortality.

Of our esteemed brother Bell it may be said he was both the Christian and the gentleman, and always possessed a deep sense of personal honour, and the purest veneration of the Christian character. He was uniform as a Christian, as a Christian minister diligent. He possessed more than ordinary talents; and, by the success attending his ministry, he showed himself to be "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." For the institutions of the Methodist Episcopal Church he possessed warm attachments, and was very successful in their promotion. As presiding elder he was careful in his supervision of the spiritual and temporal interests of the church.

As an agent of Cokesbury school he was attentive to all his duties; and even under deep affliction during his agency he was ever alive to the interests of the church, until finally he was, almost without a moment's warning, called from his field of labour. Of his last moments, when he triumphed over his final foe, we can have no better testimony than is given in his obituary in the Southern Christian Advocate. It is there said,—

"At sunset we retired to secret prayer, as oft we had done before; and in the evening, about nine o'clock, after family prayer was concluded, we parted for the night. About twelve o'clock I was awakened at the request of sister Bell, and called to his assistance. When I entered the room I found his body in a convulsive fit, and his mind delirious. After a few moments he had one lucid interval, which was the only one. I then, believing his time was short, asked him as follows: 'My dear brother, is your heart now fixed on Jesus?' He answered, 'Yes.' 'Have you now confidence in him?' 'O yes.' 'Do you believe that you are now prepared for whatever may be the event of this affliction?' 'I trust I am.' 'Do you now see your way clear if God should call you away?' 'Yes.' After this he spoke no more, but became weaker and weaker, until about four oclock, A. M., June 27, when he sweetly fell asleep in the arms of Jesus, after about seven hours of extreme suffering. But for him to die was gain; for though he spoke not, yet there was a heavenly calm resting on his face, which spoke to us, who kneeled about his bed, in language not to be misunderstood. 'I have met and conquered.' There was not a struggle or groan to mark the last moment. So sweet and easy was it, that the smile remained after the spirit was gone, as if to be a beautiful token of its peaceful departure, and of its triumphant entrance into eternal rest."

10. The Rev. John Bunch, a faithful and laborious missionary, who departed this life, in the full assurance of hope, on the 7th of September, 1838.

He was a native of Charleston district, and was awakened and converted to God in the seventeenth year of his age. Two years after his conversion he was admitted on trial into the itinerancy, where his studious habits, humble manners, and unreserved devotedness to God, gained for him the confidence of his brethren and of all who knew him. Ill health, occasioned in part, if not principally, by excessive ministerial labour, induced him to locate, after some eight or ten years passed successfully as a travelling preacher. But he was zealous and useful as a local preacher, labouring to the extent of his ability, and very acceptably. His health having improved, he returned to the itinerancy in the year 1829, and travelled successively the Congaree, Santee, and Black River circuits. In 1833 he was appointed to the mission on North and South Santee, where he laboured with most exemplary diligence and patience for four years, preaching four or five times every sabbath, besides walking several miles from one plantation to another, and during the week catechising the children and visiting the sick. Many will bless God in the great day of eternity that they ever heard his voice.

The last year of his life he was engaged in the work of a missionary on Cooper River, an extensive field, which he was the first to occupy, and occupied with his usual and successful industry.

He was an affectionate husband and fond father—a man of incorruptible integrity—an humble, heavenly-minded Christian—a weighty, evangelical preacher. His family have their hope in heaven alone, where his dying accents charged them to meet him. The church militant cannot but mourn her loss in his removal, while she will still look to her great Head to fill with faithful labourers the places of those who have fallen.

"Soldier of Christ, well done!
Rest from thy loved employ:
The battle 's fought, the victory 's won—
Enter thy Master's joy!"

11. Thomas D. Turpin was born in Somerset county, Md., June 30, 1805. He was blessed in his youth with the watchful care of a pious mother, who was a communicant in the Episcopal Church; professed conversion in the city of Baltimore, Sept. 8, 1823 and received the witness of sanctifying grace in Augusta, Ga., Feb. 18, 1827. He retained this evidence six or eight months; but in consequence of rejecting a call to the itinerant ministry, preferring a local situation to the difficulties of an itinerant life, he lost it. At length, however, he consented to give up all, and spend and be spent in the service of his Master; and again obtained the blessing of perfect love, which he enjoyed till the day of his death. He was licensed to preach Sept. 12, 1827, recommended to the annual conference from the district conference held in Lincoln county, Ga., Oct. 24, 1828, and on Feb. 7, 1829, commenced his labours in the itinerant field, and was appointed to the Union circuit. In 1830 he was appointed to Pendleton, and ordained deacon. In 1831 to Savannah mission; in 1832 to Black Swamp circuit, and ordained an elder; in 1833 to May and New River; in 1834 to Wadmatane and John's Island mission and Orangeburg circuit; in 1835 to Pee Dee; in 1836 to Laurens; in 1837 to Pendleton, and in 1838 to Cambridge and Flat Woods' mission, where he ceased at once to labour and live. He was taken sick on the 17th July last, on his way to one of his regular appointments, which he reached, but was not able to deliver to them his last message. The next day he returned to his family, who were at the Diamond Springs, in Abbeville district. His disease was conjestive fever, with which he suffered nine days. He bore his sufferings with that meekness and fortitude which become the Christian, and with that evenness of temper which was the characteristic of his whole life. At the commencement of his illness he did not enjoy as much of the presence of the Lord as he desired, owing to bodily pain, which diverted his mind from the subject of religion. But not content to remain in this state, he sent for a Presbyterian minister who was near, and told him "he wished the prayers of a man of God." The minister inquired into the state of his mind, and then knelt by his bedside, and prayed with and for him. While engaged in prayer the Spirit of the living God came down, the clouds dispersed, and he was enabled to rejoice. This peace and joy of mind he possessed uninterruptedly ever after. On the morning of the day of his death his symptoms suddenly became worse, as was evident to every one present except himself; but he did not experience an increase of pain. His physician was sent for, who immediately perceived that his departure was at hand. He communicated the heart-rending intelligence to his afflicted wife, and she, as soon as she could, (for it was a severe trial to her,) made it known to her husband, who received it with a smile, and thanked her for telling him. Just then his physician coming in, he turned to him, and said, "I suppose you think my case a hopeless one? Be not afraid to tell me the worst; for the idea of death does not alarm me. I have made it a subject of consideration ever since I was a boy, and have been living in reference to it. He seemed to lament that his life had not been more useful, but his whole trust was in the merits of a crucified Redeemer. He was not favoured with the presence of any of his Methodist brethren in the ministry in his last moments, but was much comforted by two ministers of the Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Isaac Waddle and Charles Martin, whose kind attention and Christian communion he appreciated much. About two hours before he left these mortal shores he seemed to be much engaged in prayer, that he might be supported in his last conflict. He then looked around on all that stood near him, and exhorted them to seek the religion of Jesus Christ! To his physician he said, "What a blessed religion is this, that supports me in such an hour!" He then called his little son, of four years of age, and took him in his arms, and told him his father was dying, and asked him if he would be a good boy, and mind all his mother would tell him. Then putting his hand on his head, he prayed fervently that God would preserve him from the evils of this sinful generation, and make him an heir of eternal glory. Having next called for his little daughter, two years old, and in the same manner prayed for her, he embraced them both, and bid them farewell. He then turned to his wife, and after expressing his kind regard for her, commended her in the most solemn manner to an all-wise God, who had promised to be the orphan's friend and the widow's God; he also prayed that she might have grace to train her children aright. He then took an affectionate leave of her, and left a kind message for his absent friends. And finally he prayed for all present, and the ministry of all denominations, that all might be preserved from sectarian feelings. He also prayed for all the churches, the whole world, and last of all his kindred in the flesh. Then folding his hands on his breast, he commended his spirit to God who gave it. Thus he died July 26, 1838, in the thirty-fourth year of his age, and the tenth of his ministry. His remains were interred in the Smyrna church, Cokesbury circuit. His funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. Isaac Waddle, from Num. xxiii, 10, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

12. Rowland G. Bass was born in Powhattan county, Va., on the 30th of June, 1808. He was blessed with a pious mother, from whom he received sound religious instruction, and by whose example, exhortations, and prayers, he was led to an early remembrance of his Creator. While he was yet young he felt the necessity of religion, and frequently attempted the performance of its duties; but was as often deterred in his efforts by the fear of ridicule, and the example of his ungodly associates. His religious impressions adhered to him through "the days of his youth," and impelled him frequently to pour out his prayers to God in secret places. And in the spring of 1825 his feelings were powerfully quickened by the conversion of an associate, the child of vain and irreligious parents. This fact gave him great alarm, causing him to fear that, from his superior advantages as the child of a praying mother, and his repeated resistances of the Spirit, he had so sinned as to forfeit the mercy of God. Yet his convictions of religious truth and duty were aroused, his hopes awakened, and his resolutions of amendment strengthened. Thus hoping in God, he was gently led to the mercy seat, and on the 2d of July "found peace and joy in believing." Soon after his conversion he felt that "a dispensation of the gospel was committed unto him," and though several years elapsed before he yielded full obedience to the conviction, yet the impression increased upon his mind until he was thrust out into the work of the ministry. He was received on trial in the travelling connection in 1830, and appointed to Mecklenburg circuit. He entered upon his labours "in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling;" but confident of the rectitude of his intentions, and the designation of God to the office and work of the ministry. To this work he was wholly given up, and in it continued, with increasing influence and usefulness, until the period of his dissolution. In the different fields of his labour he was esteemed as a zealous and faithful minister of Jesus Christ; full of good works, and abundant in efforts for the salvation of souls, and the prosperity of the church. In his hands no enterprise of the church was suffered to languish. He was an active and efficient agent of the tract, sabbath-school, missionary, and temperance cause; always at work, and using all means to do good; and he was owned of God, and his labours blessed to the salvation of many souls. He was successful in the conversion of souls at most of his appointments: in some he was honoured as the instrument of distinguished revivals; in all he was "a faithful dispenser of the word of life;" giving all diligence to "do the work of an evangelist," and "make full proof of his ministry." His talents were less showy than solid; and the secret of his success in doing good lay in the patient and persevering application of the instrumentalities of the gospel to the enlightenment and holiness of men. The propriety and power of these plans were seen in the effects that followed them; nor were they less visible in their influence on the formation of his own character for holiness and zeal. They were primary rules in the government of his life and the direction of his efforts; and hence the success of his ministry, and his pious submission in "counting his life not dear unto himself, so he might win souls to Christ, and finish his course with joy." In both these respects he was clothed with honour, and crowned with triumph; for God commanded his blessing, even life for evermore, to rest upon him. He was a good man, full of good fruits, and faithful in all things.

In all the relations of life brother Bass sustained an irreproachable character. As a husband and father, he was indulgent, attentive, and affectionate; as a Christian, he was humble, sincere, and devout; possessing, in an eminent degree, "the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit;" and, as a minister, he was modest in his demeanour, upright and open in his designs, "patient in doing good and bearing ill;" and persevering in his endeavours to bring men to the knowledge of God, and the hope of eternal life. In his last sickness, and even in death, he evinced the simplicity and power of his confidence in Christ, and experienced the plenitude of divine grace in comforting and sustaining his soul in affliction, and amid the shocks of dissolution. On the 9th of December, 1838, he bade adieu to his family and friends; left an affectionate farewell for his brethren of the conference, and calmly fell asleep in Jesus; exchanging the toils and trials of time for the rest and rewards of eternity.

13. Robert C. Jones was born in Petersburg, Va., on the 23d of December, 1808. He received a classical education at William and Mary College, at which he graduated during the twentieth year of his age. After finishing his education he studied law, and was prepared to enter upon the duties of his profession before his twenty-fourth year. He embraced religion in November, 1833, and losing his wife soon after, he felt that it was his duty to enter upon the office and work of the ministry, and to invite sinners to "repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ." He accordingly commenced travelling as a Methodist preacher, under the direction of the presiding elder of the James' River district, in 1835. He was admitted on trial in the Virginia annual conference, at the session held in Norfolk, in February, 1836, and appointed in charge to the Rappahannock circuit, where he laboured acceptably and successfully. In 1837 he was appointed to the Charlottesville station. Here he acquitted himself as a man of God,—ceaseless and arduous in his work, and successful in "winning souls to Christ." At the conference held in the city of Richmond, in 1838, he was elected to the office of a deacon, and ordained by Bishop Morris. From the conference he was sent to the Charlotte circuit, as a light and healthy field of labour; for his constitution, originally feeble, had already given strong indications of failure. He went to his field of labour, and entered upon his duties with customary zeal; but just as the prospect of success was opening before him, he was compelled, by the rapid approach of disease, to cease from his work, and seek in rest and retirement a restoration to health and vigour. The attempt was ineffectual. On the 27th of June he was taken with his last illness, which continued, with alternate hope and fear, for thirty-six days. During his sickness he partook of the sacrament of the Lord's supper. It was a season of great quickening and joy to his soul. The visits of Christian friends in his illness were received with great kindness, and generally improved as occasions of pious conversation, singing, and prayer. He evinced a tender concern for the salvation of those who visited him, by exhorting them to glorify God, and get to heaven. At a time of great weakness he was asked if "that Jesus, whom he preached to others, then supported and comforted him?" He answered promptly in the affirmative, and added, "For me to live is Christ, but to die is gain;" and, smiling, said to the doctor, "O the idea of meeting Jesus!" In this calm and happy frame of mind he continued till the 2d of August, 1838, when he was gathered to his fathers, and entered into rest.

As a Christian, brother Jones stood in the foremost rank of faithful men. He was humble and tractable in his disposition, cheerful and contented in his feelings, and submissive and obedient to those "to whom the charge and government over him were committed, following with a glad mind and will their godly admonitions." He experienced not only the pardoning love of God, but was a witness of the sanctifying power of the blood of Christ.

As a minister of Jesus Christ, though young, he was dignified, and every way respectable. In his preaching, his visiting, his oversight of the flock, his social intercourse, and in all his purposes and his whole deportment, he honoured his Lord and Saviour. The missionary fire burned in his heart, and he gave his money and himself to the blessed and glorious cause of missions. He surrendered himself to episcopacy, to serve in any part of the missionary field, wherever they thought it proper to send him. But God took him to higher and holier employments in the heavenly temple, and he worships with the redeemed multitudes before the throne.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

14. Joseph Rowan, the subject of this notice, was born in Dorchester county, Eastern Shore of Maryland, Jan. 19, 1770. His parents were respectable, and nominally attached to the Church of England. Brother Rowan, however, grew up indifferent to the subject of religion, until in the seventeenth year of his age God in his providence gave him an opportunity of hearing the Methodist preachers. In a short time after he became deeply convinced of sin, and in August, 1787, was received by the Rev. Joseph Everett on probation in the Methodist Episcopal Church. He sought the mercy of God, amid many trials, in much prayer, until the 9th of August of the following year, when the Lord spoke peace to his troubled soul. In allusion to this event his language was, "The power of God broke in upon my soul, and my will appeared to be swallowed up in the will of God. Unbelief in a moment gave way, and the Lord lifted upon me the light of his countenance! The guilt, burden, and condemnation of sin were gone, and my heart was filled with love, peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost."

Brother Rowan served the church in the several offices of class leader, exhorter, and local preacher, until September, 1792, when he was received into the travelling connection, and appointed to the Annamessex circuit, Eastern Shore of Maryland.

For nearly forty years he laboured in the different stations and circuits assigned him within the bounds of the Philadelphia and Baltimore conferences, (excepting a few years, during which he was in a located state,) and his sermons were always marked by zeal, intelligence, and success. Those who have been accustomed to hear him will witness to the extraordinary animation which accompanied the delivery of his discourses even in his old age. His abilities as a minister of Christ were above mediocrity. Many, very many, precious souls were, through his instrumentality, happily converted to God; many of whom are already gone, and become gems in the crown of his rejoicing. Brother Rowan terminated his earthly career in the city of Washington on the 31st day of May, 1838. Though deprived of the opportunity of leaving his dying testimony, we satisfactorily judge from his life that his death was peaceful, and that he now rests from his labours.

Brother Rowan lived and died in the possession of the confidence of his brethren, and of all who were intimately acquainted with his useful and upright life.

15. Of brother JOHN WATSON we have been able to gain but very limited information. His life, conversion, and experience have not been brought to the notice of the committee. We learn that he was born in Calvert county, Md.; was received into the travelling connection in the year 1792, and was superannuated in 1825; in which relation he continued until the period of his death, which happened at Mr. Weller's, near Martinsburg, Berkley county, Va., some time in the early part of the summer of 1838.

The Rev. James Watts, to whom we are indebted for our information of the last hours of brother Watson, states, that "in a conversation with him shortly before his death, he gave him assurance that his prospects were cheering, and that he fully expected to go to the rest remaining for the people of God. He was happy in view of death and eternity. He stated that the Lord had been his friend so long, he surely would not now forsake him. There is no doubt that our venerable brother is now safely lodged in Abraham's bosom."

16. Rev. THOMAS J. DORSEY. In the early death of this servant of God, the church laments the loss of an efficient and valuable labourer in the vineyard of the Lord. In early life he gave himself to God and his church. He was received on trial into the itinerancy March, 1819. Upon the lapse of the usual term of four years, (during which he was laboriously employed in winning souls,) he graduated to elders' orders. For thirteen years brother Dorsey stood forth, active and zealous in the cause of God; untiring in his assiduities for the salvation of his fellow-men. During a portion of the aforenamed period he was engaged as the able advocate of the temperance cause.

The severity of our brother's toils at length undermined a constitution originally vigorous, and brought on a complication of diseases, which compelled him reluctantly to take a superannuated relation in the church. He lingered amid increasing debility, both of mind and body, until on sabbath morning, June 3, 1838, at the house of the Rev. J. Wells, in the vicinity of Baltimore, he surrendered his spirit into the hand of his God. Released from the sorrows and labours of humanity, he has gone to join the redeemed in heaven, and to reap the fruit of his labours.

We record among the excellences of our departed brother, that he was free and open in his character, amiable in his disposition, and courageous for the truth. We doubt not his has been the privilege to receive the rich awards of Him who saith, "They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars for ever and ever."

17. JAMES J. HOUSEWEART was born in the state of New Jersey, on the 15th day of August, 1806. Soon after his parents removed to Northumberland county, Pa., where the subject of this memoir embraced religion in the fifteenth year of his age. He immediately united himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, and soon gave evidence that the Lord had called him to work in his vineyard. In August, 1831, he received license as a local preacher, and in 1834 was received on trial by the Baltimore annual conference, and continued to travel until the year 1838, when he was ordained elder, and appointed to the Mattewoman circuit. Here his health, which had been delicate, began more rapidly to decline, and he soon became totally disqualified for the arduous (yet to him delightful) duties of an itinerant minister. With the consent of the proper authorities of the church, and the counsel of his medical advisers, he relinquished his charge, and sought relief by retiring to a part of the country better adapted to his constitution. Here it was thought that by spending the winter in the south his health might be restored. With this view he repaired to Baltimore for the purpose of embarking for Charleston, S. C.; but the ravages of disease were such as not only to forbid the undertaking, but to cut off all hope of recovery; and he returned to the family of his old and well-tried friend, Dr. James Owens, where with calmness and resignation he awaited the approach of the last enemy, who soon came, but not to alarm, for he had lost his sting, and victory was proclaimed by our brother in the language of our venerable M'Kendree, "All is well! all is well! I feel that Christ is with me; I never had such happy feelings in all my life!" It surely was a happy and holy place where this good man met the summons to depart. Those who were best acquainted with the deceased are best satisfied that his end was peace.

NEW JERSEY CONFERENCE.

18. Thomas Morrell was born in November, 1747, and died Aug. 9, 1838, in great peace, at Elizabethtown, N. J. During the struggle for American independence, which was previous to his conversion to God, he rendered important service in the defence of his country; in which scene he was severely wounded in the battle on Long Island. He was awakened and converted to God through the instrumentality of the Rev. John Hagerty, in 1783; and was soon fully persuaded that God had called him to the work of the ministry. Accordingly he commenced his ministerial labours, which were eminently useful and successful. He was admitted into the travelling connection in 1787, and stationed on Elizabethtown circuit. He was afterward appointed to labour in the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other prominent places, where his labours were signally owned of God in promoting powerful and extensive revivals of religion. In 1803, on account of infirmity of body, he was under the necessity of taking a different relation to the conference, and settled in Elizabethtown, N. J., where he laboured and preached as his health would permit, until 1835: he then became so feeble that he was unable to preach. From this period his health continued to decline. In his last illness, which was protracted, he suffered much from soreness of throat and an asthmatic affection; but he suffered patiently; he suffered as a Christian. His last moments were those of peace and heavenly triumph; and thus he died in the Lord.

Brother Morrell possessed a strong and vigorous mind, which remained almost unimpaired by the infirmities of age until the last. As a preacher he was talented and acceptable. His preaching was characterized by a boldness and energy peculiarly striking. "He spake as one having authority;" and God owned his word to the edification of the church, and conversion of many souls:—but

"His work is done—his labour's o'er;—
He suffers toils and weeps no more;
But shares an endless rest."

NEW YORK CONFERENCE.

19. Samuel Merwin was born in Durham, Conn., Sept. 13, 1777, and while quite young removed with his parents into New Durham, N. Y. Here, under the paternal roof he was instructed in the things of God. From his childhood he was more or less the subject of religious fear. Under a funeral discourse he became deeply awakened: he earnestly sought and found salvation through Christ; but being a mere lad, and having no one to take him by the hand, he soon fell back again to the world. It was not, however, long before, through the instrumentality of the Methodists, after continued and severe struggles, he was again brought into the liberty of the sons of God. Immediately he declared what had been done for his soul, at the same time exhorting his neighbours to flee the wrath to come. The church looked upon him as a messenger of the cross, and thrust him out into her vineyard. When scarcely twenty years of age he was employed by the presiding elder to labour on a portion of the Delaware district, in the New York Conference. In the year 1800 he was received on trial in the same conference, at its annual session. In this, and other conferences, he continued to labour till called to his reward. He departed in peace, in the sixty-second year of his age, on the 13th of last January, in the town of Rhinebeck, after having been engaged in preaching the gospel for about forty years. During a great part of his ministerial career he suffered much through bodily infirmity, arising from a complication of diseases. Several times he was brought extremely low, so that his life was despaired of by his friends; but to their astonishment was raised up as from the dead.

For a long time brother Merwin occupied an eminent place in the itinerant ranks, and was repeatedly called to fill important stations in the New York, New England, Baltimore, and Philadelphia conferences. He was peculiarly qualified to adjust differences, to settle difficulties, to administer consolation to the afflicted, and to detect and expose the deceitful and designing. He was a man of great punctuality: he suffered nothing but sickness, or some other unavoidable cause, to keep him from his post. Indeed, when labouring under disease, which might have excused him, he would travel, and preach, and perform the other duties which had been assigned him by the church. As a presiding elder he was remarkable for his fidelity and diligence. But few have filled that office who have denied themselves more than he did the comforts of domestic life, of which he was exceedingly fond, for the purpose of advancing the interests of his district, and publishing the glad tidings of the gospel. His personal appearance, especially in the pulpit, was unusually commanding; his voice melodious, clear, and strong, so that he could be heard distinctly over assemblies of the largest extent; and he spoke not only eloquently, but in demonstration of the Spirit and with power; and many souls were given him as the seals of his ministry. Brother Merwin loved his church, and was most ardently devoted to its interests. Wise in counsel, and skilled in execution, he was always ready to step forward in defence of its injured rights:—he was the friend of all its literary and benevolent institutions;—to support them he gave his influence and his money;—his voice too was often heard, powerfully and successfully pleading their respective claims. But he has gone, and "precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints!"

20. Smith Arnold was born in Middlebury, Conn., March 31, 1766. His parents were members of the Church of England, and he was educated in its principles and forms. But though in early life observant of the forms of religion, he was wholly unacquainted with its saving power. When about twenty-three years of age he married and removed to Herkimer county, in the state of New York. Here, for the first time, he listened to a discourse from a Methodist minister. It was delivered by the Rev. Jonathan Newman, one of the first pioneers of Methodism in that part of the country. No permanent religious impressions, however, were made upon his mind until subsequently, when the sudden death of a neighbour was made instrumental in awakening him to a serious concern for his soul. His anguish of spirit was great, and long protracted.

He sought counsel of his former associates, but found them as ignorant of the way of salvation as himself. At length the Rev. Mr. Newman again visited that section of the country, and was made the honoured instrument of his conversion to God. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was soon appointed to lead a class. Being eminently useful in this important station, he was soon licensed to exhort, and subsequently to preach. As a local preacher he approved himself to the church, and his labours were owned of God. In the year 1800 he connected himself with the itinerant ministry, and continued in the field of active labour until 1821, when he received a supernumerary relation. During his active services he was permitted to labour in several revivals of religion, which were both extensive and powerful.

Having continued within the bounds of the New York conference in a supernumerary or superannuated relation until the year 1838, he removed to the city of Rochester. About the commencement of the year 1839 his health began rapidly to decline. His disease was extremely painful, but was borne with Christian resignation. During its early stages he frequently remarked that since he had relinquished his active labours he had suffered loss in spirituality. The Rev. Mr. Tooker, presiding elder of the Rochester district, observes, that with "tears he expressed his deep anxiety to recover those clear and animating views which had so often caused him to triumph when he stood as a public sentinel upon the walls of Zion." It was not long before his desires were gratified. While the symbols of the Saviour's sufferings were administered, the grace which those sufferings purchased was imparted;—the Sun of righteousness shone forth upon his soul, and the occasion was rendered a blessing to all present. The joyous assurance with which he was now favoured is well expressed in the following lines, in which he uttered the pious breathings of his soul:—

"There is my house and portion fair—
My treasure and my heart are there,
And my abiding home:
For me my elder brethren stay,
And angels beckon me away,
And Jesus bids me come."

"His mind," says the Rev. Mr. Tooker, "remained peaceful, with occasional seasons of ecstasy, to the last." He died on the 16th of March, 1839, aged seventy-three years.

21. John Finnegan was born May 29, 1767, in the town of Caron, county of Tyrone, Ireland. He embraced religion in the twentieth year of his age, sailed for America June the 8th, 1791, and landed in New York on the 12th of August following. He was admitted on trial in the New York conference September, 1795, and continued in the travelling ministry until 1816, when he received a location, and remained local for several years. He again entered the travelling connection, in which he continued until his death, which took place August 14, 1838. His death was sudden and unexpected;—he ate his supper, as usual; manifested no indisposition, and retired to rest. Shortly after his daughter heard something fall in his room, and on entering found him prostrate on the floor, speechless; and in a few minutes he expired.

Brother Finnegan was, we believe, a good man: he feared not death. He said to a friend but a few days before his departure, that Christianity did not admit of the fear of death, and through grace he was enabled to rejoice in the victory. And we have no doubt but he is now rejoicing with the saints in heaven. The Lord giveth his servants rest.

22. John D. Bangs was born in the town of Kortright, Delaware county, N. Y., on the 7th of May, 1813. The son of Christian parents, and the child of many prayers, he was "trained up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." Thus a foundation was laid for consistent piety and future usefulness.

Converted to God at the age of fourteen, and shortly after received into the Methodist Episcopal Church, he gave early evidence of his soundness in the faith, and his love to Christ. That love soon constrained him to call sinners to repentance.

He commenced his labours as an exhorter among the inhabitants of his native town, and soon furnished proof of a divine call to the sacred ministry. Accordingly, on the 23d of June, 1835, he was licensed to preach by the quarterly conference of Bloomville circuit, and was soon after employed by the presiding elder of White Plains district to travel on Westport circuit. Leaving his home and friends, he immediately repaired to this new field of labour, where the Lord gave him favour with the people, and crowned his efforts with a gracious revival. His father, the Rev. John Bangs, for many years a worthy minister in the itinerant connection, received the good tidings with tears of joy.

From this circuit he was recommended to the New York annual conference, received on trial in the spring of 1836, and with the Rev. E. Oldrin appointed to Yonkers circuit. Here he laboured two years in harmony with his colleague, and with much benefit to the people.

The conference of 1838 being satisfied with his diligence in study, and pastoral duties, and his improvement in ministerial qualifications, he was admitted into full connection as a travelling preacher, and ordained a deacon in the church of God.

Receiving his appointment to Monroe and Newtown circuit, he removed without delay to the town of Trumbull, in Fairfield county, Conn., the centre of his field of labour. But here the heaviest afflictions awaited the trial of his faith: he had scarcely entered upon the duties assigned him when he was called to mourn the loss of his beloved wife. After a short illness, on the 15th of July, 1838, she departed this life: her end was peace.

Greatly exhausted by anxious watching at the bedside of his dying companion, and travelling all night with a few relatives who were conveying her remains to the place of interment, he was taken suddenly ill while standing at her newly opened grave, and was borne away from the mournful scene by his affectionate friends. From this attack he never recovered. It proved to be the scarlet fever, the same which had been so fatal to his consort. On the 21st of July, six days after her death, and in the triumphs of faith, he fell asleep in Jesus, in the twenty-sixth year of his age. Thus ended their sufferings and labours together; and in East Yonkers, side by side, their bodies rest in hope; and while friends mourn below, their spirits rejoice in paradise above.

Brother Bangs was a man of deep humility, sincere piety, strong desire for the salvation of souls, and good preaching talents. But God, who doeth all things well, saw fit to call him early in life from the field of conflict to his everlasting reward.

NEW ENGLAND CONFERENCE.

23. Wilbur Fisk, D. D., late president of the Wesleyan University, and bishop elect of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was born in Brattleboro', Vt., Aug. 31, 1792. At the early age of twelve years he became pious. The enjoyment of religion he subsequently lost while pursuing the studies of his "preparatory course." He first entered college at Burlington, Vt.; but the exercises of that institution being suspended in consequence of the war then raging between Great Britain and the United States, he repaired to Brown University, Providence, R. I., where he graduated with honour in 1815. He now commenced the study of law in the office of a distinguished attorney. In 1816 he removed to Baltimore, Md., and engaged as private tutor in a gentleman's family. Here, it is supposed, he continued the reading of law. Early in 1817 he was prostrated by a violent pulmonary disease, which well nigh terminated his life. He partially recovered; but was advised by his physicians not to follow any profession, the practice of which would require the exercise of the lungs. As soon as he was able he left Baltimore for the north, and had proceeded as far as Burlington, Vt., when he was again attacked by a violent lung affection. This sickness, by the blessing of God, was the means of reviving his religious impressions; and soon after, in a powerful revival of religion, then in progress in Lyndon, Vt., he had fully restored unto him the "blessings of this salvation." His attention was now directed from the bar to the pulpit. He joined the New England conference in 1818, and was stationed in Craftsbury, Vt. In 1819 and '20 he laboured with much success in Charlestown, Mass. While connected with this station he experienced a clear witness of perfect love, and continued in the enjoyment of the blessing during all his subsequent life. The latter part of his second year in Charlestown a severe sickness again brought him near the grave. He partially recovered; but being unable for the two following years to render much efficient service in the ministry, he was returned upon the Minutes supernumerary. In 1823 he resumed his itinerant labours in the office of presiding elder of Vermont district, and was discharging the duties of that office the third year when he was chosen principal of the Wesleyan Academy in Wilbraham. In June, 1824, he was appointed delegate to the General Conference in Baltimore, Md.; in 1828 to the General Conference at Pittsburg, Penn; and in 1832 to the General Conference at Philadelphia. In the latter part of 1828 he was elected bishop of the Canada conference, but declined the election from motives of duty. From the Wesleyan Academy he was called to the charge of the Wesleyan University. His tour to Europe, undertaken partly for the improvement of his health, and partly for the benefit of the Wesleyan University, he made in 1835–6; and while there was appointed representative of the General Conference of the United States to the Wesleyan Conference, England. While absent in Europe he was elected to the episcopacy of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States. He was welcomed on his return to America by thousands of delighted friends.

During his continuance on earth he employed himself unceasingly in the discharge of his official duties, and for the general interests of the church. The last few months of his life his health, already feeble, rapidly declined. His last illness was distressing in the extreme; but his soul triumphed over the agonies of the body, and wonderfully exhibited the power of that gospel which in life he so eloquently preached, and brightly adorned.

Thus he lived, occupying with singular ability some of the most responsible stations to which he could be called by the church; exerting an influence, second to none, over her whole communion, and enjoying the confidence and affection of her wide-spread membership. Thus he died, greatly beloved, and deeply lamented.

24. The Rev. George Stone was born in the town now called Webster, in July, 1805. He experienced religion at the age of nineteen, and united himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. After attending the Wilbraham Academy for some time, he, in the year 1828, was received on trial in the New England conference, and continued a worthy member till his death. His last station was at Mansfield, Mass., where he exhibited his usual piety, faithfulness, and devotion to the work of the ministry, and where he was greatly beloved by his people. He died on the last night of December, 1838, after a short sickness of nine days. At intervals, during his sickness, he was partially deranged; but at times his mental faculties were unimpaired, and his mind absorbed in heavenly contemplations. And when informed that there was no hope of his recovery, he said, "Glory to God!—it is a good time to die;—I am ready!"

Brother Stone has left a wife and five small children, whose condition appeals loudly to the sympathies and benevolence of the church.

MAINE CONFERENCE.

25. True Page was born at Gilmanton, N. H., in 1799. At the age of nine years his parents removed to Montville, Waldo county, in Maine. Here he was converted to God at the age of twelve years;—at the age of twenty he was licensed as a local preacher;—in 1820 he was admitted into the travelling connection, and appointed to Exeter, N. H.;—in 1821 he was appointed to Bristol, and remained two years;—in 1823 to Sidney circuit;—in 1824 to Bethel, and in 1825 and '26 to Durham. During his last year at Durham his health became enfeebled, under the influence of a severe cold, from which he never recovered. He patiently endured the protracted lingerings of pulmonary consumption for twelve years. He died in peace and Christian triumph on the 4th of September, 1838, in the thirty-ninth year of his age.

Brother Page was a man of God;—his great business was the salvation of souls;—he laboured incessantly for the good of the church;—he was of remarkably amiable temper, and blameless in life and conversation. As a preacher he was acceptable, and he never failed to secure the affection of the people among whom he laboured.

NEW HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

26. Rev. Roswell Putnam, the subject of this memoir, was born at Middlesex, Vt., March 2, 1799. When about twenty years of age he sought and obtained the pardoning mercy of God, and soon connected himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church in that place. Being persuaded that the Lord had called him to the work of the ministry, he commenced labouring for the salvation of souls the following year. In 1822, having consecrated himself fully to God and his cause, he was received by the New England conference as a probationer in the travelling connection, and received his first appointment to Thomastown circuit, Me. In 1823 he was appointed to Craftsbury circuit. At the Barnard Conference, in 1824, he was ordained deacon by Bishop George; stationed on Wethersfield circuit, where he laboured two years. In 1826, at the Wilbraham conference, he was consecrated to the office of an elder, under the administration of Bishop George, and appointed to Lancaster circuit. The next year he travelled Middleton circuit, and the following Gilmanton and Northfield. At the Portsmouth session in 1829 the New England conference was divided, and a new one constituted, called New Hampshire. The appointment of brother Putnam was to Kingston and Poplin circuit, within the bounds of the new conference. In 1830 he received a supernumerary relation, and was appointed to Unity circuit. The next year he laboured on Marlow circuit, and the following on Athens. At the Northfield conference in 1833 he was superannuated, with an understanding that should the state of his health allow him to preach any during the year he was to labour at Athens, and by mistake his name was affixed to that station as supernumerary. This accounts for the appearance of his name in the printed Minutes of that year, both among the superannuated men and those who were stationed. In 1834 his relation was changed to that of supernumerary, and he received an appointment to Athens circuit. The next year he was superannuated again; but in 1836 his health was so far improved, and his hopes so revived, that he requested and obtained an effective relation, and was appointed to Danville circuit. This was his last appointment from conference. The next year, and for the third time, he was superannuated. At our last conference, held at Danville, the superannuated relation of our worthy brother was continued, and under circumstances that forbade us to hope that it would ever be changed by any act of ours. Had we otherwise been disposed to believe that his health might be so improved as to enable him to bless the church and world with his labours, his own allusions to his dissolution would have blighted all hopes; for more than once he expressed the fullest conviction that ere we should convene again in conference capacity he should be removed to another world; and so it was: for on sabbath morning, the 9th of December last, his peaceful spirit took its flight for the regions of bliss. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." It may be said, in truth, that the preaching talents of our departed brother were good,—that he was uniformly pious, and that, to the end of his health and strength, he was a faithful labourer in the vineyard of the Lord. It may also be said, and with equal truth, that few men have received a more entire and uninterrupted confidence of the members of their conference than brother Putnam, and as few who have shared more fully in their affections. About two months previous to his death, and when he could only speak in a suppressed whisper, being interrogated by a brother in the ministry how he viewed that gospel he had so often preached to others, he replied, "Never did that gospel appear so valuable as at the present, and never did I see my nothingness, aside from divine grace, as I now do, and never was that grace more sweet." A short time before his departure he said to another brother who called to visit him, "I am calm and peaceful;—I have a good hope." He continued in this frame of mind until his summons came, when he calmly fell asleep in Christ.

TROY CONFERENCE.

27. Rev. Wright Hazen was born in the year 1800, in the town of Kent, Putnam county, N. Y., and departed this life, in the triumphs of faith, Nov. 12, 1838. He was converted in his youth; soon after which he evinced to his brethren that the great Head of the church had called him to work in his vineyard. Accordingly he was licensed as a local preacher in the spring of 1826, and in May, 1827, was admitted on trial in the travelling connection, and appointed to Halfmoon circuit, where he laboured for two years. In 1829 he was ordained deacon, admitted into full connection, and appointed to Luzerne circuit. In 1831 he was ordained elder, and appointed to Hoosick and Bennington circuit, where he continued two years. In 1833–4 he was stationed on Adams circuit;—1835, Waterford;—1836, West Troy;—1837, Cambridge circuit; and in 1838 on Greenwich circuit; where he ended his life and labours, and entered into rest. He died of pulmonary consumption, in great peace, perfect resignation, and triumphant faith. "That gospel which I have preached to others," said he, "I find to be my support and comfort in this trying hour. The cradle of death is fast rocking me away into eternity, and I am sure it rocks easy." Brother Hazen was a man of sound understanding—mild and even disposition—deep and solid piety—both a gentleman and a Christian—a good pastor to the flock of Christ, and a respectable and successful minister of the New Testament.

ERIE CONFERENCE.

28. Rev. Francis A. Dighton was born in the township of Northeast, Erie county, Pa., October 7, 1812. He was the second son of Dr. Ebenezer and Mary Dighton. His father having died before he was two years old, he was brought up and educated by his mother and grandfather, John Kent. He experienced religion June 24, 1827, it is believed, at a camp meeting held in the town of Villenova, state of New York. In 1833, being about twenty-one years of age, he was admitted into the travelling connection as a probationer, and laboured, during the two years of his probation, with acceptability and usefulness, on Westfield circuit, in the state of New York, and St. Clairsville circuit, in the state of Ohio; and was admitted into full connection and ordained deacon in 1835. This year he was appointed to Cleaveland station, and reappointed in 1836. The next year he obtained leave to travel as an agent for the American Bible Society. He entered upon the duties of his agency, and prosecuted them with success; but his health having failed, he was unable to continue his labour to the close of the year. At the conference held in August, 1838, he was superannuated. The disease with which he was afflicted continued to progress, and he died on the 26th of December following. His life in the ministry was short, extending to little over five years. He possessed, in more than an ordinary degree, considering his age, many of the qualifications of the minister of the gospel;—he easily acquired, and as easily retained, knowledge. Easy in his manners, agreeable in conversation, and eloquent in the pulpit, he generally possessed, in a high degree, the affection of the people among whom he laboured.

His audiences, generally large, listened with fixed attention to his sermons; and during the short period of his ministerial life he was the honoured instrument of bringing many sinners to repentance. He bore his last sickness, though lingering and painful, with Christian fortitude and patience; and in death found the Christ which he had preached to others a sufficient support.

BLACK RIVER CONFERENCE.

29. Calvin Danforth was the oldest son of Luther and Henrietta Danforth, of Fort Covington, Franklin county, N. Y. He was made acquainted with the consolations of pardoning mercy when quite young, and very early gave indications of public usefulness; and while he was yet an exhorter he was employed by the presiding elder of the Pottsdam district to travel on Canton circuit. At the close of the conference year he was licensed to preach, and recommended to the Oneida annual conference. At the session of the conference in Utica, in July, 1830, he was received on trial, and appointed to Wadding, on the St. Lawrence River. In 1831 he was appointed to Canton circuit, but laboured on Fabius circuit. In 1832 he was appointed to West Utica, and in 1833 to Rome. In all these places he left seals of his ministry. While he was at Utica he was seized with the cholera, then prevailing in that city, from which his constitution never wholly recovered. Before the close of the year at Rome his health so far declined, that on the following year he was superannuated. His medical advisers thought that a residence at the south would be favourable to his health. The first part of his residence there so improved it, that he attended the session of the Black River conference, of which he was a member, then held at Watertown. But the chilling winds of the north soon admonished him of the importance of a southern climate. He journeyed to Milledgeville, took up his residence there, and engaged in the study of medicine. He so far succeeded in that study as to become an acceptable and successful practitioner. But his health soon declined seriously. In the fall of 1838 he took up his residence at St. Augustine, Florida, with the hope that a still more southern climate might lengthen out his earthly pilgrimage; but the relentless hand of disease had fastened upon him, and refused to relinquish its fatal grasp; and the work of death was consummated May 15, 1839 when he expired at the Florida House, in the above city, calmly saying, "My witness is in heaven, and my record is on high." Thus lived, and thus died, this amiable, pious, and devoted brother. We embalm his memory in our hearts.

"By foreign hands his dying eyes were closed;
By foreign hands his decent limbs composed;
By foreign hands his humble grave adorn'd;
By strangers honour'd, and by strangers mourn'd."

ONEIDA CONFERENCE.

30. Joseph Brown, son of Rev. Jesse Brown, was born Nov. 9, 1812, and died in faith and great peace at the residence of his father, near Cooperstown, Nov. 26, 1838, in the twenty-sixth year of his age, and in the fourth year of his ministry. Though early instructed in the duties of Christianity by his pious parents, he became not a subject of the converting grace of God until the twentieth year of his age, in February, 1833. So soon as his probation for membership expired he was authorized to officiate in the church as an exhorter, and soon thereafter as a local preacher. He was received by the annual conference in the year 1835, and appointed to Sharon circuit;—the following year to Hamilton station. In the year 1837 he received deacons' orders, and was reappointed to the same charge; where his health failed in the midst of the year, and he received a superannuated relation to the conference at its following session. He was hastened to the itinerancy prematurely, and was appointed to charges succes sively of increasing responsibility:—he felt that necessity was laid upon him, and giving himself to the most intense application to study and pulpit preparation, preaching often, and with great earnestness, he early fell a sacrifice to his unconquerable thirst for improvement and preferment in the church of God, as an approved minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. His race was short, but honourable;—he is now numbered with the dead;—his body, with appropriate obsequies, has been committed to the tomb, in hope, unto the resurrection of the just, and his spirit has returned to God who gave it.

31. The Rev. Ross Clark was born of respectable parents in Halifax, Vt., Oct. 27, 1809. Under the instructions of a pious mother he received those early impressions which resulted in his conversion in the twenty-second year of his age. Having already become deeply convinced that a dispensation of the gospel was committed unto him, he deeply felt the need of a clean heart, in order to be useful in his high and holy vocation. Under these impressions he ceased not to wrestle in prayer till his soul was made perfect in love. This great blessing he retained till his Master called him home, witnessing to all, both in the pulpit and in the private circle, that the blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin. Being received into the Oneida conference at its session in Auburn, 1834, he was appointed the first year to Scipio, and the second to Le Ray circuit. This year, his health having become so far impaired by the labours and exposures connected with his charge, he was obliged to leave his circuit, and remain silent for several months; he was at the close of the year superannuated. Subsequent to this, his health having been partially restored, he was stationed at Camillus, where he continued two years; though for several months previous to the close of the last year he was so entirely prostrated in health that it was impossible for him to preach. He attended the ensuing conference at Ithaca, and with the rest of his class received elders' orders. But it was evident to all who saw him that his ministeral work was done. Consumption had marked him for its victim. With difficulty he was able to reach his home, where, after lingering for several months, he fell asleep in Jesus on the 30th of November, 1838, leaving a wife and two small children.

We cannot close this obituary of brother Clark without mentioning some of the excellences which adorned his character. Among these, his entire devotion to the cause of God was conspicuous;—he loved the work of the ministry above all other pursuits:—he laboured with a single eye to the glory of God and the salvation of souls; and though conscious that his zeal for the house of God was consuming his life, yet he laboured on, not counting his life dear to himself, so that he might finish his course in peace, and the ministry which he had received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God. He died young in years, but mature in his Christian character; and though his ministerial career was short, yet it was filled up with usefulness. Extensive revivals crowned his labours wherever he was sent. His patience in his last illness was extraordinary. Though his sufferings were acute and protracted, yet during the whole he was never heard to groan. In all things he gave thanks. To his patience and submission were added uniform peace and occasional joy. Such expressions as the following sometimes told the heaven within:—"In the multitude of my thoughts within me thy comforts delight my soul."—"Jesus is my Saviour; God is love; I feel him so." In the closing scene his reason continued perfectly clear and active to the last. Having bid farewell to all, and last of all to his wife, he fixed his eyes above, and said, "All is clear!—Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly, nor let thy chariot-wheels delay!"

32. Wilbur Hoag was born in Oswegatchie, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., May 12, 1806. He was at an early age solemnly impressed with the importance of religion; and, having Methodist parents, was trained from his very childhood to appreciate the precepts of Christianity, and the peculiarities of Methodism. From the place of his birth his parents emigrated to Upper Canada, where they remained for a while, and removed to Northumberland, (now Wilton,) Saratoga county, N. Y. Here, as often before, he was deeply convicted for sin, felt the need of a Saviour, and often prayed, not in form only, but with great earnestness and many tears. In 1821 he accompanied his father, a local preacher, to a camp meeting, held at Fort Miller, where, under a sermon preached by the late Bishop George, on Acts iii, 19, his convictions became so deep and distressing that he was constrained to cry out, "God be merciful to me a sinner." Heaven heard the cry of the penitent, and gave the answer of pardon and peace. He joined society soon afterward, and began to invite sinners to Christ. In 1822 he was duly authorized to exhort, and he continued to exercise his gifts till February, 1824, when he received license to preach.

He was received on trial in the Genesee conference in 1826, and appointed to Boston circuit. In 1827 he laboured on Lewiston circuit; on Perry, 1828—29; in 1830 on Bloomfield and Geneseo; in 1831 on Buffalo station; in 1832 he was appointed travelling agent for the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary; in 1833 he was stationed in Penn Yan; in 1834—35 in Canandaigua; in 1836 he travelled Groveland and Geneseo circuit; and in 1837 he laboured in Rochester, west station. During this year his health failed him, and he retired for a season. Release from his labours, and a change of scenery, operated favourably. He partially recovered his health, and returned to his station. He attended the session of conference at Elmira, and though his visage bore evident marks of declining health, he served as conference secretary with admirable ability. At this conference, in view of his impaired health, he was appointed to Groveland and Geneseo circuit, a light and agreeable field of labour. He went to his work with some degree of his usual energy, and continued his labours till some time in December, when he was visited with a paralytic shock; medical aid was called; he became convalescent; but an accumulation of infirmities co-operated to blast the prospect of his recovery. He lingered till about the 9th of April, when he sunk under the effect of a sudden spasmodic affection. After this event he became very drowsy, and it was difficult to arouse him sufficiently to take medicine or nourishment. The nature of his complaint, during its latter stages, did not permit him to converse much. The sabbath previous to his departure his afflicted wife read to him the memoir of the Rev. S. Merwin. When she came to the part which records Mr. Merwin's prayer, that he might "cease at once to work and live," brother Hoag called her attention, and said, that too had been his prayer. "I think my work as a minister is done. I have struggled for entire resignation to break down so young. I wish to do more for the church, but all things are rightly ordered. I feel perfectly at rest; and now, if it were the will of God, I should choose to depart." To his weeping partner he said, "God will support you;" to his daughter, "I feel for you, my child, still, for me it is better to depart." He said, "I wish I had done my work better. O how little I have done! I am deeply humbled; my brethren have kindly borne with my weakness." He wept, and said, "I love them all." After a while he began to rejoice, and said, "God will reward what I have done, though it be but little; he knows my weakness." About three days before his death he said, "My confidence in God is strong; this dreadful state of my nerves prevents my enjoying any thing as formerly, yet my trust is firm, and I have no fears or doubts about the future." He closed his pilgrimage in the 33d year of his age, April 12, 1839. His funeral sermon was delivered by his intimate friend, the Rev. L. Grant, to a large and deeply affected congregation; the text was Matthew xxiv. 44.

While in the death of brother Hoag the Genesee conference is deprived of one of its most efficient and useful members, his pious consort is left to mourn the loss of a kind husband, and his only child (a daughter of ten years) is bereaved of a provident and indulgent father.

Our brother was a man of quick perception, ready utterance, and of clear discrimination. He had both the temporal and spiritual interests of the church at heart, and his application to both was assiduous and persevering. He was apt and diligent in business; and in the discharge of all his official duties he displayed much affability of manners, and a promptness of decision for which few of his years and advantages have been distinguished. As a preacher he was highly esteemed; his delivery was free and forcible, and many souls were brought to Christ through his instrumentality.
